SLAYERS OF FRANKS NOW SUSPECTED IN 2 MORE CRIMES

Chauffeur Identifies Them as Men Who Kidnapped and Mutilated Him.

TRACY MURDER CHECKED UP

DEFENSE OPENS BATTLE

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Judicial procedure started today on the path which will end in hanging or the donning of prison stripes for Nathan F. Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, self-confessed kidnappers and slayers of 14-year-old Robert Franks.

And, almost before this procedure had fairly gotten under way, the two millionaires' sons and precocious post-graduate university students, one 19 and the other within a month of the same age, were accused of another shocking crime, that of kidnapping and performing a gland operation on Charles Ream, a taxicab chauffeur, five months ago. He identified them today as his assailants.

Furthermore, the police tonight were seeking evidence to connect the prisoners with the murder on Nov. 25 last of Freeman Louis Tracy, a University of Chicago student.

Tracy was kidnapped, slain by a bullet and thrown from an automobile after an attempt was made to perform on him the same operation that was performed on Ream.

Ream came to State's Attorney Crowe's office for an opportunity to view the murderers, having seen their pictures in the newspapers and believing them to be the men who performed the crude operation on him. As they were being led through the corridors of the State's Attorney's office to be turned over to Warden Wesley Westbrook of the county jail, Ream and a fellow-chauffeur watched them.

Identified by Operation Victim.

"It's them, it's them!" Ream suddenly cried, and fell back almost in a stupor, weeping and moaning.

The murderers who killed as an experiment did not even turn around. They had been instructed and warned by Clarence Darrow and Benjamin Bachrach, their counsel, to hear nothing, see nothing, say nothing.

Leopold was told of the charge made by Resm and asked if he and Loeb had attacked Ream.

"I'm sorry, I have nothing to say," he replied.

"If you didn't do it, why not say so now," was suggested.

"I must respectfully decline to answer without consulting counsel," he persisted.

That was as much as either would say after they had been permitted, by order of court, to confer with counsel. To such questions as "do you want a drink of water? shall we send out for cigarettes for you?" each in turn would murmur:

"I must respectfully decline to answer."

It was easy to perceive that counsel had told them they had already talked too much. Mr. Bachrach admitted as much. His concern now was to render the confession to the gruesome murder inadmissible as evidence against the pair, he said.

The kidnapping of Ream and his mutilation was a sensation in Chicago five months ago.

Ream Tells of His Kidnapping.

Tonight Ream told the story of the crime of which he was the victim follows:

"I was walking along the street, somewhere between Fifty-fourth Street and Fifty-fourth Place, when an automobile slid silently up to the curb. It scared me, it came so silently. I heard a sharp command. 'Hands up,' a young man shouted. It was Leopold. He had a pistol. 'Get in the car,' was the next order. I obeyed. I was scared.

"I entered the tonneau. The pistol was pressed against my stomach. I got a good clear look at both men. Their faces were stamped upon my mind.

"They had everything planned, just as they did in the Franks case. I was ordered to turn around in the seat, to put my head in the corner of the car and to put my hands behind my back. Instantly the coils of a small rope went around my wrists. Then a gag was pushed into my mouth and a rope was tied around my head, holding the gag firm. In another moment a bandage was slapped over my eyes. It was made secure. Then the beams of a flashlight fell upon my cheeks as they made sure the blindfold was secure.

"I was flopped into the bottom part of the car and a blanket or some heavy piece of cloth was spread out. Then I detected the odor of ether. I knew what was coming. I have been around hospitals. The odor grew stronger and I dropped off to sleep."

"When I awakened about three hours later I was on the prairie near 106th Street and Avenue G. That is within a mile of where Robert Franks's body was found and it is near a culvert and a railroad track. My clothes were half removed. The thing had happened. I was in great pain. I managed to crawl to a near by house and to notify the residents. They were frightened and ordered me away. I staggered on to the next house, where they took me in

Stone-Crusher That Annoys Professor Silenced by Court

WHITE PLAINS, June 2.—Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins today granted a permanent injunction to Professor Harris F. MacNeiss of Columbia University, restraining the Tuckahoe Stone Corporation from operating its quarry and stone-crushing plant. Testimony was given at a hearing that the dust from the quarry ruined the landscape and the noise from the stone-crusher disturbed Tuckahoe.

Justice Tompkins said in his decision: "I think the defendant's business is in violation of the restrictive covenant of the deeds conveying 400 or 500 lots of the North End Land and Improvement Company, from which the plaintiff and the defendant acquired their respective properties." He held that the grantor's intention was to exclude all manufacturing and business enterprises which might be offensive to the owners of homes.

JAPANESE CONSIDER AGREEMENT ENDED

Foreign Office Indicates That Now Laborers May Go to Canada and Mexico.

BUT WILL AWAIT OUR REPLY

Protest Meetings Continue, but Leaders Will Endeavor to Prevent Acts of Violence.

By WILFRID FLEISHER.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, June 2.—The statement embodied in the protest handed to the American Government by Ambassador Hanihara that "the sweeping provision of the new act, clearly indicative of discrimination against Japanese, have made it impossible for Japan to continue the undertakings assumed under the 'Gentlemen's Agreement,'" is said at the Foreign Office to constitute the formal notice of the termination of the "Gentlemen's Agreement" on the part of Japan, and it is stated that Japan is now free to send emigrants to Mexico and Canada, since her obligations under the agreement are terminated.

Since the United States has denounced the "Gentlemen's Agreement" Japan feels that there is no further obligation on her part to continue to observe any of the provisions of the agreement, which, besides limiting Japanese emigration to the United States, undertook to exercise "strict control over the emigration of Japanese laborers to foreign territories contiguous to the United States in order to prevent their surreptitious entry into the United States."

Officials of the Foreign Office stated that while they consider the "Gentlemen's Agreement" terminated, Japan will not change her emigration policy as yet and that the answer from Washington will be awaited before determining the date when laborers will be allowed to emigrate to territories adjoining the United States.

The Government continues to restrain public opinion, but there is a strong undercurrent of resentment manifesting itself against the Immigration bill, and several large protest meetings are being planned within the next few days. A body of thirty-five university associations will hold a protest meeting tomorrow and another public meeting is scheduled for Thursday.

Leaders to Counsel Caution.

Influential Japanese will continue to exert every effort to keep the people in hand and prevent any violence against American residents or damage to American property. The tactics followed by these men, who will by their prominence be able to figure on all committees which organize these meetings, will be to side with the public on the main issue in condemning the American action, but to exhort the public to refrain from violence in the best interests of the Japanese nation.

It is felt that it would be useless to try to suppress outright the resentment of the people at this stage. Officials feel that if the public can be held in check for the time being there will be little danger of an outburst in the future, when other events will in course of time detract public opinion from the immigration issue.

The Police Department feared that the tragedy of the unknown man who committed hara-kiri Saturday as a protest against the Immigration bill might further stir up public opinion against American residents, and particularly American missionaries, and all police stations throughout Japan have been asked to report the public reaction to the suicide, which was given wide publicity in Japanese newspapers.

Baron Sakatani, a member of the House of Peers and a former Minister of Finance, speaking at a farewell banquet in honor of Ambassador Woods last night, and referring to the immigration question, said:

"We are exercising strong self-restraint under the insult dealt us by Congress, which left an impression on the minds of the Japanese which needs no comment. Great harm has been done to our friendship, for it is dangerous to deal in an atmosphere poisoned by resentment.

"At this difficult hour, to have Ambassador Woods with us is indeed an unspeakable boon to the two countries. We Japanese confidently believe the Ambassador is equal to the task of improving conditions between the two countries."

Ambassador Woods, replying, said that the attitude of restraint and dignity of the Japanese people was in keeping with their great spiritual leaders of the past. "In your hands," he said, "largely

M'ADOO MEN CLAIM CONVENTION POWER; MAY PICK CHAIRMAN

J. Bruce Kremer of Montana Likely to Be Put Forward for Permanent Post.

NOT UNFRIENDLY TO SMITH

Belief Expressed That Governor's Delegates May Accept Him Without a Contest.

COMMITTEES TO BE CHOSEN

Aids Say McAdoo Will Have Majority on Organization, Credentials, Resolutions and Rules.

Supporters of William G. McAdoo will number thirty-two out of the fifty-two members of the Committee on Permanent Organization of the Democratic National Convention, his managers here claimed yesterday, and will put forward J. Bruce Kremer of Montana, Vice Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, or Senator Key Pittman of Nevada for Permanent Chairman. It was said that Mr. Kremer was the more likely of the two to be selected.

Mr. Kremer, although he will support Mr. McAdoo as a delegate from Montana, was said to be not unfriendly personally to Governor Smith, and belief was expressed that the delegates favoring the Governor might accept him without a contest. Cordell Hull, Democratic National Chairman, was said to desire to avoid a fight in the selection of a permanent Chairman, as was done in the selection of Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi for temporary Chairman.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana has been suggested for the place, but some party leaders believe the permanent Chairman will be subject to severe physical strain and that a younger man should be selected. Senator Walsh was said to a likely choice for Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions if Mr. Kremer from the same State should not be made permanent Chairman.

One member of each of the four convention committees, Permanent Organization, Credentials, Rules and Resolutions, will be selected by each of the fifty-four State and Territorial delegations in thirty-two of which the supporters of Mr. McAdoo are said to have a majority. With a majority of the Committee on Resolutions, the McAdoo forces, it was said, would be in a position to bring forth a "dry" plank. Supporters of Governor Smith, Senator Underwood and other candidates of "wet" inclination would have opportunity to oppose such a plank, as they would the recommendation of the Committee on Permanent Organization for permanent Chairman, on the floor of the convention.

Control of the Resolutions Committee by Mr. McAdoo's friends might be taken to indicate a favorable report on a plank favoring the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations, but it was said there was a division of opinion among his supporters on this point and that, while the Wilson admirers among them might favor a strong League of Nations plank, some of his followers in the West, particularly among the radical and labor groups, were opposed to the League.

The Committee on Credentials, which will hold hearings on contested seats, is not expected to be of particular importance this year. So far as the Democratic National Committee has been informed there is likely to be but one contest, that from the District of Columbia.

The Rules Committee may become of great importance if the supporters of Mr. McAdoo should attempt to abrogate the rule requiring a two-thirds vote of the convention to nominate a candidate for President, and the Smith forces should start a counter-offensive by moving for the abolition of the unit rule, which still applies to delegations elected at State conventions.

The unit rule probably will come before the committee and the convention, anyway, for two Kentucky delegates, elected in their Congressional district as supporters of Senator Underwood, have announced that they will test the power of the State convention to instruct them for Mr. McAdoo.

As matters now stand, the anti-McAdoo delegates, including those for Governor Smith, are opposed to the abrogation of the two-thirds rule, but would support a motion to abolish the unit rule, which will hold a number of Smith delegates for McAdoo. Whether the Governor's supporters would support a resolution to abolish both rules was said to be uncertain.

Judge David Ladd Rockwell, the national McAdoo campaign manager, in a statement telegraphed here from Washington and made public at the McAdoo headquarters in the Hotel Vanderbilt, declared that it was immaterial to Mr. McAdoo's friends whether the two-thirds rule were changed or not, and reiterated his assertion that Mr. McAdoo would be nominated under either condition.

Prepare a New Trade Treaty To Be Negotiated With Mexico

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Preliminary work has been begun on the drafting of a commercial treaty to be submitted to Mexico. Data are being collected by the Government departments interested, and Ambassador Warren at Mexico City has already held informal conversations on the subject with the Mexican Foreign Office.

This step is in line with the general policy of the Coolidge Administration to bring up to date all the existing commercial treaties of the United States with foreign countries.

It is understood that the new treaty is likely to contain provisions applicable to the oil industry, as well as the revision of commercial regulations.

LEAGUE OF VETERANS PLANS TO KILL BONUS

Considers Injunction to Prevent Payment of Any Cash or Insurance.

EXPECTS TO TEST THE LAW

Hopes to Be Able to Prevent the Formation of Big Dispensing Organization.

Plans to tie up the bonus are under consideration by the Ex-Service Men's Anti-Bonus League and a committee of lawyers has been appointed to determine whether injunctions can be brought against the Secretary of the Treasury, the War and Navy Departments and the United States Veterans' Bureau with a view to preventing the payment of a single dollar or the issuing of a single certificate of insurance.

These plans, made secretly at a meeting held last Wednesday, became known yesterday when Captain Knowlton Durham, National President of the League, admitted that a taxpayer's action to test the constitutionality of the law was contemplated and that if it was brought 4,000,000 ex-service men and women might not get the bonus for years if ever.

The meeting, which brought together the National Administrative Board of the League, was held at the Columbia University Club. Captain Durham presided and others who attended were Charles H. Baetjer, Richard S. Buck, Colonel Benjamin F. Castle, George Brokaw Compton, Charles Curie, Boudinot Keith, William H. Kobbe, Seth Low, F. Maurice Newton, L. O. Rothschild and Theodore S. Watson. It was called to decide whether the League should disband, in view of the passage of the bonus bill over the veto of President Coolidge. It resulted in a decision to continue to fight the bonus. The discussion centred on the possibility of bringing a taxpayer's suit and a committee was appointed to take the matter under advisement. That committee consists of Colonel Henry L. Stimson, ex-Secretary of War; Allan C. Orrick, Mr. Compton, Mr. Curie, Mr. Keith and Mr. Rothschild.

May Test Constitutionality.

The proposed suit is so novel that members of the committee who were reached last night were disinclined to discuss it. Captain Durham, however, regretting that the matter had become known, made the following statement:

"At the request of the Administrative Board, I am asking all members of the board who are lawyers to let me have their preliminary opinion upon the question of the constitutionality of the Bonus law. It is the purpose of the board, when these opinions have been received, that the Executive Committee shall decide upon the advisability of originating a proceeding to test this question. The matter was discussed at the meeting of the board, and it was the unanimous decision of the members present that if there should appear to be any justification for such an action the league should proceed at once to take the necessary steps to determine the matter in some appropriate court proceeding.

"Section 8 of Article I. of the Constitution of the United States gives the Congress power to 'pay all debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States.' It also gives the general power to raise and support armies and to provide and maintain a navy. Having in mind that the States reserve to themselves all powers not specifically delegated to the Federal Government, we are considering whether Congress, under this General Welfare clause, can appropriate billions of dollars to the use of one class of its citizens upon the theory that thereby it is promoting the general welfare of the country.

"Many of us are of the opinion that

New Messenger Works 4 Days and Vanishes; $45,000 in Securities Is Missing With Him

Detectives scoured the city yesterday for William Levish, 22 years old, who had been employed for four days as a messenger by Minsch, Monell & Co., an investment firm at 115 Broadway, and who disappeared in the forenoon with securities valued at $45,000. Levish, who until three weeks ago had occupied a furnished room at 149 Broome Street with a young woman who had been introduced as his wife, obtained the securities at the Mechanics and Metals Bank in Nassau Street on presentation of a check which he had just had certified for his employers at another window in the bank.

He left the office of Minsch, Monell & Co. at 10:30 A. M. with the check and was instructed to obtain the securities, which had been pledged as collateral for a loan. When he did not return with the securities an hour later the firm notified the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland, by which the firm's employes are bonded, and the surety company asked the police to investigate.

Detectives from the Old Slip Station questioned members of Minsch, Monell & Co. and learned that when Levish got his position he said he had recently come from Moscow, Pa., and gave the Broome Street address. The detectives hurried to the latter, but learned that Levish and the young woman had given up the room soon after taking it.

Members of the investment firm expressed the belief that Levish had been waylaid and robbed and either was being held prisoner or was afraid to report the loss of the certificates. William C. Moore, one of the owners of the firm, said that the youth had been especially diligent in his work and had shown such aptitude that it was felt that promotion would come to him soon.

LA FOLLETTE MOVES TO FORCE CONGRESS TO RETURN JULY 9

Calls on Senate to Reject Adjournment Resolution Passed by the House.

PROPOSES MONTH'S RECESS

FILIBUSTER NOW IN SIGHT

Republican and Democratic Leaders Likely to Join in Fight to Defeat Insurgents' Program.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Although the House of Representatives decided today by a vote of 221 to 157 to adjourn at 7 o'clock next Saturday night until December, Senator La Follette, the radical leader, introduced a resolution in the Senate calling on Congress to recess from June 7 to July 9, and then to act on farm and railroad legislation.

Nothing was done about the La Follette resolution, and it will lie on the table until about the middle of the week, when an attempt will be made to substitute it for the adjournment resolution passed by the House. If the Senate refuses to approve the House resolution and accepts the La Follette plan Congress will merely take a recess over the national conventions and will come back here to spend practically all Summer in lawmaking. The alternative will be for the President to exercise his prerogative under the Constitution and adjourn a divided Congress until a certain date.

Basing his demand for further legislation on the claim that more than 600,000 farmers in fifteen wheat States alone are virtually bankrupt, Senator La Follette insisted that Congress should take up and act upon emergency agricultural legislation, the Howell-Barkley bill, new railroad freight rates and reclamation legislation.

Text of La Follette Resolution.

Whereas the Secretary of Agriculture has reported that in the fifteen wheat States alone more than 168,000 farmers have since 1920 lost their farms or other property through foreclosures or bankruptcy, over 122,000 have lost their property without legal proceedings, and nearly 373,000 have retained their property only through the leniency of creditors, making a total of 603,000 farmers, or 26 per cent. of all, who are virtually bankrupt in these fifteen States; and

Whereas the conditions are even more appalling in particular States, as, for example, in South Dakota, where, according to the Secretary of Agriculture, 40 per cent. of all farmers are virtually bankrupt; Colorado, 42 per cent.; North Dakota, 50 per cent.; Wyoming, 51 per cent., and Montana, 62 per cent.; and

Whereas, as a result of this acute agricultural distress during the four years 1920 to 1923, 1,357 State and national banks have failed, with total liabilities of more than $500,000,000; and

Whereas during the first three months of the present year 265 banks failed, with total liabilities of $100,275,600, or at the unprecedented rate of 1,060 bank failures for the year; and

Whereas this constitutes conclusive evidence that the alarming conditions in the agricultural States above described are not only increasing but threaten the financial and commercial stability of the entire nation;

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the two houses complete the business of the calendar day of Saturday, June 7, 1924, they shall stand adjourned until 12 o'clock meridian Monday, July 9, 1924; and,

Resolved further, That when the Congress reconvenes on July 9, 1924, the two houses shall proceed to consider and vote upon the following measures in the order named: (1) Emergency legislation for the relief of agriculture; (2) the Howell-Barkley bill for the settlement of disputes between carriers and their employes; (3) amendment of the rate-making sections of the Transportation act, and (4) reclamation legislation.

Resolution a Two-Edged Sword.

Just how far the Senator from Wisconsin expects to get with his recess resolution no one knows except himself, but through it he will wield a two-edged sword. If the resolution fails, he will have the opportunity through a roll-call to place all Senate Republicans and Democrats in the position of either aiding the farmers or deserting them in a time of dire need. If it passes, the Senator will have the credit of proposing legislation begged for by the farmers, and the probable satisfaction of seeing a good part of his program approved.

In spite of the fact that the majority of the Senators wish to stop work and get away from Washington, Mr. La Follette does not regard the outlook as hopeless. He said today he believed his resolution had "a good chance," and he would push it vigorously. Under the parliamentary rules the resolution itself is not debatable, but an experienced campaigner like Mr. La Follette would have no difficulty in making a speech on it, even if he did so while some other measure, such as an appropriation bill, was under consideration.

Such a speech would embarrass Sen-

COOLIDGE ASSAILS BUT SIGNS TAX BILL AS BETTER THAN EXISTING WAR-TIME LAW; WILL SEEK REVISION IN NEXT CONGRESS

How the 25 Per Cent. Reduction in 1923 Taxes Can Be Applied in the Payments Due This Year

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The provision for a 25 per cent. reduction in income taxes payable this year, contained in the new revenue law, may be put into effect by the taxpayers immediately.

Persons paying on the instalment plan may cut their second payment, due June 15, by one-half, and the last two instalments by one-fourth each.

Those who paid the full tax on March 15 will receive, as soon as is possible, a refund of one-fourth from the Treasury without making application for it.

Text of the President's Statement Criticizing Provisions of Tax Law

While Better Than Existing Wartime Measure, He Says It Will Encourage Evasions by the Rich and Enlarge Tax-Exempt Investment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—In approving the new revenue bill today, carrying tax reductions, President Coolidge issued the following statement, explaining his action and voicing criticisms of many features of the bill:

The passage of a new revenue bill was required for two reasons, the reduction of taxation and the reform of taxation. The bill as passed provides a certain amount of tax reduction.

It improves some of the features of administration, but it is not only lacking in tax reform, it actually adds some undesirable features to the present law.

As a permanent expression of Government fiscal policy this bill contains provisions which, in my opinion, are not only unsatisfactory but are harmful to the future of this country.

The reduction of high surtaxes from 50 to 40 per cent. is quite immaterial to accomplish a real improvement in the law. The resolution for a constitutional amendment giving to the States and the Federal Government reciprocal rights of taxation of securities issued by the other, which was urged in my annual message to the Congress, failed of passage.

The suggestion of reaching in part the abuse of tax-exemption by limiting the deduction for interest of a non-business character to the amount that such interest exceeds the tax-exempt revenue of the taxpayer, has not been adopted. With some $12,000,000,000 of tax-exempt securities now outstanding, and $1,000,000,000 of new issues each year, it is idle to propose high surtaxes.

A man with large inherited or accumulated capital is told he must pay one-half of his income to the Government if he invests it in productive business, but he is invited to be relieved of all tax by the simple expedient of withdrawing from business and investing in tax-exempt securities.

This does not mean that wealth in existence is taxed; it is not. It escapes. It does mean, however, that initiative and new enterprises are throttled.

Calls High Taxes a Failure.

While the inconsistency of high surtaxes existing side by side with a lawfully authorized means of avoidance is obvious, it is not simply through tax exempting that high surtaxes are uneconomical.

The experience for the few years under high surtaxes shows the increasing failure of these taxes as a source of revenue. There are many means of escaping the tax, and with the settlement of conditions abroad we may anticipate the movement of capital from this country to other parts of the world where income is not so penalized. Ways will always be found to avoid taxation inherently excessive.

We are presented, then, with a plan of taxation which punishes energy and initiative and must decrease revenue. Such a plan will ultimately work harm to the country and should not be permitted to continue much longer.

The cure does not lie in attacking the symptoms by other unsound penalties worse than the disease itself, such as an undisturbed surplus tax, but in correcting the cause.

The remedy is such a reduction in the peak of the surtaxes as will attract capital to new enterprises and prevent the continual diminution of taxable income in the higher brackets. In this way alone can high living costs, the indirect tax paid by all of the people, be reduced and the productivity of a graduated income tax maintained.

The principles applicable to high surtaxes apply similarly to high estate taxes. The bill raises the estate tax to 40 per cent. As a concomitant is added a gift tax, which is further invasion of the rights of the citizen, both unusual in nature and of doubtful legality. When there is added to this the inheritance taxes levied by the States there amounts a practical confiscation of capital.

To meet these taxes executors must realize cash on forced sales of property, with a general lowering of all values upon which the credit structure of our country is based, and diminishing the very source from which this revenue comes. It is proposed to take capital and to use it in the ordinary operating expenses of Government.

We are thus to live, not on income, but on principal, and to that extent we exhaust our resources and prevent the industrial expansion essential to our increasing population and our high standard of living. Heretofore estate taxes in the Federal Government have been war measures. It is now proposed to use these reserves in times of peace. They should be kept for emergencies.

The States have a very real interest in this tax. Inheritance taxes constitute a material part of State revenue. They are a comparatively small factor in Federal revenue. As the Federal Government invades this sphere, belonging primarily to the States, it will cut down the flow of income to the States from this tax, and thus force the States to higher taxes from other sources, which will mean increased land taxes.

For the sake of $12,000,000 of additional revenue the Federal Government in its strength should not further handicap the States, already burdened with expenditures which can be met only by taxation.

Suggests Conference of States.

I believe also it would be advisable to call a conference of the taxing authorities of the States and the Treasury, before the next session of the Congress, to give consideration to some comprehensive plan of division of this field of taxation between the various States and the Federal Government, and the elimination of overlapping and unfair taxes.

Our institutions guarantee to our citizens sanctity in their private affairs, a right giving way only to the needs of Government. Under the law as it now exists, the Treasury has access to all information useful in determining the liability of the taxpayer. For the needs of revenue, publicity is unnecessary.

While the bill purports not to give full publicity, this is scarcely true, and it still sacrifices without reason the rights of the taxpayer. In each Post Office the amount which the citizen contributes to the Treasury must be exhibited to the curious and to the taxpayers' business rivals.

Committees in Congress have access to returns and other private papers, without any restriction as to their publication in open committee or on the floor of Congress, the most certain means of publicity. If a taxpayer desires a hearing before the Board of Tax Appeals he must expose to the public the complete details of his income.

To put this price upon the fair determination of tax liability in its regular administrative course is entirely unjustifiable. Yet, such is done in the publicity provisions of the Board of Tax Appeals.

It is not alone in the unwarranted interference with the right of the citizen to privacy that these provisions are hurtful. It is believed that far from increasing revenue, the desire to avoid the gratification of the idle curiosity of others or the exposure of one's personal affairs to one's competitor will result in the concealment of millions of dollars of income which would otherwise be reported.

This means a change in the fundamental policy of our laws, violative of private rights and harmful to Government revenues.

Criticism of the income tax and a large part of the dissatisfaction with it are the result of delay and uncertainty in the final determination of a taxpayer's liability. Taxes can usually be paid within a short time after the receipt of the income on which the tax is based without serious embarrassment to the payment.

However, a large additional tax on income received several years previously, and which may have since its receipt either been wiped out by subsequent losses or invested in non-liquid assets, may force a taxpayer into bankruptcy and often causes financial sacrifice and hardship.

Provision should be made for the prompt and final determination of a taxpayer's liability, and such was the purpose in the suggestion for a Board of Tax Appeals.

The provisions of the bill, however, with reference to the board make it in all its essentials practically a court of record. The board is to be bound by formal rules of evidence and procedure. In each case a formal record must be prepared and all oral testimony in cases involving more than $10,000 must be reduced to writing and an opinion, in addition to the findings of fact, and a decision must be written.

A taxpayer is entitled to appeal to the board before any assessment can be made. The reduction in the salary of the members of the board from $10,000, as recommended by the Treasury, to $7,500 and the reduction of the term of office of the original appointees from the ten years recommended to two years make it difficult to secure for membership on the board men with training, experience and ability.

This Board of Tax Appeals, unable to secure the proper type of men for membership, hampered and burdened

SEES GOOD AND BAD IN BILL

President Expects Business to Improve, but Fears Tax Evasions.

SAYS STATES MAY SUFFER

Urges Conference Between Them and Treasury to Evolve a General Revenue Policy.

WOULD ELIMINATE POLITICS

He Says the New Law Has Been Subject to Unfortunate Influences.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The Revenue bill reducing income taxes for 1924 by 25 per cent. and making other revision in the War Revenue Tax law, was signed by President Coolidge this afternoon at the same time he issued a statement in which he declared his opposition to many features of the bill, and called upon Congress in another session to correct the evils and enact a scientific and more equitable revision of the law.

The bill was signed in the presence of C. Bascom Slemp, Secretary to the President, and the statement prepared by the President on his week-end cruise, setting forth why he felt compelled to approve a bill, denounced by him as unfair and improper in many respects, was made public but not sent to Congress. Congress will not be informed of the President's action until, under the law, he sends nominations and bills approved to that body.

The President's statement followed the argument employed by him in his approval of the Immigration bill.

He stated that he approved the tax bill because it reduced taxes and made some reforms in taxation, providing not only a 25 per cent. reduction in the income taxes for 1923, payable in 1924, and reducing excise taxes, but providing for independent reforms in the administration of the tax law.

The President's Objections.

After summarizing the advantages and the evil which, he says, should be corrected in another Congress, the President gives these concrete reasons for signing the measure in its present shape:

"The bill comes to me for consideration less than two weeks before the contemplated adjournment of Congress, and provides for a credit on 1924 taxes which should become effective before June 15 next. No different bill can be passed before adjournment. The question before me is the present law or bill in the shape it has passed the Congress. As it stands, in its administrative features generally, it is an improvement on the existing law.

"It will meet the needs of revenue through the fiscal year 1925 and probably be sufficient for some time if no unforeseen expenses arise. The immediate relief by credit on 1924 taxes of 25 per cent. is due, is expected by the people and should be promptly given, and the determination of the taxes to which 1924 incomes will be subject should be made certain while the income is still being received.

"As I have said, the bill does not represent a sound permanent tax policy, and in its passage has been subject to unfortunate influence which ought not to control fiscal questions. Still, in spite of its obvious defects, its advantages as a temporary relief and a temporary adjustment of business conditions, in view of the uncertainty of a better law within a reasonable time, leads me to believe that the best interests of the country would be subserved if this bill became a law. A correction of its defects may be left to the next session of the Congress. I trust a bill less political and more truly economic may be passed at that time. To that end I shall bend all my energies."

The President asserted that the bill was lacking in real tax reforms and that it actually added some undesirable features to the present law.

"As a permanent expression of government fiscal policy this bill contains provisions which, in my opinion, are not only unsatisfactory but are harmful to the future of the country," he said.

Treasury Foresees No Deficit.

The President found himself in a position to approve the bill because of the tax reductions, and also because the Treasury experts had assured him that there would be no deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925, provided there were no further commitments by Congress in large amounts. There will be no deficit, the statements declare, after paying the bonus next year, although in the next fiscal year the possibility of a deficit depends on economies, the revision of taxation and the finding of new sources of taxation to take the place of returns accruing from war profits and income taxes.

Briefly summarized, the objections and recommendations made by the President in his statement are:

The reduction in the surtaxes from 50 to 40 per cent. is not a real improvement in the present law.

Congress is criticised for its failure to pass a constitutional amendment on profitable tax-exempt securities which now amount to $12,000,000,000, and are issued at the rate of $7,000,000,000 yearly, making it possible for the rich to invest in these securities and legally avoid taxation.

"The experience in past years has shown that more money is being placed annually in tax-exempt securities, and this is working to the ultimate harm of the country.

"The remedy for this condition is a reduction in the high surtaxes sufficient to attract capital to new enterprises, and a reduction such a system would also help living costs, the indirect tax paid by all people, be reduced, and the productivity of a graduated income tax be maintained."

Double Legality of Gift Tax.

Opposition to the 40 per cent. inheritance tax and the gift tax. The latter is characterized as an invasion of the rights of citizens and of "doubtful legality."

Inheritance tax collections by the Federal Government have heretofore been considered as emergency taxes, and now it is proposed to use these "reserves in times of peace."

The imposition of this large inheritance tax by the Federal Government invades the sphere of the States, and it is suggested that there shall be a conference of the States and the Treasury, before the next session of Congress, to give consideration to a comprehensive plan of division of this field of taxation.

The publicity feature of the bill is objectionable in that it has the means of making public not only the taxes paid but furnishes information of one taxpayer to his competitor.

Such a provision, it is pointed out, may lead to "a concealment of millions of dollars of income which would otherwise be reported. This means a change in the fundamental policy of our law violative of private rights and harmful to Government revenues."

The creation of the Board of Tax Appeals, with twenty-eight members who are required to follow court procedure, will result in greater delay in the final settlement of tax cases, "and may ultimately result in the complete breakdown of the administrative machinery for the collection of taxes."

Unless there are other extraordinary demands on the Treasury the bonus and all demands already enacted can be taken care of without a deficit in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925.

"After that new forms of taxation must be found or the law revised so as to reduce surtaxes and encourage the creation of income subject to taxation.

The present bill is denounced as a political rather than an economic adjustment.

Effect of the Tax Changes.

WASHINGTON, June 2 (Associated Press).—The new revenue law, as approved by the President, reduces the tax of almost every Federal taxpayer and cuts down the Federal revenues by an amount estimated at $361,000,000 for the next fiscal year. This reduction, however, will not result in any deficit, according to Treasury experts.

The principal effect of the new law will not be felt until next year, the 50 per cent. deductions in income taxes being made applicable to incomes of this year but payable in 1925. Immediate relief, however, is granted every income taxpayer, as a 25 per cent. decrease is ordered in the case of income taxes for the current year and now due.

Persons who are paying this year's income taxes on the instalment plan may cut their second payment, due June 15, by one-half and their other two instalments by one-fourth each. Those who already have paid their income taxes in full will get a refund without applying for it.

Another effect that soon will be appreciable is the provision of the new law repealing within thirty days many excise taxes, such as those on telegraph and telephone messages, soft drinks, candy, carpets, rugs, trunks and theatre admission of 50 cents or less.

Following are some of the changes ordered in the income taxes:

General revision of both the normal and surtax rates, amounting to a 50 per cent. cut on taxes levied against incomes of $8,000 and under.

An additional reduction of 25 per cent. which may be made on earned incomes. For purposes of this reduction all incomes of $5,000 and under are defined as earned. The cut may be made only on incomes up to $10,000.

Exemption for heads of families with incomes of $5,000 and over is increased from $2,000 to $2,500, the same as now allowed on incomes of $5,000 and less.

No change is made in the present law allowing an exemption of $1,000 for single persons.

The miscellaneous and excise taxes repealed and the amount of revenue involved are:

Telegraph and telephone messages, $34,000,000; beverages, $19,000,000; candy, $13,000,000; knives, forks, daggers, &c., $90,000; jewelry, &c., $140,000; hunting, shooting and riding garments, $180,000; yachts and motor boats (sale), $310,000; carpets, rugs, trunks, purses, &c., $1,800,000; drafts and promissory notes, $2,150,000; theatres, shows, circuses (floor space), $1,600,000.

In addition, numerous other excise taxes are reduced. Theatre tickets of 50 cents and under are exempted; automobile trucks, the chassis of which sell for $1,000 or less and the bodies for $200 or less, are exempted from the 3 per cent. tax, while the 5 per cent. levy on automobile tires, parts and accessories is cut in half.

Sales Imposts Reduced.

Articles selling for $20 or less and watches selling for $40 or less are exempted from the 5 per cent. jewelry tax, as are also surgical and musical instruments, eye glasses, spectacles, silverplated flat tableware and articles used for religious purposes. The tax of two cents on each $100 sale on produce exchanges is cut in half.

The tax on playing cards was increased from 8 to 10 cents a pack.

The same brackets of amounts to which the estate tax is applied in the present law are retained, but the rates are increased so that the maximum is 40 per cent. on amounts of $10,000,000 and over instead of 25 per cent. It is estimated this increase will bring in $15,000,000 additional revenue annually.

The new gift tax, imposed, its authors said, merely as a compliment to the estate tax and to check evasions of the latter, carries the same rates as the revised estate tax. It allows an exemption of $50,000. Also numerous other exemptions would be allowed, including gifts to public purposes and charitable, educational and religious organizations. The tax will be levied on the donor and against the total amount of the gifts during the year. This tax goes into effect as of last Jan. 1. The rate would start at 1 per cent. on gifts not in excess of $50,000. It is estimated this tax will bring in $2,000,000 revenue annually.

The new tax on mah jong sets is 10 per cent, and it is estimated this will result in collection of about $2,000,000 annually, although accurate statistics are not available for such a calculation.

The new normal tax rates on individual incomes are 2 per cent. on incomes of $4,000 and under; 4 per cent. on incomes between $4,000 and $8,000 and 6 per cent. on incomes above this amount. The surtax rates range from 1 per cent. in incomes between $10,000 and $14,000 to 40 per cent. on incomes of over $500,000.

POSTAL WAGE RISE PASSED BY HOUSE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—By the overwhelming vote of 250 to 14 the House today passed the bill reclassifying the salaries of postal employes. The measure now goes to conference, where an attempt will be made to include the Borah amendment requiring the publication of campaign expenditures every ten days. This was attached as a rider to the Senate bill.

It is estimated that the total wage increase authorized by the House bill will amount to $64,000,000 as compared with an estimated cost of $60,000,000 under the Senate bill.

No special provision has been made for revenue to meet the increase, the bill providing that the advances shall be taken from current funds of the Post Office Department. Postmaster General New, who has opposed the bill, suggested raising postal rates.

Indications are that there will be a lively fight in conference over the Borah amendment, which the House refused to accept. According to cloak room gossip President Coolidge will veto the measure unless it is amended by providing for an advance in postal rates.

SUPREME COURT WRIT RELEASES GROSSMAN

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Philip Grossman of Chicago, recently committed to the Chicago House of Correction upon orders of Judges Carpenter and Wilkerson after President Coolidge had pardoned him, was today granted a writ of habeas corpus by the Supreme Court.

Grossman's sentence by former Judge Landis for contempt of court in connection with a violation of a prohibition padlock injunction was commuted by President Coolidge after the Supreme Court had refused to review his case.

Taking the position that the President's power of executive clemency did not extend to contempt cases, Judges Carpenter and Wilkerson ordered Grossman's arrest and commitment.

Grossman applied to the court for release on a writ of habeas corpus, contending that Judges Carpenter, Wilkerson and Cliffe, composing the Federal District Court at Chicago, were disqualified from passing on such a writ.

Justice McKenna in announcing the granting of the writ of habeas corpus said a rule would issue returnable on Oct. 6 next and that pending final disposition of the case Grossman would be

PASSES AMENDMENT FOR CHILD LABOR LAW

Senate Votes, 61 to 23, in Favor of Proposal Which Now Goes to the States.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Approval was given by the Senate tonight to a Constitutional amendment which would empower the Federal Government to limit, regulate or prohibit the labor of children under 18 years of age. It previously had been approved by the House and now goes to the States for ratification.

The vote was 61 to 23 or five more than the necessary two-thirds.

Under the amendment Congress would have the power of regulation, but the enforcing power would be vested in the Federal and State Governments.

The vote of three-fourths of the States is necessary for ratification.

DEBS FOR A LABOR PARTY.

Editor Says Leader Would Favor Absorption of Socialists.

Eugene V. Debs, Socialist Party leader, is prepared to support a national labor party, provided it is formed by bona fide organized labor, according to James Oneal, editor of The New Leader, the official publication of the Socialists, who said yesterday that Mr. Debs soon would issue a statement to that effect.

"Mr. Debs does not mention any particular candidates," said Oneal, "but he does make it clear that he will support a real labor party with all the power and influence at his command. If no real labor party is formed, he will lead a national Socialist campaign."

SMITH SUPPORTERS DENY M'ADOO CLAIM

Say Californian Cannot Be Sure of More Than 455 Votes, and May Lose Some of Them.

SATISFIED WITH PROGRESS

Breckinridge Long Insists McAdoo Will Have Solid Delegation From Missouri.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Chairman of the New York State Committee for the Nomination of Governor Alfred E. Smith, expressed satisfaction yesterday at Governor Smith's victory in the Minnesota State Convention on Saturday, when twenty or twenty-two of the twenty-four delegates elected declared for the Governor.

Friends of the Governor disputed the claim of the managers for William G. McAdoo that the latter would have a first ballot strength of 505 on the first ballot, as published in THE TIMES yesterday. They contended that this was 50 votes too high, without any allowance that some of the votes now claimed for McAdoo might be taken away from him before the convention meets.

"The Smith campaign got under way a month ago, the McAdoo campaign three years ago and the others months ago," Mr. Roosevelt said. "Every one knows that Governor Smith made no primary contest, except in Wisconsin, where it was done without his knowledge, and he obtained twenty-three out of twenty-six delegates.

"It has only been during the last two weeks that the result of our efforts to disseminate knowledge of New York's Governor has become apparent. To come down to concrete cases, a month ago the New England sentiment was much divided and scattered and Mr. McAdoo's friends claimed that he would have a majority of the delegates from every State except Rhode Island.

Cites Governor's Progress.

"Today Governor Smith is assured of the support of seven out of the eight delegates from Vermont, about half of the New Hampshire delegation, 23 or 24 out of 36 in Massachusetts, all of Rhode Island, 10 votes out of 14 in Connecticut and about half the Maine delegation of 12.

"A month ago Mr. McAdoo's campaign managers claimed a majority of the Pennsylvania delegation, today two-thirds of the 72 delegates are assured for Governor Smith.

"In the Northwest, a month ago, Minnesota was claimed solid for McAdoo. On Saturday Governor Smith got 20 out of 24 delegates. In other States of the Northwest, in the Mountain States and even on the Pacific Coast, the actual vote for Governor Smith at the convention will come as a distinct shock and surprise for those who claim solid delegations for other candidates.

"All in all, we are entirely satisfied with the progress being made, but the thing which is of the greatest importance of all is to find means of assurances and information to us from every State in the Union that Governor Smith, if nominated, will defeat President Coolidge hands down."

In denying the claim of the McAdoo managers of a first ballot strength of 505, friends of the Governor gave Mr. McAdoo 2½ votes instead of 4½ in Arizona, 6 instead of 12 in Colorado, 6 instead of 12 in Florida, 5 instead of 20 in Louisiana, 8 instead of 14 in Maine, 21 instead of 30 in Pennsylvania, 10 instead of 14 in Washington and 20 instead of 30 in the territories of Alaska, the Canal Zone, District of Columbia, Hawaii and the Philippines.

Say McAdoo Will Lose Votes.

It was also asserted that many of these delegations claimed for Mr. McAdoo on the first ballot would desert him after a few ballots and that he might also lose some of the delegations, uninstructed but claimed for him, before the convention. It has been known for some time that Governor Smith's friends have been making a strong effort to get the Missouri delegation, which is expected to vote under the unit rule, away from Mr. McAdoo and it was said there was some prospect of success.

Breckenridge Long, former Assistant Secretary of State, one of the Missouri McAdoo leaders, said at the local McAdoo headquarters that this was not true. Mr. Long asserted that both the "wet" and "dry" Democratic leaders of the State were supporting Mr. McAdoo and that he would receive all of Missouri's thirty-six votes.

Several hundred women members of the Smith committee will meet this morning at 11 o'clock in the headquarters in the Prudence Building, Madison Avenue and Forty-third Street. Mrs. Roosevelt will preside and outline their work for the campaign. Miss Elisabeth Marbury, Miss Annie E. Mathews and others will speak and Irving Berlin, the composer, will sing his new campaign song, "We'll All Ale Voting for Al."

Governor Smith declined to discuss politics before his return to Albany. He said he would return on Friday, June 13, and added that he was not superstitious.

Mrs. Coolidge to See Son Graduate.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Mrs. Coolidge left Washington today by automobile for Mercersburg, Pa., to attend the commencement exercises of Mercersburg Academy, from which John, the elder of the Coolidge boys, will be graduated Wednesday.

The President had planned to attend the commencement exercises but pressure of work kept him here. Mrs. Coolidge was accompanied by Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston.

BROOKHART BEHIND IN THE IOWA PRIMARY

Sweet Is Leading, 33,990 to 31,285, in 410 Precincts Out of 2,412 in State.

Special to The New York Times.

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 2.—On returns from 410 out of 2,412 precincts in today's primary, Burton E. Sweet was leading Brookhart for the Republican nomination for Senator. The vote in these precincts was: Sweet 33,990, Brookhart 31,285.

Of the six candidates for the nomination for Governor, W. J. Burbank, the Klansmen's choice, was leading his competitors by several thousand votes, and his supporters claim his victory is assured.

It is probable, however, the Gubernatorial candidate will be selected at the State Convention next month. Under the Iowa law, a candidate must get 35 per cent. of the total vote at the primary, and since there are six candidates, Burbank is likely to find himself frozen out at the State Convention, where the machine will be in power, even if it loses at the primary.

The Klan took an active part in the election today. In several cities the robed organization caused "stickers" to be passed out and cards with the list of their chosen nominees.

At Centerville, a rural town, the Klansmen and World War veterans clashed in a free-for-all street battle over a Burbank sign painted on the sidewalk. Followers of Haynes, the soldier candidate, erased it and painted their own candidate's name over it.

The vote today was light. Farmers did not turn out on account of being behind with their crops, while the rain kept a great many others away from the polls.

Both Brookhart and Sweet followers claimed the election during the day, and in the early returns the two candidates seesawed for the lead, Brookhart was practically deserted by the old party leaders. The Senator has not been in the State during his campaign.

FLORIDA PRIMARY TODAY.

McAdoo and Underwood in Contest —Bryan for Delegate.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 2.—The largest vote in Florida's history is expected to be cast in the Democratic primary tomorrow when voters express preference for a Presidential nominee, a nominee for Governor and other State offices. Four delegates-at-large and eight district delegates to the Democratic National Convention are to be selected.

Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama and William G. McAdoo of California are seeking the Presidential preference. Candidates for the Governorship are former Governor Sidney J. Catts, John W. Martin, Mayor of Jacksonville; Frank E. Jennings, Jacksonville lawyer; Worth Trammel, former Assistant Attorney General, and Charles H. Spencer.

Among the sixteen candidates for national delegates-at-large is William Jennings Bryan, who announced his intention to accept the nomination of Dr. Albert A. Murphree, President of the University of Florida, for President.

SAYS SUNSPOTS MAKE FOR WAR AND PEACE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 2.—A Russian scientist, Professor Tchijewsky, has sent to Dr. Charles Nordmann a number of pages of statistics to substantiate the theory that important events in the world are caused by sunspots. The theory of the Russian may be summed up as follows:

"1. As the activity of sunspots approaches the maximum in number the importance of historical events increases, and decreases as the sunspots approach a minimum.

"2. In each century there have been nine paroxysms of worldly political and military activity which have synchronized with those of the solar surface.

"3. The activity of sunspots has an exciting influence on peoples and loosens revolutions, insurrections, expeditions, migrations, &c. A minimum of sunspots, on the contrary, brings diminution in political and military enthusiasm and an increase in the works of peace, science, art, &c."

M. Nordmann points out that 1914, when the World War broke out, was not a year of maximum sun spots, but he says that the next maximum sunspots, in 1918, marked the maximum power of the Allies. True or false, M. Nordmann says, the theory is amusing, for it parallels the ancient contentions of the astrologers that our actions are ruled by the stars.

LIONEL ARRESTED AGAIN.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 2.—The Paris police this afternoon arrested an American, Fremot Lionel of Chicago, on the charge of white slavery, assault and attempted murder. This ends a search lasting several years.

Lionel, who has already been confined a number of times in France, is considered one of the most dangerous characters of the foreign crooks working in this country. The principal source of his income, according to the police, has been the direction of white slave traffic from France to South America.

CONVENTION BOXES STILL MAY BE HAD

Ten Are Available to Contributors of $1,800 to $2,700 to Defray Expenses.

WORK IS BEGUN ON GARDEN

Women's Reception Committee, Headed by Mrs. Hylan, Meets at the Waldorf.

Ten boxes in Madison Square Garden for the Democratic National Convention are left for persons who may desire to contribute the required amount to the fund to defray the expenses of the convention, George F. Mara, member of a subcommittee named to dispose of them announced yesterday. Eleven boxes at the disposal of this committee already have been taken. A contribution of $1,800 is required for a box seating six, one of $2,200 for a box seating eight, one of $2,500 for a box seating nine and $2,700 for a box seating ten.

The subcommittee on personnel of the convention will meet in Washington today and a meeting of the Committee of Arrangements will be held here on June 16.

Work has been begun in preparing the Garden for the convention. The basement has been whitewashed and the workrooms, into which it will be divided, and the installation of a ventilating system will be completed this week. Work on the main floor will be begun next week, when the speakers' and the press stands will be completed. It is expected that the decorations and booths will be installed the following week.

The Women's Committee of the Mayor's Committee on Reception to Distinguished Guests, of which Mrs. Hylan is Chairman, held a business and social meeting yesterday at its headquarters at the Waldorf-Astoria. Mrs. Hylan announced that hostesses would be selected not only to act at the headquarters, but also on the city steamer Macom, which will make daily trips with guests about the harbor. Tea was served. Among those present were:

Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Mrs. Oliver Harriman, Mrs. Philip Berolheimer, Mrs. Richard E. Enright, Mrs. Nelson Herrick Henry, Mrs. Michael J. McGrath, Mrs. John F. Sinnott, Mrs. Grover A. Whalen, Mrs. John Dietz, Mrs. Charles Brennan, Mrs. Peter Campbell, Miss Lillie Grant, Mrs. John Guilfoyle, Miss Irene Mara, Mrs. Joseph C. Matthews, Mrs. Earl H. Miller, Mrs. William Wirt Mills, Mrs. Charles Norris, Mrs. Edward J. M. O'Loughlin, Mrs. T. Gunnison, Mrs. H. Sprague, Mrs. Cornelius M. Sheehan, Mrs. Jeremiah T. Sullivan, Mrs. Charles Sweeney, Mrs. A. A. Taylor and Mrs. Charles Voorhis.

BUTLER IN CLEVELAND.

Coolidge Manager Takes Charge of Convention Headquarters.

CLEVELAND, June 2.—William M. Butler, manager of President Coolidge's campaign, arrived today from Washington and immediately installed himself in national headquarters. He was scheduled for several conferences during the day, and will probably meet with John T. Adams, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, whom he is slated to succeed as National Committee Chairman.

Mr. Butler had no statement to make concerning Mr. Coolidge's campaign and would not comment on Vice Presidential possibilities.

David W. Mulvane, Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, said he expected a big daily registration until the convention opens on June 10.

Chairman Adams announced that all committeemen would be here within the next few days.

Miss Betsy Edwards of Indiana, manager of the women's division at Coolidge headquarters, said all arrangements for the more than 400 women delegates and alternates had been completed. A banquet for them has been arranged for Sunday night, June 8.

TO SET CONVENTION DATE.

Republican State Committee Will Meet Here on June 17.

George K. Morris, Republican State Chairman, announced yesterday that a meeting of the committee to fix a date for the Republican State Convention would be held at the National Republican Club here on June 17. The State convention, which will nominate a candidate for Governor and other State officers, will be held between Sept. 24 and Oct. 1, probably at Rochester.

It was learned that Colonel William Hayward, United States District Attorney, had been making an active canvass throughout the State and probably would announce his candidacy at the National Convention at Cleveland, or following the State committee meeting. Others named as probable candidates, including Representative Bertrand H. Snell, Speaker R. Edmund Macbold, Senator Frederick M. Davenport and District Attorney Guy D. Moore of Erie County, probably will determine by that time whether they will be candidates, and announcement from some of these will be expected at the same time.

LIEBERT REPLIES TO PAVEY.

French Democrats, as Citizens, Not Exceeding Their Rights, He Says.

Gaston Liebert, director of the French Information Bureau, sent to THE TIMES yesterday the following letter he has addressed to Frank D. Pavey, President of the Federation of L'Alliance Française of the United States and Canada, in which Mr. Pavey adversely criticised the Central Committee of French and Franco-American societies in New York:

New York, June 2, 1924.

Dear Sir: The publication under your auspices in THE NEW YORK TIMES of June 1 of certain documents in which you unduly mix up my name constitutes one more incorrection.

On May 15 I wrote a letter to you in which, in order to correct the wrong statements contained in your circular letter of May 10 "to the members of the Alliance Française of New York" and other persons, I reminded you clearly what I had already told you in March, 1923, that the sole object I had in mind fifteen months ago, while I was still Consul General in New York, when I tried to organize a central committee of the French and Franco-American societies in New York, was simply to have them combine in one single group (instead of two, as heretofore) in the celebration of certain French and Franco-American patriotic holidays and of the reception of distinguished French personalities visiting the United States.

That letter of mine would never have been published (as it was in THE NEW YORK TIMES of May 18), had not you yourself published, without having consulted me (which was a first incorrection), your circular letter in the issue of the 17th of May of the same paper.

Nevertheless, you wrote to me on May 20: "I expect to comply with your request to send copies of your letter to all the members of the Alliance Française of New York and as far as possible to all other persons who have received my circular letter of May 10."

I considered this as quite satisfactory, looking at it as being the loyal expression by an honest man of his sincere desire to correct an involuntary mistake.

I am sorry to see now that I was mistaken in this good opinion. Your new circular sent a few days ago to the same persons to whom you had sent the previous one, instead of being, as it should have been, a reproduction of my letter of May 15, contains also a letter from you which has absolutely nothing to do with the question, and have the same thing to say about the similar statements coming from you and which were published in yesterday's NEW YORK TIMES.

I hardly know by name the "Club democratique" français and know still less about the activities of that organization, composed, as I understand, of American citizens of French origin. As American citizens they have the right to take in American politics any stand they please, but as far as I am concerned, you know perfectly well that since over eight years that I am in this hospitable country I, being a Frenchman, never meddled either directly or indirectly in any question having anything to do with American politics. All my activities have consisted in serving honestly and loyally, right in the open, the cause of my own country and also in trying to develop Franco-American mutual understanding and friendship—those two great causes being in my mind and in my heart indissolubly linked up.

This being well known by everybody here and in France, I fail to understand your motives. Your utter misunderstanding of things that are so clear and so simple and your extraordinary distortion of facts can only be explained by a most fertile imagination. I would rather believe that rather than think for one moment that you are launching a malicious offensive against me and against the organization at the head of which I am placed, and which, as I wrote to you on May 10, has never at any moment since its creation fourteen months ago had anything to do with the project of "Comité Central des Sociétés Françaises," a question which should concern only the French Consulate General in New York. Again, I refuse to believe in an offensive on your part, which would really not be in keeping with the position you occupy as President of the Federation of the Alliance Française in the United States and Canada.

Yours sincerely,

GASTON LIEBERT,
Director of the French Bureau of Information.

TRAFFIC RULES FOR CONEY.

One-Way Order on Main Streets Rescinded—New Parking Limits.

Traffic regulations to govern the movements and parking of motor vehicles at Coney Island this season were announced yesterday following a conference of Borough President Riegelmann, Park Commissioner O'Loughlin, police officials and representatives of the Coney Island Chamber of Commerce. The regulations go into effect today.

It was decided that no curbs should be dropped for the sight-seeing buses and that these buses should be parked only in the area about Dreamland Park. The one-way traffic rule that held good on the main streets last season is rescinded. Vehicular traffic will be excluded from West Twelfth Street, Stillwell Avenue, West Fifteenth Street and West Sixteenth Street between Surf Avenue and the Boardwalk after 11 o'clock in the morning from June 5 to the end of the season. No parking will be allowed on Surf Avenue, except for a limited time in the discretion of the Police Commissioner.

I HEAR THAT NEW YORK IS NO PLACE FOR A LITTLE GIRL

—yet I believe that there is someone there who would care for a 12-year-old Southern girl—someone who can furnish more than reasonable references and family connections. Child will be supplied with money for all necessary expenses. Purpose is sending her to New York is to receive certain training. Will stay from July to February. Person caring for her must see that she attends school regularly; has regular meals; does not make unapproved acquaintances; does not go shopping or to theater alone; retires early. Child is healthy, bright, appealing; has national reputation to maintain. Address Box 3211 Times Annex.

I WANT TO WORK FOR A REAL MAN

One of these virile, direct men who exact a full measure of capacity and responsibility from their associates.

He may be an executive of a large corporation or be running a "one-man" business.

To such a man I have to offer a sound experience gained in representative New York firms.

A writer of unusual copy, a keen buyer of advertising matter, a compiler of reports upon which decisions are based. Knows direct-by-mail advertising and how to pave the way for salesmen and follow up their efforts.

Understands the organization of an office and can handle with skill a heavy and difficult correspondence.

The kind of a man to whom you can say, "Do this," and it is done, without fuss or feathers or the blare of trumpets.

TEXT OF STATEMENT CRITICIZING TAX LAW

with rules of procedure and evidence and forced to prepare a record, a finding of fact, and a decision in practically every case, will be unable to handle the business which will come to it.

The result will be greater delay in the final settlement of tax cases, and may ultimately result in the complete breakdown of the administrative machinery for the collection of taxes.

The purpose of a tax bill is to provide the Government with revenue, and the primary consideration on tax reduction is the probable receipts and expenditures of the Government after the bill becomes a law.

We shall close the final year ending June 30 next with a surplus, but it is the next fiscal year that must have consideration. By far the greater part of the loss of revenue which will be brought about by the bill is in income taxes.

Aside from the 25 per cent. credit in 1924 taxes, the bill applies to income received in 1924, the tax on which is payable in the calendar year 1925. So this income tax reduction will not be felt until the last of the fiscal year. Under these circumstances, after giving effect to the bonus law and the reduction contemplated by the bill, and provided no further commitments in large amounts are made by the Congress, the Treasury may reasonably expect to conclude the fiscal year 1925 without a deficit.

Looking beyond 1923 to later years, there are certain factors which deserve consideration. The excess profits and income tax laws of the war period were new in principle and exceedingly complicated in practice.

The Treasury has not yet become current in the ascertainment of tax liability and collection of taxes for this period.

We must, therefore, consider the establishment for the future of such a policy of taxation as will insure the maintenance of the sources of taxation without the aid of these reservoirs, which will soon be empty.

This means that the policy must be so framed that it will encourage the creation of income subject to tax, will close the most obvious methods of avoidance, will not diminish by excessive certain taxes the very values upon which the Federal and the State Governments must rely for revenue, and will bring about a reduction in the high cost of living as a means of meeting world competition.

Of the 110,000,000 people in this country less than 4,000,000 pay income taxes directly. The remaining 106,000,000, who pay no such direct taxes, are given no relief from what they pay indirectly in everything they buy. They too must have tax reduction.

These conditions the present bill does not meet.

World Prepare for Depression.

High taxes were adopted as a war measure in 1918. We have had but six years' experience under them, and their detrimental effect upon our fiscal structure is not yet fully appreciated. To the intelligent observer tendencies are already apparent which indicate the stress to which this structure is being put. I mention as an instance the increased cost of capital for new industrial enterprises.

These influences are being felt even in our present prosperity. During the after-the-war period of adjustment the other great nations of the world have been disturbed more than this country. They are not yet restored. As a consequence, we have been relieved of much of the world competition.

When other countries return to productivity and become again the serious commercial rivals of our people, and when we experience those periods of depression which normally follow periods of prosperity, we should have our house in order by so establishing our tax system that its economic effects will be beneficial and not harmful.

The bill represents tax reduction, not tax reform.

If we are to maintain the American standard of living and hold our place in the world, we must adjust our taxes upon an economic and not a political basis.

The bill comes to me for consideration less than two weeks before the contemplated adjournment of Congress, and it provides for a credit on 1924 taxes which should become effective before June 15 next.

No different bill can be passed before adjournment.

The question before me is the present law or the bill in the shape it has passed the Congress. As it stands, in its administrative features generally it is an improvement on the existing law. It will meet the needs of revenue through the fiscal year 1925 and possibly be sufficient for some time if no unforeseen expenses arise.

The immediate relief by credit on 1924 taxes of 25 per cent. is due, is expected by the people, and should be promptly given, and the determination of the taxes to which 1924 incomes will be subject should be made certain while the income is still being received.

As I have said, the bill does not represent a sound permanent tax policy, and in its passage has been subject to unfortunate influences which ought not to control fiscal questions.

Still, in spite of its obvious defects, its advantages as a temporary relief and a temporary adjustment of business conditions in view of the uncertainty of a better law within a reasonable time, lead me to believe that the best interests of the country would be subserved if his bill became a law.

A correction of its defects may be left to the next session of the Congress. I trust a bill less political and more economic may be passed at that time.

To that end I shall bend all my energies.

LA FOLLETTE MOVES TO FORCE A RECESS

ators who want to leave Washington but who feel that their constituencies would demand relief. Some of the Southern Democrats were very nervous over the situation today.

Greater embarrassment would be brought about by the actual vote, for then the names would be recorded plainly in a vital campaign year, with the resulting chance of damaging the Senators not only individually but as representatives of the two major parties.

Look for a Filibuster.

Many observers here say that if Senator La Follette is sincere in presenting his resolution he will no doubt resort to one of the filibusters for which he is so well known, and may do everything possible to prevent the Senate quitting its work in time for the Cleveland convention next week. Rumor had it today that he had gathered a nucleus of eleven to fifteen farm bloc Senators who would follow his guidance in any combat he might start.

The resolution passed by the House was of a concurrent character, thus needing the sanction of the Senate. It will go automatically into the custody of the Appropriations Committee, of which Senator Warren of Wyoming is Chairman and which has yet to bring two deficiency appropriation bills into the Senate.

These will be the last of the regular supply bills to be passed, but Senator Warren will not allow the House resolution to be acted upon until the deficiency bills have been disposed of.

Mr. Warren notified Mr. La Follette that he would bring up the adjournment resolution at that time and that the Senator would not be taken by surprise—a promise concurred in by Senators Lodge and Curtis, the Republican leader and whip, so Mr. La Follette will be prepared in advance to offer his own resolution as a substitute and to make sure of a roll-call upon it.

Both Senators Lodge and Robinson, the latter Democratic leader, are anxious to adjourn until the Winter session, and it is probable that for the first time this session they will attempt a coalition of their parties against the radicals if the strength of the recess advocates becomes too threatening.

If the House should insist upon adjournment and the Senate upon a recess, the President could dissolve the session under the Constitution. Through Section 3, Article 5, he may on extraordinary occasions convene both Houses, or either of them, and in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper.

Party Lines Broken in House.

The vote in the House on the proposed adjournment was closer than had been expected. Ninety-five Democrats, fifty-nine Republicans and three Independents opposed the idea, while 136 Republicans and 35 Democrats voted to adjourn. All the Wisconsin Radicals and their adherents from other States formed the heart of the Republican opposition, but numerous Republicans from the West and Middle West took the same attitude.

While many Democrats objected to adjournment with farm legislation, their leader, Representative Garrett, refused to block the plans of the majority, holding that the responsibility was solely up to the Republicans. The insurgents, from whom determined opposition had been expected, did not take part in any debate, Representative Nelson, the Wisconsin leader, remaining silent.

Opportunity for presentation of the adjournment resolution came when Mr. Barkley of Kentucky, author of the bill to replace the Railroad Labor Board with other boards, announced that it would be useless to press his measure in the face of the filibuster that had been carried on against it.

"For nearly four months consideration of the bill has been opposed and obstructed at every turn by the Republican organization in the House," Mr. Barkley said. "So far as I am concerned, I do not propose to vote for an adjournment next Saturday.

"There is a demand all over the country for not only the passage of this measure to bring to transportation an evil of just and peaceful settlement of their problems and to end the life of a labor board which has brought nothing but discord and distrust; but there is a most urgent demand and need for farm relief legislation.

"The Republican organization in Congress has done its best to prevent all such relief, and they are in a hurry to adjourn because an adjourned Congress can do nothing. But one that is in session might, in spite of them, find another way of bringing relief to the people, just as it found a way and in spite of Republican leadership, to bring the boon of the tax reduction to the masses or our people."

Longworth Offers Resolutions.

Following Mr. Barkley's speech, Mr. Longworth offered the resolution to adjourn Saturday.

"I think that a large majority of this House feels we are ready to adjourn and ought to adjourn," said Mr. Longworth.

"I think that Mr. Barkley has done the wise thing, both from his own standpoint and from the standpoint of legislation, in failing to make his motion further to consider his bill today."

The Republican leader said there were 141 bills on the consent calendar, some of them of major importance, which it might have been impossible to reach if the Kentuckian had insisted on action on his bill.

In response to inquiries by several members, Mr. Longworth said he would agree to vote on the McNary-Haugen bill "the first thing tomorrow."

WHEELER MAY CALL MELLON TO TESTIFY

Senate Committee Will Decide Wednesday on Hearing the Secretary and Daugherty.

METAL COMPANY CASE ENDS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The special Senate committee investigating the Department of Justice completed its inquiry into the American Metals Company case today and adjourned until Wednesday morning, when, Senator Wheeler said, the committee would be advised whether former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty wishes to appear. Mr. Daugherty will not be summoned by subpoena at present.

As to the appearance of Secretary Mellon, who expressed a desire to answer testimony given by Gaston B. Means, former special agent of the Department of Justice, there is still doubt. That is another question which probably will be settled on Wednesday. Chairman Brookhart indicated today that the committee would, in any event, recess at the end of this week until after the national conventions.

Adna R. Johnson, Special Assistant Attorney General assigned to the Alien Property Custodian's office by Mr. Daugherty, and Henry Bruere and Julian Beatty, directors of the American Metals Company, were the witnesses today.

Forty-nine per cent. of the stock of the American Metals Company was seized by A. Mitchell Palmer, Alien Property Custodian, early in 1918 as alien enemy owned. It was sold to American citizens and the proceeds, the sale price plus dividends and interest, a sum in excess of $6,000,000, were placed in the United States Treasury.

After an investigation of certain records of the case and consultation with his superiors, Mr. Johnson, a young Ohio lawyer, recommended that a return of this fund to alleged Swiss claimants was apparently justified, and this recommendation was carried out.

Mayer Urion and Mannington.

Senator Wheeler first established today that Mr. Johnson knew Alfred R. Urion, lawyer and friend of Attorney General Daugherty, who established offices here soon after the Harding Administration came in, and also Howard Mannington, whose name has figured prominently in the committee investigations.

Mr. Urion, the witness said, was recommended to him very highly by Jess Smith. He said Messrs. Urion and Mannington had figured in cases involving the Alien Property Custodian's office, but had received no favors and had obtained no settlements involving large payments.

When Senator Wheeler turned to the American Metals case and tried to establish that the millions involved had been returned to the alleged Swiss claimants through what was known as the Society Swiss, although a majority of the Board of Directors of this society were German citizens, and without a proper and thorough investigation of the facts in connection with the claim.

Mr. Johnson said he had at first advised against the return of the money, but on Sept. 23, 1921, after further evidence had been supplied to establish the legitimacy of the claim of certain citizens, he had recommended that the return was justified. He had acted, he said, on records turned over to him by George Williams, managing director of the Alien Property Custodian's office, and on recommendation written by Mr. Williams on Sept. 21, 1921.

The witness said the Swiss claim had been pushed by Richard Merton. It was developed that Mr. Merton was a German national and had been affiliated with the German interests which had been reported as the owners of the 49 per cent. of stock. Mr. Johnson said he had known Mr. Merton only as the representative of the Swiss claimants.

Senator Wheeler tried several times to have the witness specify the additional evidence of Swiss ownership which had been produced for him by Mr. Merton after Mr. Johnson had first recommended against return of the money to the Swiss claimants.

"I can't tell you what it was specifically," said Mr. Johnson. "I know there was some, and enough to justify the Attorney General in allowing the claim."

Asserts Daugherty's Friends Did Little.

The witness testified that John Todd, former law partner of Harry M. Daugherty; Alfred Urion, Wade Ellis, Howard Mannington and Thomas B. Felder, known as friends of the Attorney General, had little success in cases in the Alien Property Custodian's office in which they appeared as attorneys of record.

Henry Bruere and Julian Beatty told of their trip to Switzerland in the Spring of 1918 to arrange for a contract by which the American owners of American Metals Company stock could purchase the stock owned by German citizens. Both said they had heard nothing at the time of any Swiss claimants. The trip had been approved by the War Trade Board and the State Department, and was made largely because holdings of the American Metals Company in Mexico were involved.

At the opening of the hearing today an attorney representing A. L. Fink, who had threatened to produce evidence that Senator Wheeler obtained liquor for Rosie Stinson when Mr. Wheeler introduced Miss Stinson to testify against Harry M. Daugherty, asked if Mr. Fink was to be heard. He was told that Mr. Fink was not under subpoena and the committee did not wish to hear him.

AMERICAN AVIATORS ARRIVE AT KAGOSHIMA

Make 425-Mile Trip Through Wind and Rain in Japan in Six Hours.

KAGOSHIMA, Japan, June 2 (Associated Press).—Thousands of people lined the waterfront of Kagoshima and stood on the hills about Kagoshima Bay to cheer the American Army around-the-world fliers on their arrival here at 7:02 this evening from Kushimoto.

The flight was a tiring and difficult one. It took six hours to cover the 425 miles. Pitiful winds and rain retarded the aviators, who had been delayed at Kushimoto by bad weather.

BRITONS RUSH FOR AMERICA

Storm London Consulate—60,000 Have Booked Passage.

LONDON, June 2 (Associated Press).—American shipping companies have already booked 60,000 emigrants from the British Isles for passage to the United States during the coming year, according to reports which have come to Consul General Robert P. Skinner.

Hundreds of visa hunters besieged the American Consulate today, hoping to get permission to travel to the United States under the new American immigration quota. Consular officers were kept busy throughout the day explaining they had received instructions not to grant emigrant visas until they were authorized to do so under the terms of the new regulations.

The crowds, however, persisted in the belief that the gates to the promised land would be opened. They waited in lines which started forming at 6 o'clock this morning and many were still in line when the Consular officers quit work. Apparently they had been told by shipping agents that they would be able to get visas at the beginning of this month.

CHAUFFEUR ACCUSES SLAYERS OF FRANKS

"When I read that the Franks boy was missing and of the manner in which he disappeared, I started to take a keen interest in the case. I read every paper, and the longer the thing went on the more positive I became that these kidnappers had assaulted me. Then one day I saw the pictures of Leopold and Loeb in the papers. At once I was sure. That was two days ago and I waited. I wanted to get some one to take me to see them. I wanted to get some one of importance, because a young kid cannot break through official things. Today I saw them.

"There is another funny thing about this all. From the time I regained consciousness that morning I started to think about my kidnappers. I decided long ago that the boy who drove the car was soft, not a tough. But the fellow who pulled me into the car, Leopold, had a hard face. He looked like a thug from the West Side. I think Leopold is one of the toughest men I have ever seen. You know, I don't mean when he is sitting at a dinner table, but when he has his mind set upon a crime. There was murder in his eyes that night. It scared me."

Beam will appear at the State Attorney's office some time tomorrow and make a formal complaint against the prisoners.

State's Attorney Crowe has directed his officers to make a study of recent South Side crimes, to find out if any other atrocities were the work of the two prisoners.

Until today there had been no solution of the mystery. Beam had no sweethearts nor had he any enemies. He was a young taxicab driver making his way without harming any one, minding his own business, working steadily and spending his free time in simple amusements.

Suspected of Tracy Murder.

Two incidents caused the police to direct suspicion against Leopold and Loeb in the Tracy murder, Ream's recognition of them and the finding of two automatic pistols in Leopold's room today.

Tracy's body was found in the early morning with a steel-jacketed bullet through the temple. He was 23, a part-time student at Chicago University and an electrical worker by trade. He was possessed of a fine physique and, although having an artificial leg, was considered able to take care of himself with any one.

He had been to a dance and was on his way to his home at 1,317 East Fifty-third Street at 2:45 A. M. when last seen alive. His body was found at Woodlawn Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street, a little more than a mile from the homes of Leopold and Loeb.

His pockets were untouched and his money was intact, eliminating the theory of robbery. The body unquestionably had been flung from a speeding automobile and the belief was that he had encountered persons seeking to operate on him and that he had made such a fight that a shot was needed to conquer him.

Ream had been accosted at about 2 A. M. on Nov. 20, 1923, five days before the Tracy murder, at Fifty-fourth Street and Dorchester Avenue, the same immediate vicinity. Following the assault on Ream the Tracy murder was ascribed by Chief of Detectives Hughes to the same assailants. No solution of either crime had been obtained up today when Ream identified Leopold and Loeb.

While the attorneys were in their first conference with their clients, the first step in the legal battle that will have a reported $15,000,000 defense fund, the State obtained another important and clinching bit of evidence, the letter to Jacob Franks, secreted in an Illinois Central car, giving directions about throwing out the cigar box containing $10,000.

Letter to Franks in Car, Here.

The youths in their confession had told of leaving a note for Mr. Franks at a drug store on Sixty-third Street, directing him to board a certain Illinois Central train and seek further directions in a time table rack in the last car of the train. Mr. Franks learned of his boy's death just in time to prevent him from going in the drug store and then boarding the train.

Railroad officials today informed Joseph P. Savage, Assistant State's Attorney, they had located the car designated in the confession and the letter after tracing the former, called "Quarter Car," to Grand Rapids, Mich., thence to Albany, N. Y., west again to Cleveland, Buffalo and Cincinnati and finally to New York.

The envelope was still undisturbed when the car was located by the New York police. It was addressed to Jacob Franks and contained the additional notations:

"Very important, do not disturb, please preserve."

The letter itself directed Mr. Franks to stand on the rear platform and to throw off the cigar box when passing the Champion Screw Works factory at Seventy-fourth Street, Chicago, alongside which they were to be waiting in an automobile. The plotters had planned this carefully, even to the extent of Loeb's buying a ticket to Gary, Ind., and purchasing a seat in the chair car where he secreted the message to Mr. Franks.

Then they took up their station, waiting for the train upon which they were sure Mr. Franks would be standing with the cigar box in his hand. If the train slowed down or there was any other suspicious act they would flee. They had tested a throw from the train, using the wadded paper later found in Leopold's automobile.

State's Attorney Crowe announced after receiving this information that his case was complete, ready for the Grand Jury tomorrow and for trial as soon as the law permitted. He had endeavored to retain custody of the prisoners for another night, but Chief Justice John R. Caverly ruled that he could not permit this under this law.

Today marked the beginning of the activities by the prosecution and defense for a trial that now promises a spectacular battle of attorneys and alienists. Justice Caverly was compelled by law to open court today, it being the first Monday of the month, his only reason for hearing the habeas corpus petition, he explained. All other courts were closed because of election day. Messrs. Darrow and Bachrach were on hand when court was opened by proclamation. Each presented a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, Darrow in behalf of Loeb, Bachrach for Leopold.

Prisoners Taken From State's Attorney.

The Court ordered the prisoners brought before him forthwith, and within a few minutes State's Attorney Crowe and Michael Hughes, Chief of Detectives, responded, bringing with them Loeb and Leopold, who still retained their composure and outward appearance of utter indifference and boredom.

Mr. Crowe admitted having custody of the petitioners, without due process, and said:

"Robert Franks was kidnapped and murdered on May 21, his body being buried in a drain pipe out near the Indiana border line. A pair of spectacles was found alongside where the body was concealed. We learned last Thursday that glasses of the same prescription and frame were sold to Nathan Leopold. I sent for him and he came to my office.

"I kept him in a hotel. I sent for Richard Loeb and kept them both in custody. Both confessed they kidnapped and brutally murdered the boy.

"If the Grand Jury were in session I'd present the evidence against them. I shall do so tomorrow afternoon. There is an inquest at 11 o'clock this morning, and I wish to have the prisoners there for identification purposes. After the inquest I will bring them back here and allow their counsel and relatives to see and talk with them, and I therefore ask that this hearing be continued until 4 o'clock.

"That's a most extraordinary request," Darrow stated. "These boys can't testify at the inquest. If there is any charge against them the State can easily file a complaint here and now with your Honor. It can be drawn up in five minutes."

"If we had a pickpocket here we'd be allowed to hold him until we could place a charge against him in the Municipal Court," Mr. Crowe began.

"This is a cold-blooded, vicious murder confessed to by these boys. I'll have them indicted by tomorrow night and arrested on the mittimus."

"What an astounding proposition," Darrow exclaimed. "I never heard the like of it in court before. These boys are minors and under the Constitution entitled to more than ordinary protection from the court. The court has no right to put them anywhere but in jail."

Judge Caverly settled the dispute, apparently pleasing both sides, by stating that the youths were already in the custody of the Sheriff and that he could not return them to the police. But the court directed that they be taken to the inquest, then permitted to see attorneys and relatives, held in the State's Attorney's office until evening and then be incarcerated in the county jail. These orders were followed.

Inquest Again Deferred.

Immediately following the hearing in court both boys were bundled into an automobile and under the guard of a picked group of Deputy Sheriffs and police were rushed to the inquest, which was reopened by Coroner Wolff at Furth's undertaking rooms.

A crowd of between 400 and 500 persons had gathered outside the place and the police had to hurl themselves on them several times before they could open a lane large enough to allow the prisoners to pass. Even then the crowd refused to disperse and pushed about trying to peer in the windows to get a glimpse of the youths.

The inquest was continued by Deputy Fitzner until June 27 and on motion of Mr. Crowe and without objection of Messrs. Darrow and Mr. Bachrach. No testimony was heard and the boys were again placed in automobiles and started for the County Jail, where, according to the court order, they must be held without bail.

The prisoners appeared at the Criminal Courts Building this morning looking rather the worse for wear after spending the night in dingy cells at the Wabash Avenue station. Last night was their first real experience in "being arrested." They had been kept in hotels in comfortable beds previously.

As they were leaving the station in charge of a picked squad detailed to be their constant guards from now on a curious crowd gathered outside.

"Hello there, Bob, how are you?" he called gayly.

"Fine, Babe; how's yourself?" was the reply.

In contrast to the gayety of Leopold was Loeb's despondency. He slouched from the doors of the ballroom, his head down, and slumped into the tonneau of the waiting automobile. During the ride downtown the boys sat on each side of Sergeant Gray. After their break of last night, in which each bitterly accused the other of the actual killing, neither spoke to his companion.

When they arrived at their destination Leopold was taken to the office of George E. Gorman, First Assistant State's Attorney, and Loeb was taken to the office of Mr. Crowe. Here Loeb washed his face and slicked back his hair with water, borrowing a comb from one of the policemen.

A white-haired janitress, who has been a fixture at the Criminal Courts Building for many years, and who has seen hundreds of criminals, peeped in at the youths.

"You know," she said, "neither one of the kids seems really sorry for what they have done. What do you suppose is the matter with them?"

Then, in answer to her own question, she said:

Leopold Asks for Liquor.

Leopold, who has smoked almost constantly, asked Sergeant Klocksif for a piece of paper and a pencil. Then wrote the following note:

"4,754 Greenwood Avenue [his home].

"Please give the bearer a pint of gin or whisky. Babe."

"Deliver that, please," he said, handing the paper to the policeman.

"If I hang," he said brazenly to the detectives in charge of him—"if I hang, there'll be one boy in the room who won't tremble."

But he does not want to hang. He would much prefer a pistol or poison.

He seems to be consistent in this matter of death. He scorns those who fear it. But he points out there are scales and grades of death and punishment. For instance, he'd rather be hanged, he declares, than be cooped up in the penitentiary for the rest of his life, except for the sake of the family.

On the other hand, he'd rather meet death, and the oblivion he insists follows death in his own way.

The only link missing in the chain of evidence against the confessed slayers is the typewriter on which the ransom note was written. City divers, aided by the Coast Guard and workmen operating an electric magnet, still were employed today in searching the water under the bridge over the old yacht harbor at Jackson Park, where Leopold told the authorities he had tossed the machine.

Three alienists have examined Leopold and Loeb. Dr. Hugh T. Patrick, Archibald Church and Dr. William C. Krohn put the usual questions to them and decided that neither was insane.

"The peculiar nonchalance of these youths is similar to that of Carl Wanderer and Harvey Church after each had confessed murder and before they had been sentenced to death," Dr. Krohn said.

"Neither yet understands the significance of his act. They have not yet been alone and they have been treated kindly. When the time comes that each is alone in a cell and has time to think, I believe he will sink to the lowest depths of despair."

Schoolboy Tells of Escape.

One of the several lads, neighbors, in addition to Robert Franks, whom Leopold and Loeb had on their prospective list, verified a part of Loeb's confession today.

This boy, John Levinson, 11 years old, the son of Salmon Levinson, an attorney living at 4,049 Lake Park Avenue, told of being approached on the Harvard School grounds two hours before the Franks boy was abducted.

At that hour, according to Loeb, no victim had been definitely selected. He and Leopold were scouting around the private school looking for one they deemed best suited to their purpose.

Mr. Levinson brought his son to the Criminal Courts Building at the request of State's Attorney Crowe, who wished, by verifying the boy's experience, to confirm some of Leopold's and Loeb's confessions. John gripped his father's hand as he answered questions by Mr. Crowe.

"You know Richard Loeb, don't you?" Mr. Crowe asked.

"Yes, sir."

"Did you see him or talk with him the day Robert Franks was kidnapped?"

"Yes, sir," said John. "I was playing at the Harvard School at about half-past two and Richard Loeb came along and said, 'Hello.' Mr. Cease (an instructor) was with me. I said 'Hello' to Richard and pretty soon he went away."

The Levinson boy escaped death only because the situation wasn't favorable. Mr. Cease, who was seen talking to Leopold and Loeb on the day of the crime, was asked about the conversation.

Efforts to Halt Prosecution.

It was reported tonight by a member of the Franks family that tremendous influence was being brought to bear on Samuel Ettelson, one of their attorneys, and a close friend of the family, to have the prosecution of Loeb and Leopold dropped, so far as the Franks family was concerned.

Mr. Ettelson is said to have declared:

"There is not a chance. I am going through with this thing and no influence on earth is great enough to stop me."

Mr. Franks's answer was:

"No punishment is too great for the perpetrators of this crime. The prosecution will be carried to the limit, so far as I am concerned."

At the State Attorney's office it was said that Julius Rosenwald, a friend of the Loeb family, came to the State Attorney's office, angered because of the detention of the two youths. An hour later Mr. Rosenwald had heard not only of the complete confessions, but that his own grandson was one of those picked by the kidnappers and marked for death. He left the office with a white face and a changed demeanor. To him the story was what it had been to every one else when they first heard it—unbelievable. His knowledge of the facts filled him with horror.

6,000 Claim $16,000 Reward.

Sixteen thousand dollars reward and 6,000 claimants! Having aided in solving the kidnapping and murder mystery, Chief Collins today had the scarcely less puzzling task of distributing the $1,000 reward offered by the city. Difficult conditions also affected the payment of the $5,000 offered by Jacob Franks.

Among the possible claimants, Chief Collins said, were nearly 6,000 members of the Police Department. More definite claims, of course, are those of the man whose careless glance detected Robert Frank's foot protruding from the railway culvert, the two policemen who found Nathan Leopold's glasses near by; the State's Attorney's aide and the policemen who identified the glasses, and the two reporters who learned, despite Leopold's emphatic denial, that he had possessed the typewriter on which the ransom letter was written.

Chief Collins believes the only fair way to attempt distribution of the reward money is to leave it to a commission of three citizens. Mr. Franks and his attorney, Samuel Ettelson, would probably approve that idea. It was said by a friend who had discussed the plan with them.

Each Side Sees a Victory.

CHICAGO, June 2 (Associated Press).—At the end today of the first legal battle over Nathan F. Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, self-confessed slayers of Robert Franks, the State's Attorney and the attorneys engaged by their families each saw a victory.

The accused youths spent a busy day, being rushed from a police station to the State Attorney's office, from there to the court hearing, then to the Coroner's inquest and back to the State Attorney's office, where a conference among the prisoners, attorneys and relatives lasting for two hours was held. The privacy of the lawyers and relatives at the end of their conference continued the new policy of saying nothing which has characterized the defense tactics today since Attorneys reached the boys through habeas corpus proceedings.

Clarence Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, said during the habeas corpus proceedings that the action was not brought so much with a view to having the prisoners freed as to allow their attorneys to consult with them and to prevent the State from making an examination as to their sanity. While the defense in its arguments did not indicate that the boys had suffered bodily harm at the hands of the police, there was an intimation that the confessions, if not repudiated, would be attacked.

Miss Susan Lurie, university student and friend of Leopold's, was called to the State's Attorney's office for examination today after she had told of a conversation with Leopold the day prior to his arrest.

Two automatic pistols were added to the many pieces of evidence collected by the State today after Assistant State's Attorneys said the boys had told them the pistols were carried in their car the day of the kidnapping and were to have been used in case of pursuit.

LEOPOLD FILMED RARE BIRD.

Was Congratulated on His Pictures of the Kirtland Warbler.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, June 2.—Ten months ago ornithologists were much interested in the announcement that the rarest of American warblers, the Kirtland, or pine warbler, had been filmed while rearing its young.

The student who accomplished this feat was Nathan Leopold Jr., now charged with the murder of Robert Franks of Chicago. Previously but three still photographs had been taken of this rare songster and a motion picture for permanent preservation was undreamed of. The Kirtland warbler was known almost alone in Michigan and its habitat was the desolate sandy plains of the northern counties.

For years, scientists have regularly visited Montmorency, Alcona, Iosco, and Alpena counties in the hope of discovering this bird as well as its nest. So rare had the bird become that many disputed its existence. But, this student of ornothology, who had on one other occasion seen this bird in its native environment, uncovered its nest and found two fledgling warblers underneath the protective branches of a small jack pine.

Within a few miles of the nest the Conservation Department of Michigan had established headquarters for its motion picture studio. Leopold knew this and before nightfall a camera was recording this bit of bird history. A thousand pictures were taken, not only of the bird and its nest, and its fledglings and its habitat, but through some unexplainable faculty the parents birds were enticed to feed from the hand of the student who made the discovery.

A few months later, Leopold, upon presenting this bird reel, together with a paper on the Kirkland warbler, before the American Ornithologist Union in Boston, the oldest and most dignified of all ornithological associations, received unstinted praise for his additions to the records of American bird life.

GLASSES MADE HERE TRAPPED LEOPOLD

Brooklyn Firm Enabled Chicago Police to Trace Ownership to Him.

A special type of hinge manufactured by a Brooklyn optical firm enabled Chicago detectives to trace ownership of the spectacles found beside the body of Robert F. Franks to Nathan F. Leopold Jr., who, with Richard Loeb, confessed his part in the slaying and kidnapping of the boy soon after their arrest.

The frame was made by the Bobrow Optical Company of 416 Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn. It was of imitation tortoise shell with the "unity" hinge which that company has been using for the last three years. The company did not have its name or mark stamped on the glasses, which were similar to tens of thousands of others, and only an expert in the trade could distinguish the unusual hinge. For several days the Chicago detectives were unable to learn the maker of the spectacles.

Last Wednesday, seven days after the finding of the body and glasses, the Brooklyn company received a telegram from The Professional Press, a weekly optical journal published in Chicago, saying that the spectacles had the so-called "unity" hinge and were of the short temple type. The telegram asked what Chicago dealers had bought spectacle frames of this description.

"We had sold spectacles with this particular type of hinge to three firms in Chicago; but short temple glasses to one firm only," said Benjamin Friedman, manager of the company, yesterday. "These are frames with short shafts intended for persons of a certain type of countenance in which the measurement from the eye to the ear is unusually short. That one firm was the Almar Coe Company of Chicago. With that information, which we sent at once, it was a simple matter for the police to take the glasses to that firm and ascertain the identity of the person to whom they were sold."

In furnishing the clue which led to the capture of the murderers, the spectacle hinge was a counterpart of the tag which solved the murder of Anna Aumueller by Hans A. Schmidt, a bogus priest. Schmidt threw part of the body of his victim into the Hudson River, wrapped in pillow ticking which bore a tag of the Robertson-Roders Company of Newark. This firm has made millions of pillow tickings, but when this particular ticking was examined, it was found to be of an odd size. The firm had made only twelve tickings of this size in its history. The books were consulted and showed that all had been sold to a dealer in Harlem.

This dealer was a methodical man who was able to furnish to detectives the names and addresses of all persons to whom he had sold this ticking. All of the purchasers were speedily eliminated from suspicion with the exception of Schmidt, who had bought the ticking under an assumed name and had it delivered to a flat in Bradhurst Avenue. Detectives forced their way into the flat, found evidence of the murder and in a few hours had caught Schmidt and obtained a confession.

Mrs. Daisy G. De Kanters, who lives at the Hotel Netherland, has filed suit for divorce in the Supreme Court against Theodore De Kanters, whom she married Oct. 24, 1923. De Kanters, an oil promoter, who came from South America, is accused of misconduct three weeks after his marriage. Mrs. De Kanters was the second wife of the late Isaac George Wateeman and inherited part of his $1,000,000 estate.

NEW SUBWAY BIDS SOON TO BE SOUGHT

Transit Commission Prepares Contracts for Washington Heights Section.

DESPITE ITS SHORT RULE

Transportation Department Takes Over Routing, Planning and Building July 1.

Although the State Transit Commission has only three more weeks to function authoritatively in the routing, planning and construction of new subways, it is not curtailing its activities in that direction.

The commission took steps yesterday and will take others today toward the receipt of bids for contracts for one of the most important sections of the proposed Washington Heights trunk line. In the details of that enterprise the Transit Commission and the City Administration have been widely at variance. As in the case of the Brooklyn-Eastern District route, the Sixth Avenue subway in Manhattan and the Brooklyn, Crosstown subway the oBard of Estimate, under Mayor Hylan's leadership, has found little to approve in the Transit Commission's recommendations. The Mayor recently has preferred to defer most of these matters for consideration of his new City Department of Transportation which will take over on July 1 the task of new subway routing, planning and building.

The section for which the Transit Commission is preparing to seek immediate bids does not necessarily involve controversy concerning terminal extensions either with existing lines or with future city-owned lines, as it is one of the northerly sections of the proposed route. It is a section, moreover, in which Murray Hulbert, President of the Board of Aldermen, has recently urged his colleagues of the Board of Estimate to exercise expedition in getting to work.

The Transit Commission hopes the Mayor and his colleagues of the Board of Estimate will be willing to proceed with this particular piece of work, instead of deferring it for the new Board of Transportation.

MICHAEL FIASCHETTI RETIRES FROM POLICE

Old Head of Italian Squad Demoted by Enright, Leaves Force as Patrolman.

Michael Fiaschetti, a protégé of the late Lieutenant Joseph Petrosino, when the latter was head of the Italian Squad, was retired from the force at midnight last night on a pension of $1,005 a year. Fiaschetti retired as a patrolman, although up to August, 1922, with the exception of the first two months of his connection with the Police Department, he had been a first grade detective sergeant.

When Lieutenant Petrosino was shot and killed by blackhanders in Italy many years ago Fiaschetti became active head of the Italian Squad and remained its head until June 7, 1918, when the Italian Squad was abolished and its work became part of the routine of the regular detective force.

In August, 1922, Fiaschetti was reduced to the rank of patrolman by Commissioner Enright and assigned to the Herbert Street Station in Brooklyn. He said last night that he never had donned the uniform, having for fourteen months done secret work for District Attorney Banton at the latter's request.

It was in line with this work that Fiaschetti went to Europe and obtained the conviction of two fugitives on murder charges. James Papaccio received twenty-four years' solitary confinement in the Italian court for killing Josephine Gentile and Jena Spenilli, girls, while engaged in a pistol duel at Mulberry and Kenmare Streets on May 7, 1921. Joseph Damico, who killed a woman in East Cambridge, Mass., and fled to Italy with her savings of $15,000, was sent to solitary confinement in Italy on Fiaschetti's testimony.

WILL NOT THWART JUSTICE, SAYS STONE

New Attorney General Deplores That Department Became Storm Centre of Politics.

EXPLAINS HIS PRINCIPLES

Tells Columbia Law School Alumni Letters to Him Asked Dr. Dr. Butler's Arrest.

United States Attorney General Harlan F. Stone, addressing the alumni of the Columbia University Law School at the Columbia University Club, last night deplored the fact that the Department of Justice, "just as we reach the peak of the war load, becomes the storm centre of American politics." He added: "When I use that phrase you may know the connotations that go with it."

The Attorney General made no allusion to Attorney General Daugherty, his predecessor in office. In that part of his address which touched on the work of the department, he said only what he would do while he was in office.

"I can make no promises," he said, "with a background of only some two months in office, and I will make no promises. I may be assured, however, if I indulge in some prophecies. It is a common charge against the American people that we are careless in Government, and careless in matters of administration. I do not care to appraise that charge, but I think it has become certain in the last few months that the people have a great and urgent feeling that the administration of justice shall be above and beyond reproach.

"In the first place the department exists for the administration of law, and all law is without fear or favor or without discrimination as to what is to be selected for enforcement or without consideration as to what persons may be affected in the enforcement.

"In the second place, it is fundamental that the agents of government are themselves amenable to the law.

"In the third place, under our system, there reposes in the courts the duty to define the law. It is not for the Attorney General or others to assume, especially in such cases as there may be great public interest, to proceed in such a manner as to intrude upon this function of the courts and thwart the ends of justice."

Mr. Stone caused considerable amusement among the diners when he said that among the first proofs he had had of public lack of understanding of the duties of the Department of Justice were letters reproaching him for not having arrested for treason "my friend, Dr. Butler, because of some pronounced views he holds as to some laws that are held in great respect in certain other quarters."

Dr. Butler was present and had been the previous speaker.

The occasion was a testimonial dinner to Judge Edward Ridley Finch, retiring President of the Alumni Association of the Columbia Law School. Judge Julius M. Mayer, President of the association, was the toastmaster.

CLASS DAY AT COLUMBIA.

Dr. Butler Tells the Graduates of the Value of Good-Will.

Members of this year's graduating class at Columbia College were counseled by President Nicholas Murray Butler and Dean Herbert E. Hawkes at Class Day exercises in the quadrangle of the School of Mines, yesterday afternoon. Dr. Butler advised the men to have good-will at all times, that good-will was the key to the problems confronting the world today.

"If you have learned no other lesson in Columbia College," said Dean Hawkes, "I hope you have learned to 'play the game,' taking victories and defeats as they come, but always with a confident face toward the future rather than a sour face toward the past. The college needs this spirit, the city needs it, and the nation needs it."

The Chester M. Rohrer, Jr. Prize, the annual income of $1,000, awarded to the member of the graduating class who in the estimation of his classmates has proved most worthy of special distinction because of industry, scholarship or preeminence in extracurricular activities, was conferred upon Morris W. Watkins of Scranton, Pa.

Thomas W. Chrystie of Rye, N. Y., received the Edward Sutliff Brainard Memorial Prize for his qualities of mind and character.

The prize of $50 maintained by the Association of the Alumni of Columbia College was given to Dixon S. Griswold of Hastings-on-Hudson as the most faithful and deserving student of the graduating class.

Class Day exercises for Teachers College were also held on the green.

MAGISTRATE MARSH BACK.

Refuses to Discuss His Leniency to Miss Rockefeller.

Magistrate Norman J. Marsh, who twice suspended sentence on Abby Rockefeller, 21-year-old daughter of John D. Rockefeller Jr., after she had pleaded guilty to speeding, returned to his duties in the Traffic Court yesterday. He had been attending the Presbyterian General Assembly at Grand Rapids, Mich.

"I have nothing to say," was the only comment made by Magistrate Marsh when reporters questioned him. He did not call to see Chief Magistrate William McAdoo of good day expiation to him about the suspended sentence. While Marsh was away, Chief Magistrate McAdoo issued a statement that he would investigate the case at the end of the inquiry being conducted by Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield.

The Chief Magistrate may invite Magistrate Marsh to make an explanation. He cannot compel him to do so, however, as a Magistrate's acts are subject to investigation only by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

LAFFAN WILL IS ADMITTED.

Expected Contest Against It Fails to Materialize.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., June 2.—The will of Mrs. Georgiana Ratcliffe Laffan, widow of William M. Laffan, former owner and publisher of The Sun, was admitted to probate here today by Surrogate Wetzell when a threatened contest failed to develop.

Six of seven objectors failed to appear and the seventh, Edith Herbert Hill, a niece, of Montgomery, Ala., waived objections. Nancy Ratcliffe Caperton, a niece, living at Lawrence, who is the largest beneficiary, and her mother, Mrs. Emma Ratcliffe Caperton of Philadelphia, both testified today denying that Mrs. Laffan had dictated a testamentary instrument subsequent to the present will, dated May 10, 1920.

When Mrs. Laffan's will was filed for probate last February it attracted attention because of stipulations that bequests of some of the beneficiaries were to be made void if they became the only man Mrs. Laffan remembered was a man servant, who received $1,000.

The value of the estate is believed to exceed $500,000.

Bootlegger Must Pay Income Tax.

MARX MAKES DEAL WITH NATIONALISTS

Stresemann to Be Dropped and Hartz Made Vice Chancellor, It Is Said.

ISSUE FORCED BY SEECKT

Army Commander Tells of Red German-Russian Plot and Holds Safety Lies in Union.

BY T. R. YBARRA.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 2.—One reason why there has been so much delay in forming the new German Government is disclosed tonight by a story emanating from inner political circles here that General von Seeckt, Commander of the German Army, had suddenly informed Hergt and Westarp, the two most prominent leaders of the German Nationalist Party, that he could not be responsible for the safety of Germany unless the Nationalists entered the new Government.

Von Seeckt based his assertion, it is said, on the fact that he had most convincing evidence that the German Communists, in conjunction with the Russian Soviet Government, were actively plotting the overturn of the German Republic, wherefore he regarded with grave apprehension any German Government based on support of the German Socialists since they stood so close to the Communists.

It is stated furthermore that Chancellor Marx, having heard from Hergt and Westarp what von Seeckt had said, completely changed his attitude, which hitherto had favored formation of a Government of the Middle parties with Socialist support, to one of acquiescing in allowing the Nationalists to enter the new Government.

It is understood that Dr. Marx will continue his efforts to form a new Government and will remain as Chancellor but that Foreign Minister Stresemann will be eliminated from the new Cabinet, since the Nationalists are absolutely opposed to his remaining at his post.

It is pointed out in support of his story that General von Seeckt, besides being an exceedingly able and active man, has an excellent intelligence service providing him with first class information regarding Communistic activities. The General, it is said, told Hergt and Westarp:

"I speak merely as a soldier knowing nothing about economics, but I assure you that if you want to save Germany you must listen to me."

Thereupon they hurried to Chancellor Marx and told him such a sensational and convincing story that he completely reversed his former policy.

Von Seeckt laid particular stress, it is said, on the revelation following the recent thwarting of the Communist attempt to explode bombs at the militarist demonstration at Potsdam last week. It is understood that this evidence showed that the Communists had planned to wreak terrible havoc at Potsdam which might have cost thousands of lives.

It is said tonight that the new Cabinet composed of the Middle and Nationalist parties, will include Dr. Marx as Chancellor and Herr Hergt as Vice Chancellor and that the Constitution will be altered so that the Vice Chancellor will also act as Prussian premier, thus giving the Nationalists control in Prussian affairs.

Others mentioned as members of the new Cabinet are Schlange-Schoeningen as Minister of the Interior; Neurath, now Ambassador at Rome, as Foreign Minister, and Dr. Emminger, who recently resigned from the Cabinet, as Minister of Justice.

BERLIN, June 2.—Frederick the Great, incarnation of the Potsdam spirit in Germany, must have turned in his grave at the news that the police had ordered a Potsdam confectioner to remove from his showcase a painting of Frederick because it was a blot on the municipal landscape."

The confectioner promptly proved himself not only a good self-advertiser, but a humorist as well, inquiring of the police why, if they had never objected to his showcase during the years it stood unpainted and rusty before his shop, they should suddenly consider it unesthetic when newly-dusted, painted and graced with old Frederick's likeness?

The confectioner has not yet received an answer from the Potsdam police headquarters.

REPORT DENOUNCES FORD SHOALS OFFER

COOLIDGE IS CRITICIZED

Intimates He Induced Ford to Quit Presidential Race—Minority for Manufacturer.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—With the presentation to the Senate today of the majority report on Muscle Shoals at the Senate Agriculture Committee, and the minority report prepared and ready for introduction, the Muscle Shoals issue approached final action in the Senate.

Debate on the subject may start at any time, and a vote is predicted by the end of the week.

The fight has settled down between the Ford bid and the Norris bill for Government ownership and supervision of the property. The majority report endorses the Norris bill and denounces Ford's offer, but the minority report endorses the offer of the Detroit manufacturer and condemns Government ownership and operation.

The report drafted by Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, Chairman of the committee, makes repeated reference to what it terms Mr. Ford's withdrawal as a candidate for President and his decision to support President Coolidge, and assails in particular the plan to replace in the properties the Gorgas steam plant, sold to the Alabama Power Company for $3,473,497.

"When the sale of the Gorgas plant," says the report, "was made by the Secretary of War, in which I have said he simply carried out the contract made by his predecessor, Mr. Ford, who was at that time a candidate for President of the United States, became exceedingly angry and condemned the Secretary of War, and through him the Administration, in unmeasured, discourteous terms.

"To appease his anger, a vacillating Administration publicly announced that the amount received for the Gorgas plant would be credited upon the $5,000,000 which Mr. Ford agreed to pay for Muscle Shoals in case his bid was accepted by Congress.

"This kindly favor, perhaps superinduced by other considerations, so pleased Mr. Ford that his anger at the Administration was not only turned into love and admiration but he became so violently friendly that he himself withdrew as a candidate for President and announced his support of the Executive who had made such a liberal concession."

Propaganda favoring Ford's bill, the report says, has been spread over the country from two quarters—one emanating in real estate speculation, and the other being directed to the farmers, who, it assert, have been led to believe that definite assurance has been given that the price of fertilizer will be cut in half if Ford gets Muscle Shoals.

"The Washington representative of one of the largest farm organizations in the United States has been from the very beginning actively engaged in spreading this propaganda," the report alleged, adding that while drawing a salary from the farmers of America, he is carefully feeding them deceptive literature tending to mislead them into Mr. Ford's camp.

"It is not known that Mr. Ford himself is a part of this propaganda," it continues. "By his ignoring the request of committees to come before them and discuss his bid he has made it impossible for any one to question him regarding any of the questions involved. But it would seem that a man of his prominence ought not to stand idly by while in his name misrepresentations are being spread over the country."

A favorite slogan of this propaganda, says the report, is that Mr. Ford will save the farmers from the "fertilizer trust," although the Ford Motor Company, it asserts, is now engaged in the fertilizer business and the manufacturer either must be "a part of the combine and following in their wake, or he must be in a position already to break it down by competition."

The report sets forth that the Norris bill contemplates the distribution of all power not needed for fertilizer production and would give the Government an important key to a giant power system that could cover the entire South, thus, it declares, preventing power monopoly. Fertilizer, it adds, would be produced either by the Department of Agriculture or a private lessee under the supervision of the department, and power production and distribution would be administered by a "Federal power corporation," which would use as operating capital, in addition to a sum obtained from the Alabama Power Company for the Gorgas plant, accumulating earnings sufficient to bring the total up to $25,000,000.

The sum of $1,500,000 would be appropriated for the fertilizer business, and, along with numerous other clauses dealing with competition of the properties, construction work and experimental activities, provision is made for the manufacture of explosives for use of the army and navy.

EX-FOLLIES GIRL SLASHED.

Her Escort Arrested After a Fight in Village Cabaret.

The aftermath of a knife battle in a Greenwich Village cabaret in which a woman was slashed was heard yesterday in the Jefferson Market Court. James McCutcheon of 150 West Seventy-fourth Street, an electrical engineer, was held in $1,500 bail for examination Wednesday, charged with felonious assault.

According to detectives, McCutcheon cut the wrists of Peggie Raymond, former Follies girl, of 205 West Ninety-fourth Street. The quarrel started when men in the cabaret objected to McCutcheon taking the ex-Follies girl home.

Miss Raymond went to St. Vincent's Hospital, where several stitches were taken in her wrists.

HILL BACK FROM EUROPE.

Went to Study Road Building—Learned Nothing, He Says.

Samuel Hill, a pioneer American road builder, returned yesterday on the White Star liner Adriatic from a trip through Europe, where he went to study highway building. He said that he had not picked up any construction ideas there.

Despite all the machinery left in France by the United States troops, he saw Frenchmen laboriously breaking stone by hand. When he asked why the machinery was not used he was told that the laborers must be taken care of first.

that the poor kick (with cancer beyond hope) need a fireproof Country Home? It is an item of news that should not pass unheeded. An Annex to this needed house at Hawthorne, N. Y., on the Westchester hills has been finished, and holds 25 men and women. The important main building should go right up for 100 destitute and homeless cancer cases. The Annex mentioned has proved what the big Home could do by air and comforts, as a tribute of respect to sorrow. $150,000.00 has been received in donations, and we need much more. USES ALARM CLOCK TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Inventor Builds Mechanism Which Brings Death by Gas When Bell Rings.

BROODED OVER A SUMMONS

Janitor Leaves Note for Court Before Killing Himself—Other Inventions Found in Room.

His device was an intricate bit of mechanism including two alarm clocks and a tube. One end of the tube he attached to a gas jet controlled by strings connected with the clocks. The other end of the tube he put in his mouth after setting the alarm for 8 o'clock. Then he went to sleep. When the alarm went off, the strings opened the gas jet. He was found dead in his bed at 745 East 178th Street, where he was employed for seven years as a janitor.

Dornfield, who was 52 years old, had been summoned to appear in the West Farms Court yesterday on complaint of a woman tenant with whom he had quarreled a few days before. It is thought by the police that he brooded over the affair and became despondent. The owner of the apartment, Mrs. Mary Schoeninger of 2,303 Avenue L, Brooklyn, received a letter from him concerning the trouble, and she appeared in the court. When Dornfield failed to present himself Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb issued a warrant for his arrest. Mrs. Schoeninger went to the house and found the body.

Policeman Schmeltzer was called, and he summoned Dr. Lint of Fordham Hospital, who said that Dornfield had been dead several hours. Riveted to the foot of the bed was the device Dornfield had used to kill himself.

Dornfield had made a good fire early in the morning so that the tenants would have hot water. Then he donned his best black suit, put on a stiff white shirt and a black tie and prepared to use his last invention.

Two other inventions were found in the adjoining room, both carefully labeled with instructions. One of them was a furnace attachment for burning cinders mixed with coal. The other was a reversible window, constructed so that the panes could be cleaned on both sides from the inside of a room.

Under a bouquet of paper flowers Dornfield had spread out photographs of himself and relatives. Several manuscripts carefully tied together were piled in a bread box. On the cover was a sign that read: "A poor man's experience. Scrape of brain rubbish. Please take a vacation and read these." The address of a brother, Ferdinand Dornfield, General Delivery, Los Angeles, was printed on a card. On a table was a thick envelope addressed to "The Honorable West Farms Court." It contained an account of the trouble he had with the tenant.

JAPANESE CONSIDER AGREEMENT ENDED

rests the future of the Pacific. Your responsibility is a heavy one, but I know you will acquit yourself nobly. I have no fears when I consider that there will be men of your stamp working in this country, as I on my part will be working in America, for the furtherance of the cause which has become the prime object of my life—the hallowed cause of friendship between our two countries."

HUGHES STUDIES PROTEST.

No Reply Is Expected for About Another Week.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Secretary Hughes is making a very careful study of Japan's note of protest against the exclusion features of the new immigration act.

Until there is opportunity to complete that study, and for him to confer with President Coolidge, the reply of the American Government to Tokio's contentions will not go forward. Those in touch with the situation express the opinion that several days, possibly a week, will elapse before this study is completed.

It is understood that the State Department will undoubtedly take the stand that the Immigration act is not in violation of the Treaty of Commerce and Navigation of 1911 between this country and Japan, inasmuch as Japanese who are given the right of entry under the terms of the treaty are not excluded by the Immigration act.

The Japanese Government has not as yet openly and directly charged that the act violates the treaty, but it does state in the protest that this may be left for consideration in a subsequent communication, and that at any rate "the new legislation is in entire disregard of the spirit and circumstances that underlie the conclusion of the treaty."

POLICE GUARDING AMERICANS.

To Be Watchful When Woods Leaves This Week.

TOKIO, June 2 (Associated Press).—Precautions to protect American residents here and in the United States Embassy, instituted because of the high feeling incidental to American prohibition of Japanese immigration, are being rigidly maintained in view of the rising public indignation against Americans, according to the Chief of Police.

A special police guard will be provided along the route to be taken by Cyrus E. Woods, the retiring Ambassador, when he leaves the embassy for the railroad station to depart from Tokio late this week, although it is expected that any demonstration at that time would be friendly to Mr. Woods, and only one more manifestation of the high esteem in which he is held in Japan.

Leaders in the "national spirit" movement, who have been joined by several retired Generals, today announced plans for a public funeral on June 5 for the "nameless subject of the Mikado" who committed suicide by harakiri on Saturday as a protest against the Immigration law excluding Japanese coolies.

The public obsequies will be followed by a parade to the great wrestling hall at Ryogoku, where a mass meeting in protest will be held.

Authorities, believing that it would be dangerous to attempt to suppress the demonstration, declared today that they would take special precautions to guard against any outbreak of violence.

CANADIANS CONSIDER EXCLUDING JAPANESE

Immigration Into Dominion Exceeds Quota Allowed by 'Gentleman's Agreement.'

OTTAWA, June 2.—Measures which virtually would bar Japanese immigrants from Canada are under consideration by the Canadian Government, the Minister of Immigration disclosed today in the House of Commons.

The number of Japanese now permitted to cross the Canadian border each year is 150 household servants and farm laborers, under a form of gentleman's agreement with Japan. Last year, however, 448 gained entrance to the Dominion, according to immigration records.

That further restriction, which would amount to virtual exclusion, was contemplated was revealed in the House of Commons when H. H. Stevens demanded to know whether the Government had received from merchants of British Columbia a memorial requesting that the same bars be erected against Japanese as were in force against Chinese immigrants.

"Such representations have been received," the Minister of Immigration replied. "The question of the advisability of further restricting Japanese immigration is under consideration."

The New June Morning

The first word to be spoken is to wish "a Happy June" to the person nearest to you.

Of all the distinguished twelve, the month of June occupies a central place. On its last day one stands at the heart of the year and may look as far forward as backward.

The June Roses

are climbing and budding and bursting into bloom.

June Sale of Wanamaker

Talcum Powder 15c

A fine quality of Italian talcum is used in the preparation of this powder which may be chosen with these fragrances

Papillon Ma-Mie Rose
Violet Bouquet

And borated, which is unscented, of course.

Charme d'Amour

A Summer Perfume

A fresh delicious breath from a June garden—mingled scents and memories of spicy clove pinks, sweet Williams, honeysuckle, the caress of roses—can one imagine a more appealing fragrance, or one more deserving of the name Charme d'Amour?

So exquisitely refreshing and dainty a scent, delightful as it is to use the year 'round, is naturally especially so in summer. And despite its elusive, subtle almost mysterious charm it is, due to the fine French essences that go to its making, exceedingly lasting.

Street Floor, Old Building

Tub SILKS

4,000 yards of our $2.50 grade

$1.95 yard

In fascinating striped and checked patterns.

The tub silks every one will wear this Summer. Paris started the vogue on the Riviera last Winter. Smart women at Palm Beach all included the tub silk frock in their wardrobe.

Many, many patterns, from fine line stripes and checks to large bold ones. In brilliant or soft pastel colorings always on white backgrounds. 32 inches wide.

Silk Rotunda, Street Floor, Old Building

Linens—"Taffeta" Cretonnes

Don't forget to order your slip covers before it's too late!

The Upholstery Section especially recommends for this purpose its striped Belgian linens and "taffeta" cretonnes, the latter woven of jute and cotton, wonderfully strong, durable and impervious to dust, as well as exceedingly good looking.

The Linens come in natural color decoratively striped in rose, mulberry, daffodil, cornflower blue or brown, and are 50 inches wide. 95c a yard. The cretonnes are delightfully varied in their subdued or vivid tonal effects. 36 inches wide and $1.25 a yard. Measurements made and all work done promptly and well at reasonable charges.

The Famous "Crown" Linens

Open the Annual June Sale

Twice a year the famous Crown linens are offered at lowered prices. Twelve years ago a woman took advantage of the offer—the other day she wrote in to say that the linens were still giving fine service—but did we have a napkin in the same pattern, as one of her set was lost. We replaced it—and her set is again complete—and still giving service!

There are three grades of this linen—single, double, and triple. Excellent patterns—and plenty from which to choose. Long service in every fibre of the linen—and prices that come but twice a year!

Single Crown Cloths

1½ x 1½ yards, $3.75.
1¾ x 1¾ yards, $4.75.
2 x 2 yards, $5.75.
2 x 2½ yards, $7.25.
2 x 3 yards, $9.
2 x 3½ yards, $10.50.
2 x 4 yards at $12.

Napkins

22 inches to match, $6.75 dozen.

Double Crown Cloths

2 x 2 yards at $9.50.
2 x 2½ yards at $11.50.

AU QUATRIEME

Corbeilles a Papier

Only a place for scraps of paper—but an important one! For this once humble accessory has at last taken its proper part among the decorations of the room, and often carries out its dominating motif.

For lovers of Mid-Victorian days there are scrap baskets of painted metal decorated with prints from Godey's Ladies' Book. They are priced at $15. At the same price is another in heavy cardboard and of somewhat similar type, but adorned with a French print instead of an English one.

Still other baskets of cardboard at $12 come from France and instead of fashion plates show old French prints of bygone scenes. Some less elaborately made and without shellac are but $7.50. A quaint and unusual variety is priced at $5, and is covered with the marbelized paper used to line fine books.

At $40 is a very handsome basket of paper, treated in a way which gives it the appearance of old parchment, and which is further enriched by old Italian prints. Others at the same price are covered with old maps, and are especially suited to the library or study.

More usual in type but none the less attractive is a French basket—really a basket this time, for it is made of carved walnut with insets of cane. This is $40, while another of scarlet lacquer elaborately covered with Chinoiseries is $85.

MAYOR IN ATTACK ON CITIZENS UNION

"Professional Propagandists," Says Hylan in Response to Charge Against Health Board

WALLSTEIN CALLED "NOISY"

Accused of Getting Thousands Out of "Political" Investigation of the Administration.

Under the provocation of the Citizens Union's charges that the Department of Health had wasted nearly $700,000 since 1920 for non-existent emergencies and in payments to favored individuals placed by the Hylan Administration, Mayor Hylan yesterday assailed the Citizens Union as "professional propagandists" and its counsel Leonard Wallstein as "the noisy Wallstein."

The Mayor's counter-attack was embodied in a letter written by him to Dr. Frank J. Monaghan, the Commissioner of the Department of Health. It says:

"The Citizens Union, according to the newspapers this morning, are on the rampage again. They are finding fault with the Health Department because of the expenditure of money for the prevention of communicable diseases. They are trying to set themselves up as knowing more about the prevention of communicable diseases than does the Health Department—a department which has been acknowledged in every quarter to be splendidly administered.

"The Citizens Union is composed of but three members, one being the noisy Wallstein, who was Commissioner of Accounts under the preceding Administration. He did nothing to benefit the people of the city during the four years he occupied that office.

"The Citizens Union was responsible for spending almost a half million dollars of the people's money in an investigation of the present city administration solely for political propaganda purposes. Wallstein got many thousands of dollars out of this investigation for legal services to the notorious Meyer committee, which employed faithfuls to ransack city departments and to besmirch the reputation of honest people.

"Wallstein and the Citizens Union opposed legislation at Albany to give the city the right to regulate the present transit lines to afford immediate relief. They opposed the installation of municipally owned and operated bus lines to aid in giving that relief. They opposed giving to the people the right to say by referendum whether they shall spend $275,000,000 of their own money for new subways.

"Now the Citizens Union wants to run the Health Department. It must be for its own purpose, because this organization cares nothing about humanity, much less the health of human beings. They want to get easy money through trumped up investigations while they are out of office, and they oppose and abuse those in office in the hope of driving them out so they can get back again themselves.

"Fortunately, the people are getting a pretty good line on the activities of these professional propagandists. They know that Wallstein and the Citizens Union are part and parcel of the horde of franchise sympathizers that is always ready to denounce public officials who would prevent the robbery of the people through increased fares of from sixty to one hundred million dollars a year."

FIND LIQUOR CACHE; SEIZE 2,000 CASES

Agents, Assisted by Police, Raid Stable Believed to Be Centre of Wholesale Bootlegging.

GET 1 MAN, SEVERAL FLEE

Two Trucks Loaded With Alcohol Are Stolen and Both Drivers Are Kidnapped.

The seizure of cordials and liquors valued at $150,000 in a South Street stable, and two hold-ups and thefts of alcohol, one in Brooklyn and the other in Newark, were among the activities of Prohibition law violators yesterday. The discovery in the stable led enforcement agents to believe that they had found the trail of bootleggers well supplied with cash, who were conducting a wholesale business in contraband.

The liquor was discovered on an upper floor of the five-story stable building at 212 South Street. More than 2,000 cases of liquors were seized, and it took three vans to carry them to the Government warehouse at the Army Base in Brooklyn.

Information that the stable was being used as a storehouse for contraband was received by Divisional Chief R. Q. Merrick several days ago, and he assigned Agents Van Tassel, McKay, Shannon and Kennealy to the case. The result was the confiscation of the liquors and the arrest of Joseph Cohen of 84 Monroe Street, the watchman. The agents were assisted in the raid by policemen from the Oak Street station. The agents said that several men escaped from a rear window during the search of the place.

Five men held up a truck and kidnapped the driver in Newark and escaped with fifty barrels of denatured alcohol. Robert Wilson of 915 Norfolk Street, Newark, drove the truck to the Reinhardt Express Company, at 101 Vesey Street, Newark, and was alone in the office when the five men entered. Displaying revolvers, they ordered him to follow them to the street and show them how to operate the truck.

After Wilson had demonstrated the gear shifts three of the men forced him to get into a sedan, and for more than an hour they drove him about the streets of Newark. They let him get out at Bergen and Bigelow Streets, a block from the Sixth Precinct police station. In the meantime two of the robbers drove away with the truck. The police found it later at Peshine and Clifton Avenues, but the alcohol was gone.

BOWERY STORE HELD UP.

Two Youths Get $700 in Cash and Jewelry in Daylight Robbery.

Two young men held up a chain store of the Adler Shoe Company at 188 the Bowery just before noon yesterday, locked the manager and a clerk in a rear room and left with $700 in cash and jewelry.

Five minutes before the robbery the manager, Max Goldberg of 1,374 East Eighteenth Street, Brooklyn, had returned from the Commonwealth Bank at Spring Street and the Bowery, after depositing $417, the morning's receipts.

Goldberg was hanging up his hat in a rear room when he heard the front door slam. He entered the store and saw two men with revolvers. He and the clerk, Harry Schneider of 2,058 Prospect Avenue, the Bronx, were ordered to line up against the wall with their hands high.

After taking a $350 diamond ring, an $80 pin, a $45 watch and chain and $80 in cash from Goldberg and $33 in cash from Schneider, the hold-up men told the manager to open the safe. Goldberg, for answer, pointed to the open door.

Finding no money there, the robbers went to the cash register, from which they took $144. Then they locked Goldberg and Schneider in the back room and fled.

Got an unusual letter the other day from a chap in Texas:

"On May 17th, when your sale begins (or earlier if you prefer) send me C. O. D. one of your men's dark mixed suits. The price—five dollars—seems a trifle high for a Sunday suit, but hang expense. I am resolved to lead the fashion in my town. The order is made from your advertisement, hereto attached."

To stop a stampede, we hastily add that the advertisement thereto attached was clipped by our jocular correspondent from a New York newspaper of May 16, 1876!

If we could only wish back the good old days and the good old prices, we'd be as happy as you.

But even if costs have changed, our values haven't varied and we're just as fussy about quality to-day as we ever were.

All-wool, all sizes, all styles.

FAMOUS PICTURES SOLD TO AMERICA

A HOBBEMA ALSO COMING

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 2.—"The Portrait of a Young Woman" by Frans Hals was sold at auction today to Messrs. Duveen of London for 2,100,000 francs (about $105,000) at the sale of the famous De Ridden collection.

Hobbema's "Farm in Sunlight" went for 1,320,000 francs (about $66,000) to Knoedler of New York.

The sale comprises eighty-seven pictures including paintings by Rembrandt, Van Dyck, Rubens, Teniers, Potter and many other famous Dutch and Flemish masters. It is expected to produce a very large sum, which will go to the reparations account, the De Ridder collection having been sequestrated during the war as enemy property.

Famous Paintings Coming Here.

Duveen Brothers of 720 Fifth Avenue said last night that the new Hals portrait would be brought to this country at once, which would mark its second appearance on Fifth Avenue, having been first exhibited here in 1913. The Duveens also said they bought the picture for themselves, following out their usual policy, and did not represent any museum or private collector in the present transaction.

In addition to the two paintings mentioned above, another interesting work of art is now on its way to this country from France. It is a portrait of a "Young Lady," by Domenico Ghirlandaio, and was purchased for Colonel Michael Friedsam, head of B. Altman & Co. Word was received from Paris last week that this well-known and important portrait had been purchased by the F. Kleinberger Galleries for a well-known collector of art in New York, but nothing definite could be learned from the New York Galleries at 725 Fifth Avenue, except that the painting had been sold and was coming to New York and that the price was up in the six figures.

It was revealed yesterday that the painting was to become the property of Mr. Friedsam, and that the work was sold for about $150,000. It has been in the possession of a well-known collector in Paris for many years, and as it is very seldom that a protrait of Ghirlandaio appears in the art market now, its sale and transfer to America is considered an important event in art circles.

BROKER'S LICENSE REFUSED

Superintendent of Insurance Recites Charges Against D. G. Baird.

The application of David Graham Baird, President of the insurance brokerage corporation of Baird & Co., Inc., for a renewal of his license, has been refused by New York State Superintendent of Insurance Francis R. Stoddard Jr.. The announcement was made at Mr. Stoddard's office, 165 Broadway, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Baird lives at 574 West End Avenue. He has controlled the insurance of many of the large cotton shippers throughout the country. The hearings in the case extended over several months. The testimony covered 986 pages.

Superintendent Stoddard announced that he had found Baird guilty of "untrustworthiness or incompetency" as a broker by reason of his failure to properly handle certain accounts of Anderson Clayton & Co. and the Guaranty Trust Company under policies which are specified.

Mr. Baird's individual license as an agent for the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York was also refused by Superintendent Stoddard.

Mr. Baird is President of the Export Insurance Company of New York of 80 Maiden Lane, and was formerly insurance manager for the Guaranty Trust Company. Baird & Co. was agent for the Export Insurance Company and the Employers Indemnity Company, and these licenses have been refused.

KU KLUX KLAN DENOUNCED.

Henry Ford Also Assailed at Meeting of Brooklyn Jewish Centre.

The Ku Klux Klan and Henry Ford were denounced by several speakers at the meeting of the Brooklyn Jewish Centre, 667 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, last night. More than 1,500 persons were present at the meeting, the first of a series which will be held throughout the country under the auspices of The Jewish Tribune. Dr. David Tannenbaum, Chairman of the Forum and Education Committee, presided.

The principal addresses were delivered by the Rev. Charles H. Lyttle, pastor of the Second Unitarian Church of Brooklyn; the Rev. Dr. Louis I. Newman, rabbi of Temple Israel of New York City; the Rev. Israel H. Leventhal of the Jewish Centre, Herman Bernstein, editor of The Jewish Tribune, and M. Moscesohn, Executive Chairman of the United Women's Wear League of America.

Bibles Presented to West Pointers.

The American Tract Society has provided every member of the graduating class at West Point with a Bible. The presentation was made Sunday by the Rev. Dr. William H. Matthews, General Secretary, who also spoke on the practical value of the Bible to a military man. Bibles presented last November in the barracks led to the teaching of the Bible to the sophomore class, according to the society's announcement.

CHANCELLOR SEIPEL LIKELY TO RECOVER

Able to Transact State Business and Discuss League Council Program.

TAKING INSULIN TREATMENT

Physicians Decide to Deal With Diabetic Condition Before Extracting Bullet.

VIENNA, June 2 (Associated Press).—Dr. Seipel, the Austrian Chancellor, who was seriously wounded in an attempt against his life yesterday, is thought to be in a fair way to recovery. He was able to transact some business in the course of the day and even went so far as to discuss the program of the coming session of the League Council at Geneva.

The latest bulletin from the attending physicians says there has been no hemorrhage, which is considered a promising sign, as a bullet is embedded in the lung. The patient's pulse tonight was 120, respiration 28, temperature 99.8.

The physicians report that the Chancellor is an excellent patient and is exercising great self-control. After a consultation today they decided that he should be treated for his diabetic condition before any attempt was made to extract the bullet. He will have a course of insulin treatment given by his own physician.

Karl Jaworek, Dr. Seipel's assailant, who wounded himself after his arrest, has been operated on. He has made a number of conflicting statements which the police are investigating.

The Socialist newspaper, Morgen, says a letter of confession was found at the home of Karl Jaworek. In this Jaworek said that, having embezzled money from the factory where he was employed, and fearing discovery, he had decided to take his life and was determined to take with him the Chancellor, who, he declared, had done so much to the detriment of Austria's workers.

From another source it is stated that, when taken to the police station, the assailant said: "I am innocent. I acted under orders." When asked who gave the orders, according to this version, he replied: "Kill me if you like, but I will say nothing."

BERLIN, June 2.—The members of the Reichstag rose from their seats today when President Wallraf declared that Germany shared Austria's grief and horror at the attempted murder of Chancellor Seipel, and approved with cheers Herr Wallraf's suggestion that the Reichstag officially communicate its sentiments to the Austrian Government.

The most outspoken in praise of Seipel is Theodor Wolff, editor of the Tageblatt, who declares that in Seipel Austria possesses a statesman greater than some apparently great statesmen in the victorious Entente countries.

HUGHES CABLES DR. SEIPEL.

Extends Sympathy and Hope for His Speedy Recovery.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Secretary Hughes cabled the following message today to Chancellor Seipel of Austria, who was shot and seriously wounded yesterday in Vienna:

"Deeply shocked at the atrocious attempt upon your life. Extend sincere sympathy and hope for your speedy recovery."

POPE PRAYS FOR SEIPEL.

Addresses 300 Viennese Pilgrims, Who Join in Supplications.

ROME, June 2.—The Pope, in receiving 300 Viennese pilgrims presented today by Cardinal Fruwirth, addressed them in German, and expressed his horror at the attempt which had been made upon the life of Dr. Ignaz Seipel, the Austrian Chancellor. He besought divine aid in preserving the life of Dr. Seipel for the good of the country and for the Catholic Church.

The pilgrims knelt in the Consistory Hall, where the audience took place, and recited prayers for Dr. Seipel.

KANSAS CITY, June 2.—Radio fans who tune in tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, Central Standard Time, on WDAF broadcasting station of The Kansas City Star may "see" the first of the three official Shrine parades, which are to be staged during the national convention of the order.

A sensitive microphone will be placed next to a street over which the parade passes, where it will pick up the continuous stream of music from the bands. Besides the music a relay of announcers will describe as far as possible the appearance of the drill patrols, the various stunts and other interesting features.

LEAGUE OF VETERANS PLANS TO KILL BONUS

this is class legislation. The law as passed purports to be an act to adjust the compensation of World War veterans, but only those are entitled to its benefits who held the rank of Captain or under. Thus it does not even apply to all those in the class.

"It is not comparable with pension legislation. Civil War pensions have always applied either to disabilities received in service or general disability irrespective of service or old age benefits. No pension law for able-bodied veterans of the Civil War was approved until 1907, when it was applied to those over 62 years of age.

"Many of us believe the bonus was not a legal obligation because when the War Risk Insurance bill was passed it was distinctly stated that it was in lieu of pensions. The then Secretary of the Treasury wrote to the President as follows: 'It ought also to check any future attempts at service pension legislation.' Before the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, when the bill came up for a hearing, he said: 'This bill * * * is in lieu of pensions.'

"As the bonus was not a legal obligation the question arises as to whether it was a moral one. We doubt whether Congress has the right under the Constitution to give away four billions of the taxpayers' money without restriction to part of a class in such manner as it decides in its own good judgment. It is not comparable with land grants and we do not believe it is for the general welfare of the country."

Expect to Block Machinery.

Should the action be brought not only will it be carried through to the Supreme Court, but its effect would be immediately to stop by injunction all preparations for the payment of the bonus. Under the law the United States Veterans' Bureau is authorized to begin issuing insurance certificates on Jan. 1, 1925, and to begin cash payments on March 1 following. That this may be accomplished the bureau and the War and Navy Departments are planning to add 3,500 clerks to their payrolls. Under the proceeding as contemplated these would be enjoined from doing the work and the departments would be prevented from spending between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000 for administrative costs for the first year. The machinery would be effectively brought to a standstill and veterans would not get their bonus at all unless the law was held to be constitutional.

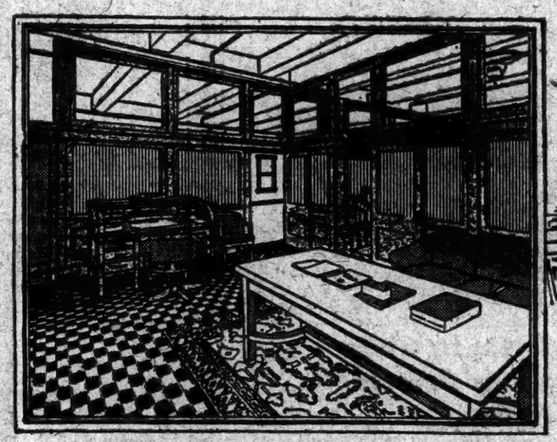
Noise Disturbs a Busy Man



An up-to-date business office with a Blabon floor of Inlaid Linoleum. The pattern is fully rounded with a border of Black's Plain Black Linoleum, which deadens sound, and makes a cheerful appearance.

ONE of the most disturbing factors with which the average business man has to contend daily is the multiplicity of noises that continually reach his ears. While a certain amount of noise is inseparably associated with the average city, many disquieting sounds that subject the busy man to an unconscious strain are unnecessary.

One important factor towards eliminating such confusion in an office or store is a Blabon floor of Inlaid or Plain Colored Linoleum. Aside from its good looks, it has a direct effect upon the quality and efficiency of employees' work, as well as contributing to their comfort. Its resilience makes it quiet, thus eliminating much of the noise and confusion in an office. Its springiness also makes it comfortable for the office force who stand most of the day.

And there is its economy, which makes a strong appeal. The approved way to lay linoleum is to cement it over a layer of builder's deadening felt paper, which has been pasted to the floor with linoleum paste. This overcomes bulging and stretching, makes the seams water-tight and practically invisible. Then you have a permanent floor. And with patterns and colors that go through to the burlap back it will give many years of service.

The upkeep of a Blabon floor is low. Its smooth, sanitary surface is easy to keep clean. An occasional waxing and polishing makes cleaning still easier. No expensive refinishing is ever necessary.

What is true of a Blabon floor for the office is also true of it for your home. With the many beautiful patterns and colorings of Blabon's Linoleum to select from, you can have a Blabon floor to harmonize with any decorative scheme.

Look for the Blabon label and ask for Blabon's Linoleum by name. It is sold by good furniture and department stores. If your dealer hasn't it, write us his name and we will see that you are supplied.

7 PLAYS CLOSED IN EQUITY DISPUTE

ACTORS ENDORSE LEADERS

Unanimous Approval Given to Their Negotiations and All Officers Are Re-elected.

Another Broadway show was added yesterday afternoon to the list of those closed as a result of the failure of the Actors' Equity Association and the Producing Managers' Association to come to terms when Justice John M. Tierney denied the application of Lee Shubert for a temporary injunction to prevent William Harris Jr., from shutting down "The Outsider" at the Ambassador Theatre. Justice Tierney also vacated a stay granted by Justice Philip J. McCook last Thursday.

All of the other shows that closed Saturday because of the termination of the production agreement between their producers and Equity remained idle last night. The Cort Theatre, where "The Swan" has been playing, was dark, with a sign across the doors reading "Closed on account of the Actors' Equity Strike." The production of "Lollipop," which last Saturday at the Knickerbocker, was moved to the storehouse and will not be put out again in any event until the beginning of the Fall season. All the advertising boards and electric light signs for "Seventh Heaven" were removed from the Booth Theatre yesterday.

Several employees at the Globe Theatre box-office were kept busy last night refunding money for tickets purchased in advance for this week's performances of "Stepping Stones." In the absence of Mr. Dillingham, who is in Europe, no one was willing to state the possible date of the play's reopening. It was learned that last Saturday night Fred Stone, the star of the show, gathered his company together on the stage and read the text of a cablegram he had sent Mr. Dillingham, offering to buy the production and adding that he saw no reason for being prevented from continuing to act because of a petty squabble.

"Rain" and "The Nervous Wreck," the Sam H. Harris productions which closed Saturday night, are definitely off the boards for the Summer, with Jeanne Eagels, star of "Rain," preparing to sail for Europe tomorrow and June Walker of "The Nervous Wreck" leaving for a stock engagement in Denver later in the week.

Charles H. Tuttle and William Klein appeared for Lee Shubert and Joseph P. Bickerton, representing Mr. Harris, in the arguments before Justice Tierney. Justice Tierney, offering to act as arbitrator of the differences between Shubert and Harris, said that he did not believe that Shubert, under his contract with Harris, had any rights in regard to production, as the document expressly limits such power to Harris. It was brought out that Mr. Shubert had a financial interest of 25 per cent. in the play.

About 1,600 Equity members attended the organization's annual meeting in the Hotel Astor yesterday afternoon. Unanimous approval was voted of the negotiations conducted by their officers with the managers in recent months, and a resolution of thanks to the members of the six companies which were closed Saturday night was passed. The resolution was read by Miss Jane Cowl.

The entire regular ticket of officers for the coming year, proposed by the Nominating Committee, was elected as follows: President, John Emerson; First Vice President, Ethel Barrymore; Second Vice President, Grant Mitchell; Recording Secretary, Grant Stewart; Treasurer, Frank Gilmore. The following Councilors were elected for a term of three years: A. G. Andrews, John Cope, Jane Cowl, Jefferson De Angelis, Pedro de Cordoba, Robert Elliott, Katherine Emmet, W. C. Fields, Paul Harvey, Robert Kelly, Richie Ling, Olive Oliver, Florence Reed, Elizabeth Risdon, Milton Sills and Scott Welsh.

A resolution was unanimously passed requesting the council to increase the salary of Frank Gilmore, Executive Secretary.

200 LIONS IN PARADE.

Two Cubs Only Ones in Line That Were Not Human.

Two lion cubs vied with more than 200 human "lions" in the annual parade of the delegates of the Lions of the State of New York, held at Yonkers yesterday in connection with the annual convention of the organization.

The convention was held at the Elks Club. District Governor I. Lewis Dreeben of this city presided. These officers were elected: District Governor, Ivan Flood, White Plains; Secretary, Edwin J. Goodheart, Yonkers; Treasurer, Harry Robinson, Southampton; Sergeant-at-Arms, William Abbes, New York City; Directors, Carl V. Gustafson, Jamestown; Thomas D. Austin, Jamaica; Anthony Seitz, Mount Vernon, and Louis Spitzer, Staten Island. Frank Condon of the Midtown Club, this city, was elected international official.

W. R. JONES SURRENDERS.

Head of Jones & Baker Released in $5,000 Bail.

William R. Jones of Deal, N. J., and E. L. Kerstetter of Douglaston, L. I., indicted last week for trading against the orders of customers of Jones & Baker, the curb brokerage firm which failed a year ago for about $4,000,000, surrendered in General Sessions yesterday and pleaded not guilty before Judge Talley. Jones was released on $5,000 bail and Kerstetter, who was President of the New Finance Corporation, alleged to be a subsidiary of Jones & Baker, furnished $2,500 bail.

Seventeen indictments were returned against five men on charges made by customers of the firm. The former cashier was released on bail on the day they were handed up to Judge Olvany. Jackson B. Sells, a partner, who lived at 210 West Ninetieth Street, and Pierre Coleman, controller of the firm, were named in the indictments but have not appeared.

$27,135 A Day Over Six Telephones

THIS is the average daily record made over a full year by 6 telephone salesmen for a wholesale house handling domestic specialties. 402 orders worth $27,135 every working day.

The firm asked our Commercial Service Bureau to study its problems and apply the telephone to them. A plan was suggested, tried and found effective.

This firm now has 12 salesmen covering a densely populated area of 847 square miles—6 sell by telephone from the main office and 6 are promotive field salesmen.

Each telephone salesman averages 67 orders a day and the average order is for $67.50, or annual sales volume exceeding $8,000,000.

This firm is one of 536 in 123 lines of business that have been helped by our Commercial Service Bureau. Its service is given without charge.

If you would like to find out whether you can use the telephone to greater advantage in your business, telephone Longacre Official 5.

Why "Uncle Joe" Cannon was never "caught napping" in Congress

Four times Speaker of the House, and Congressman longer than any other man who ever lived, "Uncle Joe" Cannon is still vigorous at 88 because he never allowed politics to rob him of his rest.

Friends tell many stories of his ability to sleep whenever and wherever he desired. Noise or lights made no difference to him if only he was comfortable.

Serving under eleven Presidents, "Uncle Joe" had seen too many national leaders defeated and broken by fatigue not to form his own canny judgment on the value and necessity of rest for everybody.

With sleep recognized by leaders in every field as a vital source of energy and power, can you afford to neglect it? And fall short of the personal success you deserve, for lack of comfortable bedding?

Take time tonight to examine your sleep equipment. Then go to your furniture dealer's and compare the Simmons springs and mattresses he offers in many types at prices as low as bedding can be built and sold of safe, clean, new materials.

WALKER KEEPS TITLE BY BEATING TENDLER

FIGHTS MASTERFUL BATTLE

QUAKER MAKES GAME STAND

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 2.—Lew Tendler, local southpaw boxer, made his third bid for a ring title tonight before a crowd of about 25,000 persons in the National League Baseball Park, and failed. The Quaker City boy, twice turned back by Champion Benny Leonard when he sought the lightweight title, stepped a class higher tonight and sought to wrest the world's welterweight championship from Mickey Walker, pride of Elizabeth, N. J., but with no more success than he had experienced on his two previous attempts. After ten rounds of hard fighting Walker received the decision of Judges Owen Barrett and Harry McMahon, making it unnecessary for Referee Jim (Silm) Brennan to cast a vote.

The verdict was well received by the great crowd which was attracted to Pennsylvania's first ring championship bout in history. Walker had won the decision fairly, and in a manner which left no doubt even in the minds of the crowd, which was distinctly partial to Tendler. The champion, fighting viciously and systematically throughout the bout, carried off eight of the ten rounds on a margin in points which could not be questioned.

Only in the second round, when he held the titleholder even, and in the eighth session, when he came within an eyelash of lifting the title from Walker, did Tendler show impressively. For the remainder of the bout the challenger was forced to a steadied defensive by the fireless assault of the body which Walker unleashed with both hands.

Tendler Thrills Crowd.

That eighth round, however, will live long in the memories of those who witnessed it, and particularly with Walker. Throwing caution to the winds in this session, Tendler cut loose in a manner reminiscent of the Tendler of lightweight days, when the Philadelphian was accounted one of the foremost boxers in the land. He took the lead from the champion and bewildered Walker with a stinging attack to the head and body. Walker tried to counteract the systematic style of milling he had used from the tap of the first gong, but for the time was nonplussed.

In a spirited exchange Tendler cracked a hard right hook to the jaw which shook Walker to his toes. The champion retreated a pace and then stepped in furiously, lashing out with both hands, only to be met with a flurry of rights and lefts to the face and body. The crowd cheered Tendler and yelled for a knockout as Walker gave indications of sagging under the blows.

The champion went to close quarters only to be met with a succession of Tendler's lefts to the ribs, which hurt. At the bell Tendler was fighting like a man possessed in his attempt to score a knockout and Walker was lashing out recklessly with both hands as he sought to upset his rival's stinging fire.

The bell interrupted Tendler in the midst of his most effective work of the bout and the local lad's chance was gone. Walker, bobbing out of his corner as fresh as a daisy and with a grim smile on his face, leaped at his rival in the ninth with a vicious assault to the body. He soon had Tendler backing away and seeking the relief of clinches. Walker pressed the challenger all over the ring, pumping both hands like pistons to the face and body and occasionally interrupting his fierce attack to drive home a solid smash to the jaw. Under these blows Tendler wilted perceptibly and went back on the defensive until the last half minute, when he suddenly rushed Walker to the ropes and there with a hard left to the mouth drew the blood from the champion's lower lip.

Action Slows Up in Tenth.

The tenth and final round oddly enough was the slowest of the bout. Walker seemed content to rest on his laurels and only sought to drive Tendler away when the latter assumed a momentary offensive. Tendler, it appeared, had assimilated enough of the champion's terrific punches and seemed satisfied to keep at a safe distance for the greater part of the round.

The excitement of the eighth and ninth rounds only slightly exceeded the exciting moments offered in the preceding sessions, as Walker, with the single exception of the second round, battered his way to a clean-cut victory. From the start of the contest the champion made the fighting to his own taste, which, in this instance, happened to be at close quarters. Directing his fire to the body and carrying a two-fisted tattoo with machine-like precision, Walker took the lead from Tendler at the outset and, subjecting the local lad to severe body punishment, took most of the effectiveness out of Tendler's ordinary powerful punches.

The weighing ceremonies in the afternoon almost resulted in Walker's fortune being depleted to the extent of $5,000. The title holder had posted this amount, agreeing to weigh in at the appointed time at the welterweight class limit of 147 pounds. He stepped on the scales and just moved the bar at 147 pounds. Tendler weighed 142¾ pounds, it was announced.

Referee Brennan, it was learned after the bout, collapsed as he left the ring and was seized with an attack of appendicitis. He was unable to referee the closing ten-round bout, in which Clonie Tait, Canadian lightweight, pounded his way to victory over Joe Reno of Trenton. Brennan was removed from the arena to his home.

In the other two ten-round bouts Joe Tiplitz won the decision over Danny Gartin, and Johnny Mealey received the award over Pedro Campo.

TERRIS WILL BOX TONIGHT.

Will Meet Wagner in Henderson's Bowl in Main Event.

The Nostrand A. C. will hold its second set of boxing bouts in its new arena in Brooklyn, known as Henderson's Bowl, tonight with Sid Terris and Eddie Kid Wagner, junior lightweight contenders, meeting in the featured event of twelve rounds. This will be the second meeting between these two rivals. They clashed last Winter in the Garden when Wagner was credited with a knockout victory, the bout terminating with Terris claiming a foul. Since then Terris has scored a series of victories and is confident he will be able to turn the tables on Wagner.

Supreme Court Justice Callaghan yesterday signed an order which calls for a new hearing on the plea that bouts should not be held in the Bowl. The order is returnable tomorrow morning.

St. James Back in Training; Does Half-Mile Trial in 0:51

George D. Widener's great three-year-old colt St. James, which defeated Zev in the Paumonok Handicap on the opening day of the New York racing season and subsequently went wrong while training for the Preakness and Kentucky Derby, is back in training. He has been breezed easily, but yesterday morning was given his first regular work, going a half-mile on the main course at Belmont Park, the quarter in 0:26 and the half handily in 0:51. August Belmont's fine three-year-old Ordinance, winner of the Rainbow, Stuyvesant and Long Beach Handicaps in six days, is recovered from his lameness and it is expected that he will be able to fill his later engagements. Neither of these star three-year-olds will be able to run in the Belmont Stakes on Saturday, of course.

VICENTINI BEATEN BY JOHNNY DUNDEE

KAPLAN WINS ON A FOUL

The years and two boxing crowns sit lightly on the head of Johnny Dundee. The enduring Italian outpointed Luis Vicentini before 7,000 persons in a mild twelve-round bout in Madison Square Garden last night. Vicentini landed the harder blows, Dundee the most. The little champion would jab and harry his opponent and then play tag along the ropes while the harrassed Chilean swung and swung and missed and missed.

There is no denying that when that down swinging right landed it hurt. But it missed so many more times than it connected. Not all Vicentini's punches went astray, however. There was a salvo in the final minutes that had the feather and junior lightweight champion's head bobbing about like a cork in troubled waters. That closing rally and the power of his punches when they did go home augers better things for the smiling young South American. Dundee couldn't hurt him and he could and did hurt Dundee, not once but several times.

It was no one-sided contest despite Dundee's patent superiority in the close spots. The slim lad from the far South clearly won three rounds and three others were even. The rounds that Vicentini won, the fourth, fifth and eighth, were the ones in which he hammered that flailing right home to Dundee's head and body. In each of these rounds he stewed up the champion with vicious swings to the head and in the fourth he cut his ear slightly, bringing the only blood of the bout.

Dundee Is Unconcerned.

How lightly Dundee took the contest may be judged from the fact that he entered the ring chewing gum and that he was still chewing it when he left. This was the first of a series of elimination bouts to be calculated to select an opponent for Lightweight Champion Benny Leonard. Between last night's principals Dundee would likely get the vote. Vicentini didn't know enough yet to be trusted in the ring with such a wily boxer as Leonard.

Dundee got a great ovation from the 4,981 customers who paid $10,231 to see the bout when he entered the ring. A tribute was more whole-hearted than the one he got as he left it. Matchmaker Frank Flournoy said after the bout that the two boxers would be matched for another meeting later in the season. Dundee's weight announced as 125¾ pounds and Vicentini's 123¾.

The semi-final was cut from ten rounds to eight to permit the feature bout to begin on schedule time, but it was not that early even that night. Phil Kaplan of Harlem won from Harry Martone of Jersey City on a foul in the seventh round. The blow, a powerful left hook to the groin, was palpably low and Referee Jack Sherman was justified in calling it so, regardless of the fact that the crowd didn't think so. It was not Martone's first offense either, as Kaplan had complained several times before the foul was declared.

Kaplan and Martone Down.

Prior to the abrupt ending each man had been down once; Kaplan in the second from one of those hard lefts to the body and Martone in the fifth when Kaplan clipped him on the jaw with a right. Neither one took a count. Kaplan had an advantage on points when the bout ended, but was doing his best to stand off his shorter, stockier opponent's rushes. Both rushes were just over the middleweight limit.

There were no wasted moments in the twenty-four minutes that Mickey Brown, of the east side, and Joe Scappatone of the Bronx spent in the ring in the eight rounds which preceded the semi-final. Brown got the decision, both official and popular, but took severe punishment to do it. Scappatone cut the latter rider's ear as early as the third round and then kept the blood flowing from it through the rest of the bout. Later on he all but closed Brown's left eye, and the victorious smile of the winner was a sad affair. However, he forced the fighting, showed courage in the face of trouble and landed the most blows. There was no complaint about the decision and it was undoubtedly fair, but the bout was close and many of those at the ringside expressed nothing worse than a draw for Scappatone. Brown weighed 130½ and Scappatone 131.

In a six-round preliminary Jimmy Canero of Harlem and Frankie Quill of Brooklyn fought to a draw. Canero was the aggressor throughout, but there was more sting to Quill's punches. Quill weighed 153½ pounds and Canero 145. Jackie Coburn outpointed Red Cap Wilson in the first bout of four rounds. They are lightweights.

MAY PERMIT BIG BOUT.

Bureau of Standards May Lift Ban on Queensboro Club Today.

Whether the Queensboro A. C. will be permitted to stage bouts at the Queensboro Stadium, recently condemned by the Fire Department, is expected to be definitely decided today at a hearing before the Bureau of Standards and Appeals. Officials of the club, headed by Simon Flaherty, expressed confidence yesterday that the ban on the arena would be lifted as they felt certain they had met all requirements demanded by the Fire Department. If the ban is lifted, a new date will be set for the much postponed Harry Wills-Bartley Madden bout, which may be held the latter part of this week.

Charles Rose, manager of Madden, announced yesterday that he had accepted an offer of $25,000 to meet Jack Bloomfield, English heavyweight, in London on July 7.

KEARNS ARRIVES HERE.

Will See Dempsey Film Today—Has Attack of Tonsilitis.

Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, arrived here yesterday and immediately confined himself to his room in his city apartment, suffering from an attack of tonsilitis. Kearns said that he had rushed East for the purpose of viewing the six-private showing of the Jack Dempsey motion picture film recently completed on the Coast by the Universal Pictures Corporation. The film will be shown today, he said.

Kearns stated that there was nothing new in the boxing situation with regard to the champion, but added that he might have an important announcement to make today.

MEADOW BROOK FOUR WINS.

U. S. POLO HONORS WON BY PRINCETON

TEAM-WORK IS BRILLIANT

Princeton's four horsemen, sweeping down the field like so many Centaurs, hitting the ball with long, accurate strokes and working together like the parts of a well-oiled machine with every cog functioning as it should, overwhelmed the University of Arizona polo team at Fort Hamilton yesterday for the second time and rode off the field with the national intercollegiate championship. The Westerners strove desperately to make at least a good showing. Between the halves when they were trailing by 5 to 0 they still had hopes for a victory, but Princeton's defense was impenetrable and Princeton's attack was powerful. The inevitable result was an 8 to 0 triumph for the Tigers.

The new champions played superb polo throughout. The one-sided score was not so much the result of an inability on the part of Arizona as it was the brilliant performance of the Tigers. Men who have seen some of the greatest polo teams that this country ever has produced said after the game that the complete coordination of the four parts of Princeton's machine was as well developed as some of the fours which ride the field at Meadow Brook, the cradle of American polo. The youngsters from Princeton perhaps can't hit like internationalists, they do not ride ponies of international calibre, but they do work together as well as some teams which have played for the International Challenge Cup.

Tigers Strong Individually.

There was little to choose between the work of the individuals wearing the Orange and Black. Chuck Newbold at No. 1 scored three goals and distinguished himself by his all-around ability on the attack. Dave Holbrook at No. 2 scored three more goals and his long sweeping strokes sent the ball up into position from which several others were made. H. H. Jackson at No. 3 was constantly feeding the ball forward and he pivoted with his back T. M. Bancroft, whose occasion arose to take up the burden of the defense. In addition he swept forward on two attacks and sent the ball spinning between the Westerners' posts. Bancroft, as usual, defended his goal like a veteran, and further proved that he is the finest back that has ridden a college mount in this season.

All these men did what was required of them individually, but it was the manner in which they understood each other's movements which carried them to victory. Good understanding on the part of the Tigers. When a player, riding up from the rear, shouted to a teammate to "leave it," the man up forward left it with confidence that the man behind could gain better results. The man on the ball was being harassed by a Western horseman, he left the ball to another teammate coming from behind and took the opposition out of the way clearing the path ahead. Such was the type of polo the Princeton players displayed yesterday stringing out down the field, never bunching and always playing with confidence that a teammate would send the ball where it should be sent.

Against that sort of work the Arizona team could not score. Three times the Westerners came close. Three times they had the ball within a yard or two of the goal, but on each occasion Holbrook or Bancroman dashed in and sent the ball hurtling out of the danger zone with a single stroke. If it wasn't Bancroft, it was Jackson.

Princeton Carries the Attack.

Throughout the first period Princeton carried the attack. Not once was Arizona able to get the ball within striking distance of the Easterners' goal, but so desperate did the Westerners fight back that they were able to keep their line uncrossed. However, the defense was certain to yield before the onslaught of the hard-riding, clean hitting tigers sooner or later, and in the second period Newbold sent the ball spinning through the goal three times. Holbrook took up the scoring responsibility in the next chukker and counted twice. After the rest period Jackson started with a rush and added two more points to Princeton's total within fifty seconds after the play started. Holbrook finished off his brilliant work of the afternoon with another goal a few minutes later.

After that the Westerners forced, but it was too late. They tried to save themselves from a shut-out, but although Princeton was unable to add to its total during the last two periods, it checked every attempt that Arizona made, and when the final gong sounded, the Tigers had added the national championship to their Eastern title and were congratulated by Major Gen. Robert Lee Bullard as the finest college polo team in the country.

The line-up:

PRINCETON (8).	ARIZONA (0).
No. 1—O. Newbold.	No. 1—H. A. Saunders.
No. 2—D. S. Holbrook.	No. 2—Paul Sawyer.

COLUMBIA OARSMEN ON HUDSON TODAY

Change of Plans Will Send Crews to Poughkeepsie This Morning in Time to Row.

As a result of a change in plans, Columbia's Poughkeepsie crews will hold their first workout on the Hudson this afternoon instead of tomorrow. Originally scheduled to leave early this evening, the three crews yesterday were notified to be ready to depart at 7:40 this morning, and this will get them to the Blue and White boathouse in time for a practice row in the afternoon. Head Coach Fred Miller is figuring on a workout today and he will not change his plans unless the oarsmen are too late and too tired on arrival to put their shells overboard.

One Columbia crew, the freshman, went to Poughkeepsie yesterday, accompanying the shells on the rig which carried them up the river. At the same time a full detachment of cooks, waiters and other boathouse help went from this city. The coaching launches were sent away last Saturday, so by today the big rowing quarters, two miles above the Poughkeepsie bridge, will be ready and waiting for the onrush of the crews.

In all, Miller will have four eights at hand—the varsity, junior varsity, freshman and a combination crew made up of varsity and freshman substitutes. The latter will be kept together and worked out as a unit. Miller levying on its ranks for any material that may be needed in case of accident or a shake-up of the regular crews.

Arizona Four Will Return For Title Series Next Year

Beaten in its first attempt to carry the national intercollegiate polo championship West, the University of Arizona four is building hopes on making another visit to the East next season in quest of the title. After seeing his team defeated by Princeton yesterday, Colonel Ralph M. Parker, coach of the Western titleholders and the man responsible for the formation of the team, said: "Princeton is a far better team than we ever expected to meet from an Eastern college. The citizens of Tucson, the players, and myself hoped Arizona would make a better showing, and perhaps next year we will. We have learned what to expect and we will try to build up a team that can meet the Eastern champions on even terms at least. I shall not be there, but my successor, Major J. B. Johnson, I am sure will carry on with the idea of another chance for the national championship."

COLLEGE SWIM BODY LISTS 23 RECORDS

Accepts 16 National College Marks and Seven New Scholastic Standards.

The Committee on Swimming Records of the National Collegiate A. A. held a meeting yesterday to pass on the performances returned during the recent indoor season and approved sixteen of the intercollegiate and seven of the interscholastic records applied for.

Most of the new collegiate marks were set by the swimmers of Northwestern University. They accounted for four of the individual and all seven of the relay racing records created.

EPINARD STAYS IN FRANCE.

Colt's Departure for England Delayed Because of Lameness.

MAISONS-LAFFITTE, France, June 2.—The departure of Epinard, crack French four-year-old, for England for his seasoning on the English turf, which had been scheduled for today, has been postponed for a few days as a result of the fact that Pierre Wertheimer's horse pulled up lame after a workout on Saturday.

Eugene Leigh, trainer of Epinard, said that he expected to have him started for England before the end of the week. It is said that there is nothing serious about the French colt's lameness.

PRINCE OF UMBRIA WINS GREENPOINT

KLONDYKE ALSO TRIUMPHS

Prince of Umbria, P. H. Sims's four-year-old son of Brown Prince II. and Umbria, carrying 118 pounds and ridden by Jockey J. Burke, easily carried off the money in the Greenpoint Handicap, which had the place of honor on the card at Belmont Park yesterday afternoon. The brown colt found the distance and the fast track to his liking and raced out in front all through the journey of a mile, which he covered in 1:37, the fastest mile of the meeting. The winner was the favorite in the field of six that went to the post, closing at 9 to 5. The race was worth $1,355 to the owner of the winner.

The first genuinely pleasant day of the season attracted a large Monday crowd, and while the scratches were numerous, there was some good racing. Favorites came home in front in three races. Pony McAtee scored a double, riding James Butler's Turf Idol to victory in the first race and taking the third with H. P. Whitney's Klondyke, riding clever finishes in both numbers. Jockey Shuttinger was warned by the stewards of the meeting after the finish of the race for attempted foul riding against McAtee in the race which the latter won on Klondyke, cutting the Whitney horse off sharply on the rail.

There was not much of a contest to the Greenpoint, as the half closed very strung out soon after they got well into their strides and not one horse improved its position after the first quarter had been covered. Prince of Umbria took the track soon after the start and was never in serious danger. He had the speed of the lot and at the head of the stretch had a lead of three lengths. All Burke had to do was sit still and at the finish H. Waterson's Brainstorm, which chased the leader throughout, was still a length and a half back, being three lengths in front of Lee Rosenberg's Sun Pal. The fractional times were 0:23, 0:45 3-5, 1:11, 1:37.

Sixteen scratches brought the field in the Wheatley, nine a mile dash, down to Mr. H. P. Whitney's three-year-old Klondyke was the odds-on favorite at 3 to 5.

McAtee held Klondyke behind the pace and sent the son of Whisk Broom II. and Cressaun full on the turn into the stretch. McAtee attempted to come through on the rail, having plenty of room, but about a furlong out Shuttinger pulled Banter over on the rail, shutting Klondyke off. McAtee was forced to take up and go around on the outside. Klondyke responded gamely and closed fast to win going away by half a length.

McAtee rode a nice finish to win the first race, a five-furlong dash over the straight course, getting James Butler's Turf Idol up in the last jump to nose out Walter J. Salmon's Chrysalis. P. H. Sims's Wilbur C. Whitehead, which was leading at the quarter, tired and appeared to have the race won, hurdled the path worn across the track and this probably cost the colt the race, as he was only half a length back of Chrysalis at the finish.

The summaries:

MISS COLLETT SETS NEW COURSE MARK

CHAMPION 10 STROKES UP

Mrs. Baker Is Second With 86, and Mrs. Jackson Third With 88, After First 18 Holes of Medal Play.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST NEWTON, Mass., June 2.—Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, who for two years has won the Eastern women's golf championship, played extraordinary golf at Brae-Burn today as defender of the title and made a record-breaking score on the first eighteen holes of medal play. She had a card of 76, the best ever turned in by a woman player for the course, and, except for several bits of misfortune, she might have had a 72, the best figures ever made at Brae-burn, turned in by Tom McNamara and Charley Hoffner, the professionals.

Miss Collett pulled a drive at the third hole, went over the green on a midiron shot at the sixth, and missed two strokes and went into the rough again on the tenth. Otherwise her play was practically perfect. Her score was ten strokes lower than that of Mrs. E. H. Baker of Oakley and twelve strokes lower than that of Mrs. H. A. Jackson of Greenwich, Conn.

These three were followed by three Philadelphia players, Mrs. G. H. Stetson, who had 89, and Miss R. H. Barlow and Mrs. D. C. Hurd, who had cards of 90 each. Ninety-two players participated.

Miss Collett, with her fine showing today, naturally is a prime favorite for her third successive championship and in the remaining thirty-six holes, eighteen tomorrow and eighteen on Wednesday, she can be off her game and still nearly sure to retain her honors.

Penn Crews, First to Arrive, Take Six-Mile Row on Hudson

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 2.—The Pennsylvania crews had a six-mile paddle over the Hudson course this afternoon in their initial workout in preparation for the intercollegiate regatta on June 17. The Quakers, under the guidance of Coach Jim Rice, were the first of the regatta contestants to make their appearance on the course. Coach Wright will join the crews tomorrow. The first contingent of the Columbia crews reached Highland this afternoon and it will probably have its first drill here tomorrow. Wisconsin also will probably arrive tomorrow, Washington on Wednesday and Syracuse later. Cornell is scheduled to appear next week.

SERRICK SETS PACE IN GOLFERS' TEST

Leads Walsh by 2 Strokes in First 36 Holes of Public Links Trial With a 77.

W. Serrick led Richard Walsh, the national public links champion, by two strokes at the end of the first thirty-six holes of the seventy-two-hole test started at Van Cortland Park yesterday to determine the make-up of the New York team in the 1924 championship to be held at Dayton this month. Serrick's scores were 79, 77—156. With the first eighteen holes finished Walsh was in a tie with Joe Ford for the lead, but both went wrong in the afternoon round and Serrick, with a fine 77, the best score of the day, passed them. Walsh required an 80 for his final eighteen holes, while Ford needed five more strokes.

The test will be completed with another thirty-six-hole test today. According to the proposed allotment eight players will compose the team, and six of them will be selected from the municipal links players of New York and two from Brooklyn. According to their showing yesterday, however, the golfers from the other side of the river will be required to get a fast pace today for the first Brooklyn player that went up on the scoreboard yesterday was T. Dauble, who was in a tie for fourteenth place with a total of 175.

The scores:

W. Serrick	79	77	156
Richard Walsh	78	80	158
Joe Ford	78	85	163
Ed Aaron	84	80	164

SWITZERLAND WINS IN OLYMPIC SOCCER

PARIS, June 2 (Associated Press).—The semi-final round of competition for the Olympic soccer football title will be played Thursday and Friday. Sweden will meet Switzerland on Thursday, while Uruguay, favorite for the title, will play Holland Friday.

Switzerland won its way into the semi-finals today by eliminating Italy, 2 to 1, in a thrilling match, the result of which was in doubt until the last minute of play. The Italians attacked furiously for the last five minutes, peppering shot after shot at the Swiss goal, while a crowd of 15,000 persons cheered wildly for them to even the score. When the final whistle blew, however, Italy was still on the short end.

Experts believe that the Swiss players will not be able to cope with either Sweden or Uruguay, both of which teams are looked upon as certain finalists.

The Dutch team, which defeated Ireland today 2 to 1, is not considered to have anything but a slim chance against the Uruguayans.

FRANCE IS VICTOR IN DAVIS CUP TIE

Beats Ireland in Doubles and Qualifies to Meet India in Third Round.

DUBLIN, June 2 (Associated Press).—By her defeat in the Davis Cup doubles today by France, Ireland passes out of this year's competition for the cup, emblematic of world supremacy in tennis. By winning today, France will meet India in the third round.

In today's match in the doubles Jean Emile Couiteas and René Lacoste defeated L. A. Meldon and H. V. Dillon, 8—6, 6—1, 6—2. Although the loss of the doubles today put Ireland out of the play, the two remaining matches in singles will be played tomorrow.

The Irishmen played magnificently in the first set today, but the youthfulness of the Frenchmen finally prevailed and they captured the next two sets rather easily. Until the start of the second set Lacoste did most of the playing for the Frenchmen.

BIRMINGHAM, England, June 2 (Associated Press).—Great Britain's Davis Cup doubles team today defeated the Spanish doubles team, three sets to one, in play in the second European round. The British team now has won two matches to Spain's one match, the singles on Saturday having been equally divided.

OFFICIAL EXPLAINS PLAYER-WRITER BAN

President Wightman Tells U. S. L. T. A. Members Reasons for New Amateur Rule.

CLAIMS TITLES RAISE PAY

Contention Is Made That Salary Is Given Partly for Name, Fame and Playing Winning Tennis.

In a letter addressed to members of the United States Lawn Tennis Association throughout the country, made public today, President George W. Wightman of the national organization sets forth the objections of the association to the practice of players writing tennis for large sums of money, with the purpose of explaining clearly the issue involved in the player-writer interpretation. Mr. Wightman states that there would be no objection to a player writing tennis if he were paid only for what his services are actually worth. It is the added sum, it is claimed, he receives for playing winning tennis in a large number of tournaments, for the titles he gains and for keeping his name and fame constantly before the public that is objected to.

Mr. Wightman's letter in full follows:

Text of the Letter.

In the hope that it may result in a better understanding of the issue involved in the player-writer interpretation of the amateur rule, your President makes the following statement for your consideration: The question at issue is whether any player who continues to play in many tennis tournaments, who writes tennis articles, and is paid thousands of dollars a year, should cease to be an amateur. Although at first glance it may appear that he is being paid solely for his writings, an examination into the true situation shows that this is not the case. We should not be misled by mere appearances. The prominent player-writer, in return for playing tennis, in effect receives substantial money compensation. He adopts tennis as his business, as a means of livelihood. Indeed, until this issue was clouded and confused by personalities and other considerations, there was little doubt expressed upon this point. Practically all newspaper men, and most tennis officials and players understand the situation clearly—that a player-writer is hired and paid for two main reasons, first, for his articles; second, for his name and fame—for what he has done or continues to do in playing tennis. No question would arise if the player-writer were paid only about what his services are actually worth as a writer. There is no attempt to curtail a man's personal liberty in following any business he likes in the business world. Every player may choose his own business, not, however, in connection with tennis or athletics, and may be paid for the services he renders in the conduct of it. That, without infringing upon our amateur rule, provided that in so doing he does not receive any substantial part of that money for what he does on the tennis court.

Titles Considered Assets.

The player-writer's services as a writer, for which he may properly be paid without violation of our amateur rule, consist of such elements as his time and labor, literary ability and knowledge of his subject. Let any governing body, or, for example, any group of unprejudiced newspaper managers, fix appropriately what his services as a writer are worth—making all reasonable comparisons and allowances. The difference between that amount and the total amount received is in effect paid to the player-writer for his performances on the tennis court—for his playing in a large number of tournaments, for his playing winning tennis, for the titles he gains, and for keeping his name and fame constantly and prominently before the public eye by playing tennis, the better to sell his articles.

To test this, observe how papers are induced to pay money for syndicated tennis articles. What are some of the selling arguments a press syndicate makes? It offers its goods for sale, and says that the great pulling power is in the name of the prominent tennis player; it also says that in some of the important tennis tournaments which he contracts to report, he will be the star player; it emphasizes the circulation value of the prominent player's contemporary fame as a tennis player. These are, without the slightest doubt, the real reasons why the player-writer ultimately receives the large amount of money he is worth to the syndicate.

Our amateur rule provides that "a person shall cease to be an amateur—by pursuing or assisting in the pursuit of tennis—as a means of livelihood or for gain or any emolument." Your President believes that the player-writer interpretation of the foregoing provision is entirely sound, and furthermore that it is absolutely necessary if the game of tennis is to continue an amateur sport.

Tennis a Recreation.

Every amateur tennis player, and by that I mean every player in love with his sport solely for sport's sake, wants to keep tennis an open game. He wants the door of opportunity kept wide open to players to do his work as his work and then come to his sport as sport, and find other men doing the same and ready to match skill with him. If, when he gets there, he finds men to whom tennis means a living, who therefore play tennis practically the entire year, who make tennis their main work in life, and whose incomes depend on their beating him, he enters the competition without that fairness of chance which every amateur tennis player in this country may justly claim as his right.

If amateur players are permitted to make the game of tennis their business and to make a livelihood out of tennis (either as player-writer or in any other way), there is bound to develop a small group of perhaps ten or twenty players who will soon be invincible on the tennis courts. Is tennis to be a game for the many hundreds of thousands of real amateurs throughout the country or is it to be a game for these favorite few? Shall we give to every amateur player an equal and fair opportunity to win our championship tournaments, or must we favor a few semi-professionals by lowering our amateur standards to enable them to compete, to win and to keep on winning?

The decision as to what kind of a game the U. S. L. T. A. shall continue to promote rests with you. Your President urges you to consider well the essentials when taking any action upon this question which is of vital consequence to the future welfare of tennis as an amateur sport.

GEORGE W. WIGHTMAN,
President, U. S. L. T. A.

OPPOSES TENNIS RULE.

Terrace-Kings County Club Votes Against Player-Writer Law.

By a vote of 21 to 10, the Terrace-Kings County Tennis Club of Brooklyn adopted a resolution last night calling for a special meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis Association to reconsider the player-writer interpretation of the amateur rule. The club will instruct its delegate to vote against the interpretation should the special meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. be called.

Seventy-two Players and Managers Receive College Letters.

The City College Athletic Association yesterday announced its Spring sports insignia awards. Seventy-two men, comprising the players and managers of the varsity baseball, track and tennis teams, and the freshman baseball and tennis teams, and the four members of the A. A. board were given their letters. The varsity awards:

Baseball.

William Trulio, Halsey Josephson, Louis Slotkin, Archer Moder, Julian Raskin, Arnold Halpern, Max Hodesblatt, Pincus Match, Charles Wigderson, Anthony Morasco, Roy Plaut, Isador Witchell (manager).

Track.

John Clancy, Simon Reisman, John Bewley.

LANDIS CLEARS CLUBS.

Believes Baltimore Has No Financial Interest in Newark Team.

Baseball Commissioner Landis has informed John Conway Toole, President of the International League, that he believes Jack Dunn, Baltimore owner-manager, has no financial interest in the Newark club, whose affairs have been a storm centre in the organization for some time.

This announcement was made yesterday by Mr. Toole, who said the Commissioner voiced his opinion after a conference of International League club owners last Saturday at Buffalo, at which charges of a syndicate arrangement between Newark and Baltimore ownerships were aired. The International League executive asserted his belief that this statement would end allegations against the Newark organization.

Reich Joins Hole-in-One Club.

Walter Reich has earned the distinction of being the first member of the Mosholu Golf Club to become a member of the Hole-in-One Club. Reich's fulfillment of the initiation requirements for membership in the club came at the seventeenth hole of the Mosholu course. The hole is 247 yards long.

West Virginia Nine Brats Alumni.

FAGER IS WINNER IN HARRIER TEST

Captures Met. Sectional Olympic Cross-Country Tryout at Van Cortlandt.

August Fager of the Finnish-American A. C. yesterday won the Metropolitan Association sectional Olympic cross-country tryout over the intercollegiate course at Van Cortlandt Park. Fager, who covered the distance in 31 minutes 14 seconds, led his nearest rival, Gunner Nilson, a clubmate, to the tape by 75 yards, while Charles Beagan of the St. Anselm's A. C. finished about 125 yards behind Nilson. These three and the next seven to finish qualified to compete in the final Olympic cross-country test which will be held over the same course on June 10. The other qualifiers, in the order of finish, were J. Jensen of the Second Army Corps, J. Bell, Brooklyn Evening H. S.; A. Maach, Knights of St. Antony; W. Skeats, Columbia University; N. Gianakopulos, Millrose A. A.; S. Lawrence, Glencoe A. C., and M. Mimorich, Hollywood Inn A. A. Of the field of 84 entrants, 59 started, and of these only 23 finished.

After the race officials of the Olympic Committee emphasized the point that both Fager and Nilson, though Finlanders, have become American citizens, and would be eligible to represent the United States in the Olympic games should they succeed in winning places on the team in the final tryouts.

YANKS LOSE TO LOUISVILLE

Ruth Makes Home Run for 10,000 Fans, but Colonels Win, 7-6.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 2.—Despite the fact that Babe Ruth hit a home run here today, a homer that is said to have broken all distance marks for the local park, the Yankees were defeated by the Colonels, the Louisville representatives in the American Association, by a score of 7 to 6. Babe's homer, the local victory and the sight of the big league players seemed to satisfy completely the 10,000 fans who turned out for the contest.

ANDERSON DEFEATS FISHER AT TENNIS

FEIBLEMAN ALSO ADVANCES

Wins From Behr by 6-2, 6-4, While Kashio Conquers Wyckoff, 6-1, 6-0—Kynaston a Victor.

Play in the Brooklyn tennis championship came down to the round before the semi-final at the Terrace-Kings County Tennis Club yesterday with four players occupying brackets in this round, all of them in the top half. They are Sellchiro Kashio, Japanese Davis Cup player, who gained his first leg on the Terrace Bowl in 1922; Reginald Talmage, youthful star of the home club; Fred C. Anderson and Edward Feibleman, former Harvard representative. They will pair in the order named, the winners to go into the semi-finals.

Kashio and Anderson both advanced by one-sided scores in the fourth round. Kashio defeated H. N. Wyckoff at 6—1, 6—0, and Anderson eliminated Kenneth Fisher at 6—2, 6—2. Talmage accounted for S. V. Brubans at 6—2, 6—4 and Feibleman won from Allen Behr by the same score. Percy L. Kynaston, the ranking player in the tournament, met his third opponent in the tournament yesterday in Merritt Cutler. He defeated the Seventh Regiment player at 6—2, 6—1 and occupies a place in the round before the semi-final. He will meet Horace Orser of Stuyvesant High School, who advanced after a close match with S. Onda, winning at 6—4, 8—6.

Anton F. Von Bernuth, Jerry Lang and Armand L. Bruneau were the other three winners of the day, all of them in the fourth round. Von Bernuth won from L. C. Haff at 6—2, 6—3, while Lang eliminated Frank Danielson at 6—0, 7—5. Bruneau, playing rather easily, was forced to work hard in many of his rallies with James W. Andersen, a veteran of the old Kings County Tennis Club. The score was 6—4, 6—4. Whenever Bruneau speeded up his strokes he had the play fairly well in hand, but when Andersen's strokes Anderson surprised him with his well-placed returns, catching him out of position and forcing him to cover all sorts of territory.

Both Anderson and Kashio played pretty tennis yesterday. Fisher was not playing much below his best form, but he could not make any headway against Anderson. The latter's work at the net was as good as he has shown this season. He often played a safe shot to the corners of the court, caught Fisher out of position so regularly that Fisher was almost ready to give it up as a hopeless job. Almost every time that he returned the other fellow found that he had sent the ball straight at Anderson, who would take the ball neatly and put it away with finality.

When Anderson sought to get direction on his return, Fisher almost invariably sent the ball back wide of the lines, and so lost the point any way. It was a pretty hopeless task for him to try to win a game on Anderson's service. Anderson's low drives across court and his kills at the net ended most of the rallies in his favor when Fisher had the service.

The summaries:

Third Round—Armand L. Bruneau defeated James W. Andersen, 6—4, 6—4; Jerry Lang def

GIANTS WIN, 9-6, FROM THE BRAVES

KELLY GETS A HOME RUN

The Giants beat the Braves yesterday in a battle that was fought out on the issue of which club could show the worst pitching. "Rosey Bill" Ryan, although none too good, was a shining star compared to Tim McNamara, who wasn't even in his best Fordham form. Including a homer by George Kelly inside the Polo Grounds with one on, the Giants conquered by 9 to 6, increasing their lead over the Cubs, who were idle.

For most of the afternoon Ryan was not himself, as was clearly demonstrated by the fact that he made two consecutive hits, one of them a double. Any time Bill makes two hits, consecutive or otherwise, it is a matter that deserves the gravest attention of President Heydler and Commissioner Landis.

Besides showing that something was wrong with Ryan, the safeties proved that everything was wrong with McNamara. All his hitting and running around the bases did Ryan no good. Tiring under the unwonted exertion and discovering that the Giants already had accumulated a nine-run lead for him, "Rosey Bill" eased down after tolling six scoreless innings and let the Braves have their way in the seventh and eighth. When Mickey O'Neil opened the ninth with a single, Acting Generalissimo Jennings told Ryan to catch the first elevated train south and Claude Jonnard, the perfect relief pitcher, was summoned to put the side out.

You couldn't blame Ryan for not taking the game seriously after the sixth. Everybody but Frank Frisch was clouting the ball and making it a funny track meet instead of a serious ball game. McNamara was knocked from pillar to post and Bancroft let him stay in beyond his appointed time. A flock of singles and doubles, mixed up with a walk and two wild tosses by Bancroft, resulted in five runs for the Giants in the fourth after they had scored once in the second.

Kelly Hits Home Run.

With a young man by the name of Batchelder, southpaw by birth, serving in the sixth, Kelly hit his homer, a sock inside the grounds toward right field. It was Long George's third homer of the season and third hit of the game, having been preceded by a single and a double. Rod Lucas, once a Giant, pitched the seventh and eighth, which comes under the head of twirling for a lost cause.

The Giants corraled fourteen hits off McNamara in five innings before Bancroft decided that it would be an act of common sense and humaneness to give him the air. Seventeen safe blows in all fell into the Giants' bag, and nine of these Messrs. Kelly, Snyder and Jackson divided evenly among themselves.

Ryan was a puzzle to the Braves for six frames and to General Jennings for the other three. The recent proud parent went along so well until the seventh, allowing only one hit, that he must have decided the Boston batters had taken the afternoon off. At any rate, in the seventh he began pitching fast and carelessly, wearing a sphinx-like smile all the time, and the harder the Braves hit him the more he smiled and the faster he worked. Even with a five-run lead and only one on base, he was yanked in the ninth. Five-run leads mean nothing to this Giant pitching staff.

Although making two hits in the first inning, the Giants didn't score until the second, when Kelly doubled, Groh got an infield hit and Snyder singled to centre.

Giants Score Five More.

Five more were put together in the fourth, Manager Banny's own low throw to first on Kelly starting it. Jackson's single and Groh's walk filled the bases, and Snyder's single to left emptied two of them. Even when Ryan doubled over Stengel's head Bancroft allowed McNamara to linger on. Groh scored on the double, and Snyder lumbered across when Young singled to right. Southworth's infield hit to Bancroft scored Ryan, but when Young tried to come home from first on Banny's wild chuck to the plate he was called out by Charley Moran.

Singles by Kelly, Jackson and Snyder built up a sixth run in the fifth, and when Batchelder ascended to the mound in the sixth he was greeted by a committee comprising Messrs. Meusel and Kelly, who hit, respectively, a double and a homer, both to right. Kelly's liner took a bad bound past Stengel and rolled to the fence. Stengel's royal and ancient arm was not equal to getting the ball back fast enough to stop Kelly at the plate, George scoring standing up.

Ryan was in hot water in the seventh. Cunningham doubled, Gibson singled and Ryan emitted a wild pitch which let Cunningham in. Walks to Tierney and Padgett filled the bases, and O'Neil scored Gibson and Tierney with a hit to centre.

Frisch rushed into Ryan's territory for Bancroft's bunt pop and the ball fell safe in the eighth. Singles by Tierney and Stengel brought the run in. Against the Ryan-Jonnard combination in the ninth the Braves got two more men on O'Neil's single, Felix's triple to right and Banny's out.

SENATORS DEFEAT ATHLETICS, 8 TO 3

Walter Johnson Easily Subdues Philadelphia, Fanning Seven Batters.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—The Washington Senators and the Philadelphia Athletics stopped off here today on the way West for a single game and the Senators won, 8 to 3.

Heimach received poor support from the infield, and several hits that should have been fielded gave the visitors a lead that the home team could not overcome. Walter Johnson was master of the situation at all times and fanned seven of the Athletic batters.

PIRATES BEAT CARDS, 6-2.

Carey's Home Run Starts Rally in Eighth That Brings Victory.

PITTSBURGH, June 2.—A five-run rally in the eighth inning enabled the Pirates to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals here today by a score of 6 to 2. The scoring in this inning began when Carey drove out a home run with Cuyler on base. Three additional runs followed, and Dyer, who up to that time had been pounded for eleven hits, retired from the mound.

Kremer started on the mound for the Pirates, and, though touched for eight hits in as many innings, was effective in the pinches. He made way for a pinch hitter in the last half of the eighth, and Cooper twirled the last inning.

Caught at the Plate

John McGraw, still on crutches, watched the victory from a previously prepared position in the centre field club building. As soon as he has a telephone and radio rigged up and a wig-wag system installed, John will be able to run the games himself.

Big doings today. Flatbush en masse will be over for a pair of contests starting at the hour of 1:45. Dazzy Vance will appear in person in one of the games.

Uncle Charley Moran said Tierney swung at a third strike in the fifth, but on appeal to a higher court, Cy Rigler, the decision was reversed and the batter given a base on balls.

Bancroft looked slower than usual at short.

The President's Platform

I think everyone who wears shoes will agree with President Coolidge that there are too many Taxes and too many Profits, tacked on to the cost of a pair of shoes in the long journey he describes from the steer to the store.

The Regal Platform—Maker to Wearer, One Profit and One Price, cuts the trip from the steer to the Store by shipping direct from the Regal factory into the Regal Stores.

The Regal Policy cuts out the Wholesaler's Tax, and cuts out the Retailer's Tax, and you pay One Profit instead of Three Profits because we don't make any Profit until you buy a pair of Regal Shoes in a Regal Store,—and then you pay only the Manufacturer's Profit.

Political Platforms change every four years, but the Regal Platform is the same today as it was thirty-two years ago when Cleveland was elected President on a Gold and Silver Platform.

Concentrating on One Quality, cut the cost of making the shoes in our Factory. Shipping direct from Maker to Wearer, all One Price, cut the cost of Selling, in our stores. Doubling the sales in two years, in 60 Regal Stores from Coast to Coast gave us the Volume that made it possible for us to reduce the cost to the consumer 35% and give you a Value that cannot be duplicated at the price.

The shoe shown on the Regal Platform above is only one of sixty new Spring styles that illustrate the value that can be built into a shoe by cutting out the Wholesaler's Tax, the Retailer's Tax, and doing business direct with the consumer with One Tax instead of Three Taxes and One Profit instead of Three Profits.

NEW YORK, TUESDAY, JUNE 3, 1924.

TAX REDUCTION IN EFFECT.

It is hard to see how the President could have done other than sign the Tax bill. The alternative would have been to go to the country on the clean issue of the original and full Mellon plan. For that fight, it is obvious, the Republican Party has no stomach. It is doubtful if, in the short interval, Mr. COOLIDGE could have persuaded or forced the party managers to put the right kind of plank in the platform. Moreover, the desire of the people for immediate tax reduction had been sharpened by the very efforts and leading of the Administration, so that its denial would have been a severe disappointment, sure to entail serious political consequences. With the bill as it stands making certain a cut of 25 per cent. in this year's income taxes and a reduction of virtually the same amount in next year's, the argument for approving it was too strong for the President to resist. In fact, it is solely for this reason, as he states, that he decided to sign it.

In dealing with the defects of the bill Mr. COOLIDGE writes with marked lucidity and force. He shows that what the country has got is tax reduction, not tax revision. The folly of the futile surtaxes remains what it has been. To retain them with one hand while opening with the other a door for their evasion is simply grotesque from the point of view of a scientific system of taxation. All this the President reaffirms with great positiveness at the same time that he points out the offensive nature of the high inheritance taxes and of the provisions for publicity of individual income tax payments. The truth is that the President's comments seem as if written, up to the very end, as a powerful justification for vetoing the bill. But for the final reason given he signed it. Its mischievous features he hopes that Congress may correct later. But that will require another Congress and another political atmosphere.

HYPHENISM MUST GO.

The fact that the "French vote" in New York City is negligible in size does not excuse the effort of certain French groups to unite the "Franco-Americans" for political purposes behind a candidate who they believe will work in the interest of France by opposing prohibition and immigration restriction. No one questions the right of American citizens, regardless of origin, to vote as they please, or to join clubs to support any candidate. But every unhyphenated American will resent appeals to racial groups to vote for a candidate or an issue in the interest of some foreign nation. To be sure, American politicians are not blameless in such matters. They have too often truckled to the "foreign vote" and so have encouraged racial solidarity among foreign-born citizens. But the unpleasant aspect of the question is that the hyphenate works not for the United States but for some other country.

That the evil is not confined to any one racial group is admitted. Commenting on the present instance the leading Spanish-language paper in New York takes occasion to warn its readers that to endeavor to exert their influence by supporting a Presidential candidate is useless, inasmuch as it is Congress which passed the immigration law and prohibition, and which alone can change them. But the appeal, here again, is to the interests of the people of the fatherland. The German paper, highly indignant because it sees in the affair the work of the French Government, conveniently forgets that it has many times urged the Germans in America to support a candidate favorable to Germany.

What all these people fail to understand is that it makes no difference whether they are called Franco-Americans, German-Americans, or Italian-Americans or any other kind of the hyphenated. The mischief lies in their fostering racial groups for political purposes in this country, and in the fact that practice has shown that these groups seek to use their power in the interest of some country other than America. They confuse their natural sentimental affection for the fatherland with their plain duty as American citizens.

It is, naturally, hard for certain foreign elements to adjust themselves to our ways. This has been particularly true since 1914, during which time the intensification of European national hatreds has been echoed here. Under the circumstances it is understandable that so many of the foreign groups are more concerned with the fate of the fatherland than with the true interests of the United States. This explains why the German papers in this country are, as a rule, more German than those printed in Germany, and the French papers more intransigeant than the journals of Paris. The same is true of the rest of the foreign-language press. But against every effort of any foreign group, be it French, German, Italian, English or any other, to use its influence in American politics in behalf of its land of origin, only the most rigid opposition will be offered. Hyphenism is intolerable and must go.

A WELCOME ADJOURNMENT.

In voting to adjourn next Saturday, the House of Representatives counts upon the Senate's agreeing to that date. This is despite the rumblings and menaces which come from various disturbed and disturbing gentlemen in the upper chamber, who declare that they will not permit Congress to adjourn until after this, that or the other impossible bill is passed. Representative LONGWORTH is confident that the eagerness to get away from Washington is so great that members cannot be held in their places after June 7. The country will surely not wish them to delay their departure. It has now come to feel, with the lady in the play, that it could fairly dote on the absence of Congress.

It is not merely a question of adjourning in time for the National Conventions. Senators and Representatives confess that they are anxious to get into direct touch with sentiment at home. There they may learn something which they never could find out in Washington, and which will surprise them. If they can each find a Truthful James among their constituents, he will tell them that Congress was never so unpopular in the United States as it is today. Rightly or wrongly, the impression pervades all sections that the legislative branch of the Government has this year broken its own record for wasting time, filling the Congressional Record with swollen words of vanity, failing to meet public opinion, playing the smallest kind of personal and partisan politics, and nullifying as far as possible the policies of a President who has risen in popular esteem in proportion as Congress has sunk.

If Congress really insists upon going home, the people would not think of asking it to stay longer. There is not the slightest hurry, of course, but still, if it must go, all concerned will try to bear up under the parting. The pressure to quit from within Congress is not so great, by thousands of foot-pounds, as from a disappointed and weary country.

FRENCH SOCIALIST "HIGHER LAW."

Soon after the resignation of PAUL DESCHANEL on account of ill-health, in September, 1920, M. MILLERAND was elected President of the French Republic for the full term of seven years. The large powers given him by the Constitution are exercised through the Ministry. That is responsible. He is not, save in case of high treason, when he may be tried before the Senate on charges brought by the Chamber of Deputies. There is no other way of removing him from office. Today, if custom had been followed, after the Chamber has chosen its President, M. MILLERAND would ask him and the President of the Senate to the Elysée to confer with them as to who shall succeed M. POINCARE as President of the Council of Ministers. M. HERRIOT seems to be unsympathetic to the campaign begun by the Unified Socialists through their newspapers and departmental organizations, ratified by their National Congress, approved by the Republican Socialists and the Communists against M. MILLERAND; but M. HERRIOT needs their votes, and has been weak enough to yield.

These patriots demand M. MILLERAND's resignation, and will refuse the vote of confidence by which the President's choice of anybody as President of the Council must be ratified by the Chamber. What is M. MILLERAND's crime? He has long been dissatisfied with the essentially decorative functions of the President, who, as JEAN JACQUES WEISS put it, "should hunt rabbits and not govern." For five years or more he has suggested certain constitutional changes enlarging those powers. There was no harm in that, and many Frenchmen agree with him. But he was once a Unified Socialist. That party is given to foaming at the mouth when his name is mentioned. It raged at his theory and program. In the last election his attitude was said to be "incorrect." He expressed himself in favor of the National Bloc. Therefore, there must be no Government until he is driven out. Stated with all its implications, the Socialist theory means that the President of the Republic, elected by the National Assembly, is removable by a coalition of Deputies after a general election. If his course was, as the resolutions of the Radical Republicans and Radical Socialists say, "contrary to the spirit of the Constitution," theirs is contrary to its letter.

The only precedent for it arose under unusual and shameful circumstances, in the dark days of a shaky republic. JULES GREVY stuck to his odorous son-in-law, DANIEL WILSON, the decoration seller. The Chambers put the Ministry out, refused to allow another one to be formed, forced GREVY to resign. Now, when France and Europe and the world are awaiting the execution of the Dawes plan and the beginning of stability, prosperity and peace, political factionism and blind personal hatred provoke uncertainty and disturbance, seek, to make a bagatelle into a crisis, disappoint the general hope and have already caused a feeling of uneasiness and alarm in the financial markets.

What ridiculous blague it is, this Radical patter about MILLERAND "as "a constant danger to the republican "régime itself"! The French Republic has grown up and conquered all dangers of pretenders and dictators and coups d'état. The rhetoricians of the Left are showing themselves incapable of governing before they have begun to govern. They should be careful not to offend the patience, good sense and patriotism of the French people, never too well represented by the casual combination of groups in the Chamber.

UNCUT PAGES.

Dr. MELISH believes that the heresy trial of Bishop BROWN was a mistake; not because the Bishop's views invite approval, but because the case was one calling for education rather than punishment. Having opposed Darwinism and Socialism without knowing DARWIN and KARL MARX, Bishop BROWN was ultimately brought into contact with these two authors and, possibly in an excess of remorse, swallowed their doctrine whole. "Men like Bishop BROWN," says Dr. MELISH, "make the last book they read their master."

The despotism of the latest book is encountered widely. A large percentage of the educated public is continually risking nervous prostration in a desperate effort to adapt itself to the current book season. It is a very new book that is not advertised as a challenge, or a provocation, or a high-explosive shell dropped into the world's accepted practices and philosophies. Since the output of books is rapid, there is little time for making comparisons with older books for the purpose of ascertaining whether the new book is really a hit or a dud, or, for that matter, whether the new book is really new. Too many conscientious people are regularly engaged in reshaping their views and their lives to the latest translations from Madrid or Czechoslovakia. Too many well-meaning parents harass themselves with doubts about their duty to their children in the light of the publishers' Spring lists. Incidentally they harass their children.

Yet a greater peril than a new book swallowed without critical appraisal is a new book swallowed without cutting the pages. There have been moral and intellectual revolutions produced by a single book. To others than KEATS new planets have swum within the ken of an ardent reader. But most of the contemporary noise, with a good deal of the mischief, is supplied by the non-readers of all the latest books. How many men and women, of the great number engaged in reacting to FREUD, have read FREUD—to the extent of understanding him, let alone weighing him?

THE INSTITUTE OF POLITICS.

While the whole country from Maine to California will in a sense be an institute of national politics this Summer, with a multitude of speakers, a selected group of university and college teachers, financiers, officers of the Army and Navy, diplomatic and consular officials, foreign newspaper correspondents and others of special training and experience in the field of international law and politics will be gathered in the quiet shade of Williamstown to discuss international affairs. It will be a sort of unofficial Geneva. The Mahomets of European diplomacy and economy will come to Greylock, since America will not go to Mont Blanc.

It is a most commendable use to which the inviting campus and historic halls of Williams College are to be put during the Summer vacation. To meet and hear men who are taking a constructive part in Europe's rehabilitation is, even with an attendance of a few hundred, quite worth while, especially as these who listen themselves reach many thousands eventually. Mr. BERNARD BARUCH, who has given so generously to its support in the past and continues it in the present, and President GARFIELD, its Director, deserve the thanks of the public for this pioneer institution, which will doubtless in years to come be remembered as the precursor of many other undertakings for promoting international acquaintance and intelligent cooperation in matters which concern all. But it is unfortunate that no Senators are enrolled. It is particularly regrettable that Senator LODGE is not mentioned either among those who are to listen to the lectures of BENES, the brilliant young Prime Minister of Czechoslovakia, and BONN, the economist from Berlin, and AUBERT of France, and TAWNEY of England, or among those who are to conduct round-tables, direct discussions and answer questions about our own foreign affairs. Of what avail is it, except in the long run, that public sentiment is informed concerning foreign affairs if the Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee prevents its official expression? Could not the Sage of Nahant be induced to spend a part of his ill-earned vacation in the western part of the State which he misrepresents by opposing practically every policy supported by the President?

The leaven of this conference may after all help to lighten the whole lump of heavy ignorance and selfish indifference that seem now to be impervious to any such lifting of our international policy. If our national politics at its millions of round-tables can feel the influence of this Williams meeting, perhaps November will see even a Senatorial conversion and a changed Congressional spirit.

CHINA AND THE SOVIETS.

Recognition of the Moscow Government has been sought in the European capitals primarily for the sake of prestige, though the more substantial possibilities of loans and credits have not been overlooked. Recognition of the Soviet Government by Peking brings little prestige, but does carry with it positive results. The outstanding factor is the control of the Chinese Eastern Railway, built with Russian money, but running for 1,100 miles through Chinese territory. Now that Peking has acknowledged the Soviets as legal successors of the Czar's Government, title to the railroad accrues to Moscow. To be sure, the money with which the Russo-Asiatic Bank built the road was really French and Belgian money; and while China may condone the expropriation of the bank by the Soviet Government, the non-Russian shareholders are still to be heard from. But the problem ceases to be Asiatic and merges with the general issue of foreign loans and ownership in Russia.

China secures from Moscow acknowledgment of her right to purchase the railroad, a consummation not exactly of the immediate future. Since that privilege for China already existed on paper, it was presumably other considerations that impelled Peking to grant recognition. Those considerations come close to being force majeure. If Peking had refused to sign, it would have found itself confronted by separate Russian treaties with Mongolia and with CHANG TSO-LIN in Manchuria. As it is, there are rumors of such treaties already in existence. Peking might also have been put under pressure by Moscow in respect to the Boxer indemnity, irrespective of the legal argument that the Soviet Government was in Chinese eyes only a de facto Government. In return for de jure recognition China now obtains virtual remission of the indemnity.

The new treaty does not greatly alter the status quo along the Russo-Chinese frontier, but may have significance in the future. If Moscow secures recognition from other Powers than Great Britain interested in China, it would imply general recognition of the arrangements entered into between Moscow and Peking.

SAILOR AND SEA LAWYER.

Rear Admiral CHARLES H. STOCKTON, who died in Washington on Sunday, was a great sea lawyer as well as a capable and energetic officer with a creditable service afloat. His career began in 1864 on the Macedonian during her famous pursuit of the Confederate steamers Florida and Tallahassee. At the time he was in his third year at Annapolis, so that the Macedonian experience was the regulation Summer cruise. It is fitting to dwell upon STOCKTON'S sea assignments, because he is chiefly remembered as the best-informed man in the navy on international law, as author of the Naval War Code and as President of the War College at Newport from 1897 to 1901. As a Lieutenant he went around the world on the Swatara, serving with the transit of Venus expedition. During an insurrection at Panama in 1885, being then executive officer on the Iroquois, he landed with a battalion to protect American interests, behaving with the tact and clear-headedness that were already characteristic of him.

There followed a two years' cruise in command of the Thetis in Bering Sea and the Arctic, during which STOCKTON sailed as far east as Herschell Island and as far west as Herald Island and Wrangell Land. His duty was to look after the whaling fleet. The Thetis was the first naval vessel to explore the coast line of Alaska from Port Tongass to Demarcation Point. On the eve of the war with Spain STOCKTON was transferred from the Yorktown to the honorable post of President of the War College, but a man of his temper would have preferred to fight with SAMPSON at Santiago or with DEWEY in Manila Bay. The detail to Newport was in the nature of promotion, for STOCKTON had distinguished himself as a lecturer at the War College. He reached the grade of Captain in 1899. The command of the battleship Kentucky was given him when he retired from the War College. For more than four years Captain STOCKTON was Naval Attaché at the American Embassy in London. As a Rear Admiral—his promotion came in 1906—he took a squadron of cruisers to Bordeaux with instructions to represent the United States at the French Maritime Exposition. At Brest he was in touch with a Japanese squadron commanded by Admiral SAKAMOTO, and he did not hesitate to say upon his return that the cruisers Tsukuba and Chitose were superior to his own ships, and that "the state of efficiency of the Japanese was very high." Broad-minded was a term often applied to Admiral STOCKTON. Of the sterling quality of his patriotism there was, at the same time, never a doubt.

Retiring from the service for age in 1907, STOCKTON was named the following year as United States delegate to the London Naval Conference, which was called "to determine what laws "should govern the international prize "court in the cases to be brought before it for trial." The result was the Declaration of London. Soon after the outbreak of the World War Admiral STOCKTON brought out his useful "Outlines of International Law." He had been for some time President of George Washington University. CHARLES H. STOCKTON has been compared as a naval author with Admiral MAHAN, but the fact should not be lost sight of that MAHAN preferred the library to the deck of a ship. This was not the case with STOCKTON.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

This Suicide May Make Trouble.

In this country, the fact that a Japanese committed suicide in front of what the Tokio earthquake left of the American Embassy, as a protest against the passage of our new immigration act, will seem merely absurd or pathetic. In Japan the deed will have a wholly different appearance. The man followed as well as he could the ancient ritual of hara-kiri, and his death, even to the most "advanced" of occidentalized Japanese, will be taken as having both dignity and nobility, and it will prove to them, as perhaps nothing else would, that this man took, and other Japanese should take, the very gravest offense at the discrimination against them which our law now makes.

The suicide said, by what he did, that life is intolerable to him while even in one country the Japanese are treated as an inferior race. The letter explaining what he purposed to do was that of a man in desperate earnestness, but it showed no signs of insanity, and the concealment of his name proved that he was not seeking to advertise himself.

There is much in Japanese history to justify his expectation that his tragic gesture would earn respect, even if it did not inspire action. To commit hara-kiri was originally the privilege of the military nobles. Later it had two phases—voluntary and compulsory. If the Emperor deemed the death of a noble necessary or deserved, he sent him a magnificent dagger and a polite note requesting him to use it. And the order always was obeyed, in the old days with an elaborate ceremony, in which all of the victim's relatives solemnly participated. No disgrace attended such a death. Compulsory hara-kiri disappeared with the feudal régime in 1868, but voluntary hara-kiri, while it has become rare of late years, still occasionally happens as a refuge from unendurable misfortunes.

They Choose to Make Death Slow.

To Western minds, hara-kiri seems a method of committing suicide at once repulsive and unnecessarily painful. The wounds inflicted are necessarily fatal, but death is not immediate.

The Chinese sometimes commit suicide from motives much like those of the Japanese, and they also do it as a means of obtaining revenge on an enemy not otherwise to be reached. Their expectation is that the suicide can return as a ghost and make things extremely uncomfortable for him who has committed the real or imagined wrong. And when the object of the vengeance thus sought also believes in both the possibility and the danger of such haunting, he often does see or hear the angry ghost and really suffers from its visitations.

This idea forms no part, apparently, of the rite of hara-kiri as practiced in Japan. In 1891 a young naval lieutenant killed himself thus before the graves of his ancestors as a protest against his Government's failure to prevent Russian encroachments in the northern islands, and the commander of a transport during the Russo-Japanese war so escaped from the responsibilities that would have attended the capture of his vessel off Vladivostok. In the latter instance, the fact that the suicide was by hara-kiri prevented it from being disgraceful in Japanese eyes, as it would have been if a pistol or the rope had been used.

They Showed No Sign of Genius.

There is little or no evidence of superior intelligence in the way the two young Chicago murderers took, to carry out whatever may have been their purpose in killing the Franks boy. From the moment when they hired their car for the fatal ride they began to scatter evidence against themselves, and before the deed was complete they had rendered discovery of their guilt practically certain. The concealment of the body was so careless that it was seen almost at once, and the dropping of a pair of spectacles easy to identify was an error that would have been avoided by many a criminal who had not been to college.

Their plan for collecting the ransom money, while highly elaborate, for that very reason gave room for many mistakes, and it was inferior in several respects to the somewhat similar device invented by the illiterate AUGUST PASCAL, who kidnapped the Coughlin baby from Norristown, Pa., in 1920. PASCAL, too, ordered that the money be thrown from a fast-moving railway train, but not at a named spot. Instead it was to be wherever, along the whole stretch of country between Camden and Atlantic City, a white flag was seen beside the track, and the villain never would have been caught had not the Pennsylvania State Police been able to secrete men near every likely place, in waiting to pounce upon the blackmailer.

That amazing story is told in MAYNE-REID MARO'S "Mounted Justice," and for once facts did not have to be embroidered by imagination to make literary art. Perhaps the Chicago "experimenters" had read that story and tried to improve on it, but PASCAL left them far behind, for though he was caught at last he would not have been, probably, had he been content with the $12,000 that he did get from the baby's father. He tried again and lost.

Sunday in the Park.

Commissioner GALLATIN will say, truly enough, that he does what he can with the means at his command to keep Central Park clear of the rubbish which a certain large class of New Yorkers delight to scatter over it. Nevertheless, it does seem that somehow he could pinch enough out of his appropriations for paying men to start work early Sunday morning and to pick up then the evidences of barbarism left the day and evening before.

Of course, the Sunday crowds would proceed to undo such labors, but at least there would be a good beginning for the day of rest, and, just possibly, a clean park would command more respect from our savages than a dirty one does.

As the Commissioner has often said, however, if the people wanted Central Park to be clean, they could have it so, merely by acting like civilized beings, and at next to no expense whatever. But at least the Commissioner could see to it that his concessionaires keep their stands in order, and the spaces around them.

THE APPLE FROM THE WEST.

One Must Know the Kind to Buy, and When, to Get Good Quality.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The plaint of W. G. Vincent about Western apples exhibits a peculiar prejudice that has been shown by critics since Western apples became dominant in the Eastern market. I shared the views he holds for a time, being greatly prejudiced in favor of apples raised on our Eastern farms, where they get plenty of lime from our soils, and where the old traditional varieties are raised.

Our introduction to Western apples was not fortunate. We first got the Ben Davis apple, raised on the Ozark Uplift in Missouri. That apple was and is all that Mr. Vincent charges against Western apples in general, and which they do not deserve—"nothing to recommend it but the attractive color of the skin." But it did not take the clever Western apple men long to divorce themselves from the Ben Davis, and to develop varieties which cannot be classed as Mr. Vincent classes them, but which are almost all that one can in reason ask of ideal fruit.

Probably Mr. Vincent does not realize that the buying of apples and almost all eatables has become something of an art. Now I am able to get good Western apples during the entire season, but not by simply asking "the salesman in one of the 'chain' stores for a good eating apple." The chain store is the last place to ask for a good apple; and the man or woman who asks any salesman for a good eating apple, or who asks for that kind of an apple from any street-stand merchant, deserves to get exactly what Mr. Vincent says he gets, an apple "with a dark maroon skin and plenty of gloss, but utterly lacking in flavor and juice."

One does not go into a store and ask for a piece of cloth when he desires Anderson gingham. Just so, any one wishing good apples must know what to ask for, and must know a good apple when he sees it. Mr. Vincent can get good Western apples if he takes pains to become acquainted with the Western apples that are originally good (there are plenty of them), and also takes pains to ask for that particular apple that is seasonable. Chain and other cheap stores and the street stands sell poorer kinds of apples, second and third qualities, and apples that are out of season.

As to Western apples, there are no more delicious apples in the world, if the good varieties are taken in their season. As to the native Eastern apples, they have become uneconomic as a crop, if raised in the old way. They are as good as ever if they are properly raised—the trees cultivated and sprayed, the apples graded and properly packed. These processes do not pay the farmer with the usual old size of orchards, from, say a dozen or so trees to 1,000. I know a man with a good orchard of 1,000 Baldwin trees who lost money every year that he harvested his crop, because even with so many trees he could not afford to cultivate them, spray them, grade and properly pack his fruit. It would need, I suppose, 500 such orchards handled as a unit to make them return a profit to the owners.

Yet it is perfectly possible to get excellent Eastern-grown apples all the season through. I do, every year, and I do not take any great pains to do so. Simply I look about to find dealers who carry native apples. Mr. Vincent lives in Elizabeth; he can get fine native apples in Newark. He will have to buy by the barrel during the time the dealers are receiving the native fruit. He can get his cherished Northern Spy, Baldwins, Greenings, Kings and various other kinds. If he wants good Western apples, all he has to do is to find out what varieties are seasonable when he buys, and not buy the supremely delicious Delicious apple two or three months after it has ceased to be seasonable. I have excellent Baldwins in my house at this moment, bought at a local store in half-bushel lots. I have had good Eastern apples all season, and do have them every season. It is not difficult to get them, but they cannot be had by ordering them by telephone of chain or the general run of fruit and vegetable stores.

Like all household supplies, the quality one wants can be had if the buyer knows the elements of the science of buying—that is, knows what he wants and how to seek it out.

GEORGE FRENCH.
Montclair, N. J., June 1, 1924.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

George Kennan's passing on is a sorrow to the Japanese and their friends, as well as to the Russians.

Mr. Kennan once told me that after his experiences in Russia he believed the Russians to be the most idealist nation in the world; but that after a long stay in Japan he came to the conclusion that the Japanese were even more so.

ALICE STONE BLACKWELL.
Dorchester, Mass., May 31, 1924.

THE TARIFF ON DYES.

C. H. Herty Declares the Industry Has Kept Faith With Congress.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of May 25, in the column headed "The Merchant's Point of View," was an article on "More Cases Under the Tariff." The particular subject is the appeals brought before the Court of Customs Appeals by importers of dyes against the decisions of the General Board of Appraisers.

The assertion was made:

"Back of the whole matter is the effort to put as high duties as possible on dyes which are not manufactured in this country but which it is hoped to have produced here if sufficient protection is given. The case now under advisement is the first one to ascertain when, if ever, it is permissible to use selling prices in this country as a basis for calculating duties."

This is unjust and misleading. The dutiable value of a dye "not manufactured in this country" is clearly defined by the Tariff act of 1922. To prevent fraudulent undervaluation Congress prescribed that this duty should be based upon the price at which importers sell the product in the United States, deductions being allowed for duty, cost of transportation, and insurance, general expenses and profits, the latter "not to exceed 8 per centum."

If the importer contents himself with the 8 per centum profit considered reasonable by Congress, no difficulty is experienced; but if he charges a greater profit he must either give up a part of that extra profit to the United States Treasury or pass on an extra burden which he imposes on the consumer of dyes.

Nor is there anything new in this method of arriving at dutiable value. It will be found for certain cases in the Tariff act of 1897, Section 32; in that of 1909, in Section 11, and in that of 1913, Paragraph 3, Section 1.

But this has nothing to do with the development of the manufacture of dyes "which it is hoped to have produced here."

The American valuation basis of appraisement of "competitive" imports was placed in the act by Congress for the avowed purpose of protecting the American industry. In adding the further provisions for increasing duties in proportion to the concentration of dyes, and to prevent false labeling, misbranding, &c., Congress simply adopted the recommendations of the United States Tariff Commission made on Dec. 12, 1918, in a report to Congress entitled, "Dyes and Other Coal Tar Chemicals." The Hon. F. W. Taussig and the Hon. Thomas Walker Page were the respective Chairman and Vice Chairman of the commission at that time. Surely no one would ever presume to designate them as ultra-protectionists, but they did recognize the necessity of "preventing undervaluation" and protecting "the consumers of dyes against fraud and the manufacturers against unfair competition from foreign manufacturers." (Page 30 of that report.)

The records of the Appraiser of the Port of New York show that during the nine months ended April 30 of the fiscal year 1923-24 there was a total of 11,428 appeals to reappraisement, of which number less than 250 affected coal-tar products. During this same period there was a total of 30,600 protests, of which again less than 250 concerned coal-tar chemicals. In view of the large number of entries of coal-tar products, the "American valuation basis of appraisement seems to be working more smoothly than the more accustomed foreign market value or export price. On this point I am permitted by Senator Wadsworth to quote from a letter to him from Appraiser Kracke under date of March 24, 1924. Mr. Kracke states:

"Now that a large proportion of the difficulties have been overcome and a considerable amount of the problems have been solved, things are running very satisfactorily. * * * Very few complaints are now being received from the importers on technical questions arising. * * * Since the importers are better acquainted with the practice of this office in determining values and competitiveness there is a constantly decreasing number of complaints and disputes. By careful handling the advances made in value so far have all been decided in our favor by the Board of General Appraisers, and I believe at the present time all of our largest and most difficult problems have been solved, and future disputes will be less and less. To date I can say that the American selling price plan is working satisfactorily, so far as this merchandise is concerned."

The United States Tariff Commission issued an official statement showing that in 1923 the output of American dyes had largely increased, the quality of the products was still further improved and the average price per pound, which in 1922 was 60 cents, was lowered to 54 cents. I may add that the number of completely independent manufacturers is just as large today as on the day of the enactment of the Tariff act of 1922.

Surely such a record justifies the claim that the American coal-tar chemical industry has kept faith with Congress and with the American people.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The articles in today's TIMES about the rains of this May and other Mays are very interesting, but why is the May of 1888 forgotten? That was the May following the great blizzard in March of that year. I was living in Ulster County that May and I distinctly remember that it rained about every day that month. R. K.

SEA HUNGER.

The wail of a waking wind in a wide-flung wheat field,
The lilt of a low-flown lark o'er a list-less lea.
The sigh of the serried trees on a city street yield
Nothing to me.

The sails of a schooner bending across bright billows,
Bright billows with ruff of lace and a lap of green;
The stir of a wild, salt wind in the clinging willows,
Boisterous, clean;

The flame of an iris flower, a fallen planet
Cooled to a spark;

Nasturtiums sheathing the shells in neat white-washed gardens
And fish that is put to dry on a birch-pole flake;
Remembering these means hope to a heart that hardens

Remembering these uplifts and yet leaves me lonely
And sick for the song, the sheen of the Summer sea,
The wheat field, the lark wake pleasure in landsmen only—
Nothing in me.

COOLIDGE PRESENTS ROOSEVELT MEDALS

Justice Holmes, Dr. Eliot and Elihu Root Recipients of Memorial Association Awards.

CEREMONY AT WHITE HOUSE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—President Coolidge today presented to Associate Justice Holmes, of the United States Supreme Court; Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President-Emeritus of Harvard University, and Elihu Root the medals awarded annually by the Roosevelt Memorial Association.

The presentation was made in the east room of the White House and all the recipients except Dr. Eliot were present. He was represented by Jerome D. Greene of New York.

The medal was presented to Associate Justice Holmes for development of public law; to Charles W. Eliot, for the leadership of youth and the development of American character, and to Elihu Root for the administration of public office.

The names were presented to the President by Hermann Hagedorn, Director of the Roosevelt Memorial Association, in the presence of the directors of this association and other guests, including public officials.

In presenting the medal to Justice Holmes, President Coolidge said in part:

"In peace and in war, as a soldier and as a jurist, you have won the gratitude of a nation by your uniformly gracious and patriotic devotion of great talent to its service. One can but well feel very confident that President Roosevelt would have been peculiarly gratified to know that this distinction was to be conferred upon you. This medal will be to you as a testimony to the universal recognition of your great public contributions."

Addressing Mr. Green as though he were Dr. Eliot, since he represented the President said:

"In making its selection the Committee of Awards has but vindicated the judgment that your countrymen everywhere would have pronounced, if as a body they could have been permitted to make this award. Yours has been a true and an especially impressive conception of the great business of living. Premier for many years among educational leaders, you have maintained standards in which in that field we cannot imagine the future will have reason to question or alter. You have been a guide in your time, and a prophet of our future."

Then, turning to Elihu Root, the President said in the course of his eulogium:

"Your career of public service has been among the longest, most noted and varied in our American public life. It has made you known as a scholar, lawyer, statesman and a patriot. You have made America more American and humanity more humane. You have made more secure the peace of nations, and more certain justice among men."

The Roosevelt awards, which were established by the Roosevelt Memorial Association last year, are given annually in three out of nine fields. These fields are: Administration of public office; development of public and international law; promotion of industrial peace; conservation of natural resources; promotion of the welfare of women and children; the study of natural history; the promotion of outdoor life; the promotion of the national defense; the leadership of youth and the development of American character.

The committee on whose recommendations the trustees of the association made the awards consists of the following: Mrs. C. Grant La Farge, Chairman; R. J. Cuddihy, Albert Bushnell Hart, Harold T. Pulsifer, Albert Shaw, Julian Street, E. A. Van Valkenburg, Owen Wister.

SCHOLARSHIP FOR TEACHERS

84 Win $500 Awards From American Child Health Association.

Announcement was made last night by the American Child Health Association, 370 Seventh Avenue, of the awarding of $500 scholarships to teachers in thirty-three cities. Awards will be made today in fourteen more cities.

There were 1,639 contestants from all over the United States. Before announcing its decisions the committee examined the classroom work submitted by each teacher and considered her teaching record, as well as the results obtained in correcting the physical defects of pupils.

The winners of the scholarships will have the privilege of attending the Summer school session of one of the leading universities or the Fall semester to pursue courses that will correlate with health teaching.

The winners in New York City were Florence Brumbaugh, Public School 177, Manhattan, and Lucile Owen, Public School 29, Brooklyn. Helen O'Connell, Public School 78, Manhattan, who won the Red Cross teachers' scholarship last year, and Blanche Weill, Julia Richman High School, Manhattan, received honorable mention.

DEPEW CONQUERS HIS COLD.

Chauncey M. Depew who was prevented by illness from attending a dinner in celebration of his ninetieth birthday, given by the citizens of Westchester County at Briarcliff Lodge, last Saturday evening, was so far recovered yesterday that he expected to go to his offices at the Grand Central Terminal this morning. The report on his improvement was from the butler at the Depew residence at 37 West Fifty-fourth Street.

Mr. Depew had requested that the favorable news of himself be given to newspaper men. He contracted a cold following an address last week and was running a temperature when he decided to send regrets to his fellow citizens of Westchester who arranged the dinner—the last of a series held in the last two months in New York and vicinity by admirers of Mr. Depew.

GOLDMAN CONCERTS BEGIN IN THE PARK

Throng of 40,000 Hears First Program of Series That Will Last Until August.

ACOUSTICS EXCEPTIONAL

Even the Standees and Those Beyond Get Every Note—Audience Enthusiastic.

The first concert of the Goldman Band series under Edwin Franko Goldman opened last evening at The Mall in Central Park before a crowd which was estimated at 35,000 to 40,000. Not all of them were seated, though the benches covered two acres. A ring, twenty feet deep, stood solidly behind the seats, and beyond that again people sat on the grass, and all could hear. The acoustics of the new, beautifully proportioned shell were perfect, permitting the softest pianissimo to be heard and mellowing the massed brasses to a fine ensemble.

No more ideal spot in New York could have been chosen. The electric lights cast the trees into a decorative relief, th distant buildings lending towers to the picture, while in the intervals the dull rumble of the city, punctuated by the hoarse sirens of tugs, sounded like the booming surf. The bandsmen in their white uniforms filled the shell in tiers, Mr. Goldman wearing the only black coat among them. The "Swedish Coronation March," by Svendsen, which opened the program, at once gave the index to the great popularity of the musicians and their indefatigable leader. With a beat at once decided and elastic, Mr. Goldman led his men with irresistible élan.

It was surprising to observe the degree of plasticity which they turned from the "Tannhäuser" overture, one of the best numbers of the evening, to an easy march where all was rythmic energy, crescendos which in closed places might have sounded overwhelming, filled into space with splendid effect, while not a note of the contrasting nuance was lost.

The applause of the audience after each piece came rolling in waves and their appreciation was rewarded by many encores. Not content with giving them a program on which Wagner, Liszt and Tschaikowsky figured (the closing numbers was the "1812"). Mr. Goldman introduced two soloists, the first was Waino Kauppi, a virtuoso cornet player, whose execution was much enthusiasm, and Genie Fonariova, a singer with a beautiful soprano. She sang the aria "O Don Fatale," and except for a few of the lower notes, was heard to the very edge of the crowd.

In an informal Mr. Goldman addressed the assembly, bidding them welcome in the name of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim and Mr. and Mrs. Murry Guggenheim, whose absence he regretted on account of a recent family bereavement. The concerts will continue till August.

MRS. BLOCK IS WED.

She Is Married to Edgar J. Kohler at Her Home.

The marriage of Mrs. Alice Austrian Block, widow of Henry Block, to Edgar J. Kohler, son of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Kaufman Kohler, took place yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride, 29 West Eighty-fifth Street. The bridegroom's father, who is the honorary rabbi of Temple Beth-El, officiated. The wedding was attended by relatives and a few intimate friends.

The bride's only attendant was her daughter, Mrs. T. W. Cumming, who was matron of honor. Max Kohler was the best man. Following a trip abroad of several months, Mr. and Mrs. Kohler will make their home in this city.

There will be an auction at the Plaza Hotel on Thursday afternoon of articles left from the Park Avenue Fair. Mrs. Samuel Adams Clark will be in charge.

The Cascades Opens Thursday.

The Cascades, on the roof of the Hotel Biltmore, will open for the Summer on Thursday night. The roof garden has been remodeled and many new features are announced.

SOCIAL NOTES

New York.

It has been found necessary to change the arrangements for the marriage of Miss Katharine Wyman Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wyman Porter, to George Hunt Pendleton, owing to the illness of Miss Porter's father. The ceremony will take place as planned on Thursday afternoon in St. Thomas's Church in the presence of relatives and a few close friends. The reception at 4 East Sixty-sixth Street will be small.

The marriage of Miss Barbara Murray, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Archibald Murray of New York, to Lord Bourne, eldest son and heir of the Earl of Morey, will take place in Paris on June 21. Miss Murray's sister, Mrs. L. Stuyvesant Chanler Jr., and Miss Adele Hammond, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Hammond and a great friend of Miss Murray's, sailed last Saturday on the Homeric for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Carleton Brown of Tuxedo Park are at the Plaza for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. William Carter Dickerman of 9 East Seventy-ninth Street are at the hotel before going to their country house in Mamaroneck, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hoeton Lippincott of 925 Park Avenue are there for a few days before going to their home in Stockbridge.

Mrs. James N. Hill gave a luncheon at Pierre's yesterday, her guests including Mrs. Kenneth M. Murchison, Mrs. James N. Steele and Mme Francis Alda.

Mrs. William B. Scaffe has arrived from Pittsburgh and is at the Lorraine.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon C. Brown of 22 West Fifty-fifth Street will arrive at the Plaza June 9 to remain until they leave for West Manchester, Mass., where they will pass the Summer.

Mrs. Louis James Pooler of Tuxedo Park is at the Ambassador.

Sir Harry Gloster Armstrong, British Consul General, and Lady Armstrong have left for Washington, where they will be guests of the British Ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard at the embassy for a few days.

VIGGO DUE THURSDAY.

Danish Prince to Be Entertained Widely Upon Arrival.

Prince Valdemar of Denmark and his son, Prince Viggo, who is to marry Miss Green on June 10, are arriving on the Bethonia on Thursday, and several informal entertainments have been arranged for them. They will go first to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Alexander, at 4 West Fifty-eighth Street, and that night will be the guests at dinner of the Misses Hewitt at 9 Lexington Avenue. On Friday Mr. and Mrs. Alexander will give a luncheon for the Princes at their villa in Tuxedo Park, after which they will motor to The Forges, the country place in Ringwood, N. J., of the Misses Hewitt. Returning to New York they will attend a theatre. On Saturday the Princes will motor to Hyde Park for a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt, returning the next day to join Mr. and Mrs. Alexander, who that night will give a small dinner.

A luncheon for the Princes at the Lido-Venice is being arranged for next Monday, and that night Prince Viggo will attend a dinner to be given by his wedding ushers at the Union Club. Prince Valdemar will sail for Europe on June 11, the day following the marriage of his son Prince Viggo and Miss Green.

DINNER TO GENERAL DUNCAN

A. E. F. Commander Is Guest of His Wartime Officers.

Brig. Gen. George B. Duncan was the guest of honor at a dinner given last evening at the University Club. The hosts were a group of officers who had served under him. General Duncan commanded successively the Twenty-sixth Infantry, the First Brigade of the First Division, the Seventeenth Division and the Eighty-second Division.

Captain Donald M. Kelly was Chairman of the Dinner Committee, and among those present were General James G. Harbord, President of the Radio Corporation of America, and former Chief of Staff of the A. E. F.; General Robert L. Bullard, commanding the Second Corps Area, and General Peter E. Traub, Chief of Staff of the Seventy-seventh Division, Organized Reserves. There were about fifty present.

Red Cross Ambulance Reunion.

The first reunion of the Red Cross Ambulance and Motor Corps of the Atlantic Division will take place at Briarcliff Lodge tomorrow, when two hundred or more former members of the corps are expected to attend the field day events which have been planned. The corps, which was demobilized in 1920, included in its roll of members many well-known society women, among them being Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock and Mrs. J. Watson Webb, Jr. Dorothy C. Sayler heads the committee in charge.

Miss Shinn Is Hostess.

DOWNPOURS MENACE LONDON'S GAYEST WEEK

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 2.—What is described in the local newspapers as the most wonderful week of the London season opened today with chilly blasts and gloomy skies. Nor do the weather prophets hold out much hope of improvement in meteorological conditions just awhile.

The Derby is to be run next Wednesday, but today racing had to be called off in various parts of the country because of waterlogged courses. Epsom Downs, where the blue ribbon event of the British turf is contested, can weather most storms, though the going will be heavy, and there is no danger of the great classic event not being run.

Lord Derby, speaking today at the Press Club luncheon, to which the principal horse owners had been invited, suggested that the horse which could swim best might win.

"With a field of thirty-one horses running, and torrential rains falling, I should have the names put in a hat, draw out one and back it."

More than forty million tons of rain fell in London on Saturday night alone, representing an average fortnight's record, and at that the metropolitan area suffered less than most other parts of England, where a tropical downpour fell in the last thirty-six hours.

Notwithstanding these unpropitious conditions, London is set upon carrying out the week's program, which is a very full one. The King held a levee at St. James's Palace this morning and there was a large attendance. Huge crowds also gathered outside the palace to watch the royal procession.

There were great crowds too outside St. Margaret's, Westminster, to see one of the chief fashionable weddings of the season, that of the daughter of the popular Lord Desborough to the Air Marshal, Sir John Salmond, who during the war won innumerable decorations, besides the nickname of "Tails of Salmond," by his unvarying cheeriness under all circumstances.

Tomorrow will be the King's birthday, which will be celebrated by the picturesque ceremony of "trooping the colors" on the Horse Guards' parade.

Then comes Derby Day. In addition to members of the English royal family, Queen Marie of Rumania will go to Epsom. Queen Marie was a guest of the American Ladies' Club this afternoon and charmed everybody by her good looks and simple manners.

These are only a few outstanding items in the week's program, which includes something for nearly every taste. There are more visitors than the metropolis has known for years, and given a little sunshine, the claim that it is the most wonderful week in London's season might easily be justified.

JAPANESE GARDEN FETE.

A Number of Patronesses Are Added to the List.

Plans are being completed for the Japanese garden fete to be given by Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip at Beechwood, Scarboro-on-Hudson, next Saturday afternoon and evening from 2 until 10 o'clock. The event will be in aid of Tsuda College for women in Tokio, which was destroyed by the earthquake. In addition to the many patrons and patronesses already announced, the following names have been added to the list: Mrs. Cordier Milles Cold, Mrs. Francis Willard, Mrs. Frederick Eldridge, Mrs. John J. Watson, Mrs. Colgate Hoyt, Mrs. Clarence M. Wooley, Mrs. Edgerton Parsons, Mrs. James Moses, Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, Mrs. Proctcher M. Brown and Mrs. E. G. Victor.

Chauncey Depew Steele, manager of Briarcliff Lodge, is planning to take the contestants in the United States Olympic swimming tryouts for women as its guests for the garden party. The tryouts are to be held at the lodge Saturday afternoon, and immediately afterward a number of buses will carry the contestants to Beechwood.

May Peterson in Recital.

The second membership concert of the City Music League last night at the Town Hall marked the reappearance in song recital of Miss May Peterson, former soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and a singer who has achieved great popularity at the Opera Comique and elsewhere in Europe. Miss Peterson's first group was made up of French songs of Chausson, Koechlin, Groviez and Mesquita. The second group, in German, began with the familiar "Die Forelle" of Schubert, with other numbers of Ulenowsky, Alfven and Mahler. In the English group were songs by Rudolph Gane, Winter Watts and Anne Stratton, and two American folk-songs, arranged by Grant-Schaefer, one of them an old Creole song, "Musieu Balnio." Her accompanist was Stuart Ross.

Women's Clubs Give Fete.

The New York City Federation of Women's Clubs gave a fete last night in the roof garden of the Hotel Astor. Mrs. Thomas L. Slack, President of the federation, headed the receiving line, others in line being Mrs. Hamilton Baker, Mrs. Henrietta Seeley, Mrs. J. W. Wilson and Mrs. William Hancock. Mrs. E. M. Matthiesen was Chairman of the Reception Committee. Mrs. Slack announced during the evening that the federation building fund was now $55,000 and that the cornerstone of the new hotel for working girls would be laid this year.

THE REV. W. H. G. THOMAS.

Widely Known Preacher and Writer Dies in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—The Rev. Dr. William Henry Griffith Thomas, widely known in this country and England as a writer, preacher and teacher, died today in the Germantown Hospital at the age of 63. He was stricken in Duluth, Minn., May 16.

Born in Osmestry, England, Dr. Thomas was educated at King's College, London, and was ordained a minister of the Church of England in 1885. He came to Canada in 1910 as Professor of Old Testament Literature at Wycliffe College, Toronto. In 1919 he took up Biblical instruction in the United States, attending many conferences and Bible schools. Funeral services will be held Wednesday in Holy Trinity Church.

Ambrose Spencer Murray Jr.

GOSHEN, N. Y., June 2.—Ambrose Spencer Murray Jr., of the law firm of Murray, Ingersoll, Hoge and Humphrey, New York City, died today at Lone Oak, his home here. Mr. Murray was 74 years old. He was graduated from the Columbia Law School in 1874. He was Receiver, Secretary-treasurer and a Director of the Danville & Mount Morris Railroad.

Dies Dancing on Ship.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 2.—When the White Star liner Pittsburgh arrived here from Hamburg her officers reported that J. L. Walton, a New York passenger, was stricken with heart failure while dancing on May 26 and died soon afterward. He was buried at sea.

Wilhelm Coenen.

Wilhelm Coenen, 67 years old, of William Coenen & Son, silk merchants, died yesterday at his home in Woodcliff, N. J. Mr. Coenen was one time President of the Tie Silk Association. He came to the United States forty years ago from Crefeld, Germany.

WM. S. CHAMP DIES; A ZIEGLER EXECUTOR

He Rescued the Anthony Fiala Arctic Expedition at a Great Hazard.

William S. Champ of Malba, L. I., private secretary of the late William Ziegler, "baking powder king," and one of the three executors of the $15,000,000 Ziegler estate, died yesterday in the Post Graduate Hospital, following an operation. He had been ill two months. Private services.

Mr. Champ was born in Hamilton, Canada, Jan. 9, 1870, and was a salesman when he attracted the attention of Mr. Ziegler, who made him his private secretary after he had rendered important assistance in the consolidation of baking powder interests. Mr. Champ's devotion to Mr. Ziegler survived the death of his patron, for at great hazard he carried out the wish expressed in the latter's will that Anthony Fiala and the members of his polar expedition be found in the Arctic and brought back.

Fiala's steamer, the America, had been crushed in the ice in the early Winter of 1903-4, and the thirty-seven men of the party would presumably have perished had not Mr. Champ, after an initial failure, finally succeeded in the Spring of 1905, in reaching them and rescuing all but one.

Mr. Champ was President of the Cone Company of America, Vice President of the Realty Trust Company, former President of the American Maize Products Company, and former director of the Royal Baking Powder Company. With Mrs. Matilde Ziegler and Mayor Gaynor he shared in the fee of $1,000,000 allowed the executors of the Ziegler estate.

Public School Notes.

SCHOOL ANNOUNCEMENTS—Dr. William J. O'Shea, Superintendent of Schools, calls the attention of teachers to the following matters in a general circular which has just been sent out by his office:

"In accordance with the plans outlined in General Circular 10, Item LL, as to presentation of flags in connection with the Safety Campaign, Deputy Commissioner Barron Collier will present flags to the successful schools on the steps of City Hall on Tuesday, June 10, at 3:30 P. M. The plan as prepared by Mr. Marcus Dow will include the presence of Mayor Hylan and other distinguished guests. Music will be furnished by the Police Band and the Glee Club. Principals of the winning schools and such other persons as are interested are requested to be present accompanied by ten or more pupils. For further information apply to Mr. Marcus Dow, Police Headquarters, phone Spring 3100. District Superintendents and the Division Superintendent in charge of high schools are requested to notify Mr. Dow of the winning schools not later than Friday, June 6.

"From time to time complaints are received that business schools obtain the names and addresses of pupils enrolled in graduating classes in the elementary schools, and by their solicitation induce pupils to leave school or to refrain from entering high schools. Please exercise all reasonable precautions to prevent such lists from falling into the hands of the schools in question.

"The Institute of Applied Agriculture located at Farmingdale, L. I., Mr. H. B. Knapp, Director, offers two Summer courses for boys 15 to 16 years of age from July 7-19, and July 21-Aug. 2, inclusive. The cost for board and instruction is $15. This excellent proposition should be called to the attention of adolescent boys who appear to be interested in gardening or farming. Each boy must present with his application the endorsement of his principal. Applications will be listed in the order of receipt and not more than 25 boys will be accepted from a single school. For further information apply to the director."

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The storm that was central over Northwestern Minnesota Sunday night has moved southeastward and its centre was over extreme Eastern Iowa Monday night. This disturbance has been attended by local showers in the upper lake region, the Upper Mississippi and Middle Missouri Valleys, the Plains States and West Gulf States.

Another disturbance was central over Alberta and moving southeastward and it has caused scattered local rains in the Canadian Northwest. Showers have occurred also within the last twenty-four hours in the East Gulf States, Tennessee, the upper Ohio Valley and the Atlantic States, south of New England.

High pressure prevailed Monday night over Wyoming southeastward to the Texas Panhandle and off the North Pacific and South Pacific Coasts. The temperature has continued below normal over most sections east of the Rocky Mountains except in the South Atlantic States, but it was considerably above normal Monday west of the Rocky Mountains. Abnormally high temperatures again prevailed in the interior of California and Oregon.

The disturbance now over the Middle West will advance eastward and it will be attended by local showers Tuesday or Tuesday night almost generally east of the Mississippi River. Following the passage of this disturbance fair weather will prevail over most sections of the Mississippi River Wednesday. However, the Alberta disturbance will advance southeastward and probably cause showers over the greater portion of the Washington forecast district during the latter part of the week. No important temperature changes are indicated for the next two or three days.

COUNTRY-WIDE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

In the following record of observations at United States Weather Bureau stations yesterday the temperatures given are the highest during the twelve hours from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M. and the lowest during the preceding twelve hours from 8 P. M. to 8 A. M.; the barometer reading and condition of weather are those recorded at 8 P. M., and the rainfall is for the twenty-four hours ended at 8 P. M.

UNIFIED SOCIALISTS WILL BACK HERRIOT

Decide Not to Join His Cabinet, but Pledge Support of His Policy.

HE OUTLINES HIS PROGRAM

Strengthening of League and Unreserved Acceptance of Dawes Among its Features.

EASING MILLERAND'S EXIT

Scheme Is for Herriot to Ask Permission to Present President's Resignation to Chamber.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 2.—After nearly twenty-four hours of continuous discussion the conference of Unified Socialists, who have 108 Deputies in the new Chamber, has decided to abstain from participation in any Government of the Left which may be formed by M. Herriot or any other politician not of their party. It has, however, decided to support M. Herriot as Premier.

Paul Boncour, Marius Moutet, Vincent Muriol and many of the foremost men of the party were willing and anxious to share responsibility with M. Herriot. Léon Blum stood out against participation, and late tonight won his case. To keep up the tradition of party unity the vote for non-participation in the Government was made unanimous.

M. Herriot will, therefore, have to form his Government without the Unified Socialists and must confine himself to his own Radical Socialist Party and one or two members of the Republican Socialist group.

During the conference a letter was read from M. Herriot outlining his policy and a drafting committee was appointed to frame a reply.

Features of Herriot's Program.

The main points in M. Herriot's program, as set forth in his letter, which was addressed to Léon Blum as leader of the United Socialist Party, are:

Budgetary stability by means of economy and increase in direct instead of indirect taxation, establishment and maintenance of peace through strengthening the League of Nations, acceptance, "without arrière pensée" of the Dawes plan for the settlement of the reparations problem and the maintenance of guarantees taken by the last Government in the Ruhr until the Dawes plan has been put into operation and modification of relations with the Vatican.

The first duty of the Government, Herriot says, will be to make an inventory of the exact financial and fiscal position which he has inherited. This inventory ought, he says, to be the preface of the budget, and he adds:

"In the presence of manoeuvres directed against us I must remind you that with you our party has been during the last four years a constant defender of the balanced budget. More than ever we are faithful to this principle.

"We are resolved to prevent by every means all fiscal fraud. We are anxious to make the income tax the basis of a real democratic system of taxation. In the next budget we will seek in a new arrangement of direct taxes a means of lightening the charges created by indirect taxation, especially the tax on business turnover.

Foreign Policy of Peace.

"As for foreign policy, we are resolved to seek within the measure of our powers peace by an entente between peoples. This peace for which we will work with all our force will never, in our opinion, be effective until the day when France, faithful to her democratic mission and to the engagements taken during the war, shall have strengthened and extended the rôle of the League of Nations and such international institutions as The Hague tribunal and Labor Bureau. The League of Nations itself will never be able to play the rôle we hope for it he prevent war until it includes all peoples, resolute to respect its covenant.

"We accept without reserve the report of the experts.

"Our party has opposed the policy of isolation and force which led to the taking of territorial guarantees. But in the presence of the present state of Germany, and before the necessity of guarantees, not only of France but of all peoples, against a return of offensive nationalist pan-Germanism, our party does not believe it possible to evacuate the Ruhr before the guarantees laid down by the experts have been constituted, handed over and international organizations appointed for their control. We think also that in the interest of peace it is essential to assure control of German disarmament by the common effort of the Allies and as soon as possible by action of the League of Nations.

"We will seek to find a solution of the problem of security by compacts of guarantee placed under authority of the League."

Greasing the Ways for Millerand.

Everything is being done to make the manner of M. Millerand's departure from the Elysée as smooth as possible if he is willing to go. When the conference of the Left parties voted no confidence yesterday all but the frailest possibility was ended of his remaining in office for the rest of his term of seven years.

With something like 330 votes against him in the Chamber his position is regarded as untenable. The scheme evolved last week whereby he would nominate a Ministry of the Right to submit a question of confidence, and if necessary get the Senate to dissolve the Chamber, is today considered no longer feasible. Even should the President insist on attempting it, it is not believed he could obtain the consent of M. Poincaré to play the rôle of his messenger to the two Houses.

New methods for putting a constitutional end to his magistracy therefore are being sought. Even those who have worked hardest to provoke a crisis and the departure of the President are willing that the latter should be as unsensational as possible. They have gained their point and now for the sake of the good name of France they wish the substitution of one President for another to be got over quickly and quietly.

There is, therefore, tonight much more moderation in every one's mind than yesterday and there has begun to appear the reason why yesterday M. Herriot obtained the removal from the motion censuring M. Millerand of a clause which stipulated that no one of the Left should accept the formation of a Ministry at the hands of the present occupant of the Elysée. He was anxious to keep the road clear for a more or less graceful retreat by M. Millerand and assure the formation of a Left Government during the twenty-four hours which must elapse between the resignation of one President and the election of another.

Procedure as Planned.

It is reported tonight that the procedure planned is as follows:

On Wednesday or Thursday, when the Chamber has been properly constituted and its President elected, M. Millerand, after consultation with the new head of the Chamber, who will be M. Painlevé, and with M. Doumergue, President of the Senate, will send for M. Herriot and ask him to form a Cabinet. M. Herriot will consent, but he will inform the President of the exact situation with regard to the majority in the Chamber and ask that his first action be to lay before the Chamber the President's resignation.

This program depends for its fulfillment on M. Millerand, and today no one has penetrated the secrets of the Elysée. It is stated that the President may find means of submitting a message to the two houses even before his interview with M. Herriot, but in what way he will do it or what the message will contain is not known.

Now that the decision has been taken by the Left majority and there seems no way by which the President can remain except in direct opposition to the majority party, every one is anxious to get the crisis over and the new President elected as soon as possible. Even in the Senate, which was averse to the move made yesterday by the Deputies and would almost certainly vote confidence in M. Millerand, there is a disposition to hope that the President will not prolong the fight, for while on constitutional grounds the Senators are prepared to stand by him they have decided also on constitutional grounds, and even more on practical grounds, not to consent to dissolving the Chamber.

It may be that there is still some way for the President to get round the position in which he was put by yesterday's vote, but that way of escape is not apparent tonight even to his friends. Those who last week were advising him to fight the matter out for the sake of the constitutional rights of the Presidency are today advising him to accept the inevitable and resign.

In the Chamber today the survivors of the National Bloc, who have grouped themselves under the leadership of MM. Maginot, Le Troquer and others of the Poincaré Cabinet, met and passed a resolution condemning the "unconstitutional agitation against the head of the State as injurious to the interests of the Republic."

But that resolution instead of appeasing the temper of the victorious Left is not unlikely rather to add to its violence. It is recalled that the Third Republic has already survived four such Presidential crises without permanent loss either of prestige or strength, and if this one is settled quickly it will make little difference whether M. Millerand or M. Doumergue is at the Elysée.

Unified Socialists Pledge Aid.

PARIS, June 2 (Associated Press).—The terms imposed by M. Herriot, leader of the Radical Socialists, for acceptance of the Premiership, were endorsed tonight by the Unified Socialist Congress, which unanimously adopted a resolution formally assuring him their support.

As evidence of their loyalty, the Congress resolved the parliamentary group of the obligation of voting against the budget as a whole. A letter in friendly terms conveying this asurance was sent to M. Herriot.

MacDonald Message to Herriot.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 2.—Dispatches from Paris stating that Ramsay MacDonald had anticipated the action of President Millerand by sending a letter to M. Herriot as Prime Minister of France offering to visit Paris and discuss the reparations question with him are denied here so far as any official action is concerned.

No official letter or telegram to this effect has been forwarded by Mr. MacDonald, but it is possible that Lord Crewe, the British Ambassador in Paris, regarding the appointment of M. Herriot as a foregone conclusion, sent him an informal message. It is also suggested here that the message of greeting from Mr. MacDonald may have gone through Labor Party channels which are in touch with the French labor movement.

As the British Parliament rises Friday for ten days Mr. MacDonald could without much difficulty spare time for a visit to France. The only reason why he has declined to meet Signor Mussolini in Switzerland is the time it would consume.

FRANC FALLS AND RALLIES.

Dips Under 5 Cents for the First Time Since March 21.

Renewed selling of the franc yesterday carried that bill to its lowest price since last March and for the first time since March 21 the franc sold below the 5 cent level.

The franc dipped to an extreme low point of 4.89 cents and closed at 5.00¼ cents against 5.12 cents last Saturday. The rally started soon after word came from France that M. Herriot had repudiated the previous statements credited to him. The reason for the break, it was said, lay in doubts as to whether France would continue its stabilization program. Bankers said yesterday they knew of no reason why France should deviate from that plan. The $100,000,000 credit is virtually intact and one banker who has followed the franc operation closely estimated that the Bank of France had netted an actual profit through its venture in the foreign exchange market.

A report that the American banking group was getting nervous over the possibility of adverse action by the new French Government was characterized as absurd. Its spokesman said there was no likelihood of the American group terminating the loan agreement. A suggestion that the bankers had exacted pledges of a political nature from France was also refuted, the full details of the negotiations having been made public in both New York and Paris soon after the setting up of the credit.

Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in New York City for week ending Saturday, May 31, on shipments sold out, ranged from 9.00 cents to 16.00 cents per pound and averaged 13.64 cents per pound.—Advt.

Corrects Statement Attributed to Him Criticizing Terms of the $100,000,000 Credit.

FRENCH GOLD IS INTACT

Transaction Can Be Closed Without Shipment of Metal, Says Government Explanation of the Loan.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 2.—An interview with M. Herriot was published this morning in which he was put in the position of criticising the Morgan firm on the ground that it had made hard terms for the $100,000,000 loan to the Bank of France in March for the defense of the franc in that, in addition to demanding a guarantee of gold from the reserve of the Bank of France, the American bankers had obliged the French Government to commit itself as to its future financial policy. M. Herriot today issued the following:

"The statement credited to me in the press is inexact. In a conversation which took place in the Chamber lobbies I addressed no criticism against the American bankers who helped France defend her money, and I deny the sentiments credited to me on this subject."

This afternoon the French Government issued a statement which said:

"Certain newspapers attribute to M. Herriot, on the question of the franc, statements which should not have been made, for they do not present the facts in the right light. In any case it is necessary to re-establish the truth.

"On March 11 last, following speculative movements produced by important uncovered sales of francs on all large money markets, the pound sterling reached 127 and the dollar 27.08.

"The Government at the time was pursuing the realization of financial measures presented to Parliament in the middle of January and asked the Bank of France to it could intervene in helping the market by important sales of dollars.

"The Bank of France agreed and put itself in relations with the Morgan bank in New York to obtain an open credit of $100,000,000, it being understood that dollars used would be either repaid in six months or settled in gold.

"The Morgan bank remarked that intervention of this kind would be entirely inefficacious and would have only a fleeting result if the measures planned by the Government were not definitely adopted in order to give the entire world the impression that the improvement of the franc thus obtained would be consolidated by a financial policy capable of increasing the credit of the franc abroad. These remarks being just and conforming to the views which the Government had publicly made known, the Governor of the Bank of France, duly authorized by Minister of Finance de Lasteyrie, sent to the Morgan bank the following telegram, which immediately was published in New York."

Then follows the text of the telegram pledging the French Government to insist on the passage of new tax laws and to borrow only against budgetary receipts. Today's statement continues:

"The intervention of the Bank of France produced rapid results, and on March 6 a discussion began in the Chamber when MM. Poincaré, de Lasteyrie and Bokanowski, reporter of the budget, gave all necessary explanations.

"Little by little the happy results expected came to pass. Sales of francs were obliged to purchase, and M. François-Marsal, who became Minister of Finance at the end of March, was able to announce the dollars used had been paid back.

"During the month of April and up to May 7 the Bank of France had no need to use foreign credits. During this period, on the contrary, industry and commerce were advised to buy foreign exchange to cover their importation needs. The Bank of France acted on this policy and the Treasury was able to put itself in position to meet future commitments.

"From May 7 demands for foreign values and offers of francs began to weigh on the market. The Bank of France then used the open credits it had procured. It did so notably on the 12th and 13th of May, to prevent the fall of the franc on the morrow of the elections. It has since followed the same policy, acting from time to time to prevent too sudden leaps in exchange.

"This explanation, fortified by documents and statistics, was made to M. Herriot and Painlevé on May 21 at the Elysée by MM. Poincaré and François-Marsal. Since that date there has been no modification of the policy previously followed. At the present hour the whole operation begun on March 11 can be closed, if it is desired, without any gold going out of the reserve of the Bank of France. The French Treasury never has been involved in any way."

Following the opening of the Presidential crisis yesterday the franc opened much weaker. In the pre-Bourse trading the franc was between 86 and 89 to the pound and around 25 to the dollar. On the Bourse the pound opened at noon at 89.75 and the dollar at 20.66. At the 2:30 closing the dollar was 20.43 and the pound 87.55. In after the Bourse trading, following the receipt of the opening New York price, the franc was strongest, closing around 20 to the dollar and 86.50 to the pound.

Herriot Praises American Aid.

PARIS, June 2 (Associated Press).—Edouard Herriot, the prospective Premier, speaking before a joint caucus of the Radical and Radical-Socialist Parties tonight, came out flatly for adoption of the Dawes report and gave assurances that his financial policy would be "sane and founded on rigorous balancing of the budget."

M. Herriot emphasized that there was no afterthought attached to his approval of the experts' plans.

"In the crisis we are now encountering," he said, "people have attributed to me words which might admit of the belief that I under-estimated the services the United States has rendered France. All my political speeches, all my writings contradict those statements. In all circumstances I have rendered homage to the magnificent and disinterested aid which the United States extended to France during the war. Recently, as a member of the Finance Commission, I have been able to appreciate the aid the United States brought us in bolstering up our national currency.

"If I take direction of affairs I shall ask the American democracy to have the same confidence in me as I have in it. It can be assured in any case that I will practice a sane financial policy founded on rigorous balancing of the budget. I shall furthermore practice a policy of peace on the basis of the experts' report, which I approve completely and without mental reservations."

PUSH WORK ON DAWES PLAN

Railroad and Debenture Committees Hold Meetings in Paris.

PARIS, June 2 (Associated Press).—The Organization Committee of the German Railway Company, instituted under the Dawes plan, met today at the Hotel Astoria and completed the first part of its work of examining German railway bills and statutes, after which the meeting was adjourned to permit drafting of new texts. The committee will meet again in Berlin June 16, when the preliminary perusal made here will be taken into account.

It is understood the committee has already completed the main lines of its program and has approved in principle the German draft law transferring the railroads to the Experts Committee.

The Organization Committee of the plan for industrial debentures also met, holding its first meeting this afternoon with Alfred Descamps, France and Signor Bianchini, Italy, representing the Allies. Dr. Trendelenburg, representing the German Government, and Herr Bach, the German industrialists.

Tiny Patrol Boats Fight Big Rum Yacht; Convoys Aid Armor-Clad Ship to Escape

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 2.—Customs forces on two small marine patrol boats operating out of New London for four hours and a half yesterday waged a fruitless battle against the alleged rum-running yatch Fantesma, plying westward in the Sound with what is believed to have been 2,500 cases of liquor, and the yachts Sioux and Helen running light and acting as scouts for the rum carrier.

While the three steam yachts, of large proportions, bore down on the customs boats, and tried to ram them or swamp them in the race, the prohibition agents, who came here from New York, poured bullets on the alleged rum-runner, which, however, was protected by armor plate, and finally escaped to sea.

The loss of the battle was due to the smallness of the marine patrol boats, Liberty and No. 6, which were unable to withstand the sea kicked up by the powerful yachts. They kept up the fight, however, until their ammunition was exhausted and their fuel ran low, compeling them to return to port.

The contest was the first real marine battle Long Island Sound has witnessed since prohibition became effective. The lives of the customs crew were continually in peril, as their boats barely escaped the approaching prows of the rum carrier and her scouts, but the men stood up under the strain without flinching. Time and again the Liberty was within a few feet of the fleeing Fantesma, but for fear of being swamped, the customs men dared not board the yacht, which drew away from them and, with her convoy, escaped.

BRITISH HONOR LIST CREATES NO PEERS

DIGNITIES FOR BRITONS HERE

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 2.—The Labor Government's first list of honors, issued tonight, provided at least one surprise for the public. The philosopher, psychologist and logician, Frances Herbert Bradley, has been appointed to the Order of Merit, presumably to fill the vacancy created by the death of Lord Morley.

Professor Bradley, who is a Fellow of Merton College, Oxford, is practically unknown to the general public, and his name alone will convey nothing to those who expect to see men whose reputations are familiar to them appointed to so distinguished an order. As The London Times remarks, he has taken no part in public life, and there have been periods when his most important works have been difficult to obtain in consequence of his scruples about their revision. But, although he may be unknown to the multitude, he is, says the same paper, "the most influential of living English philosophers, and it has been mainly through him that philosophy in England and, indeed, in America, too, is as vigorous and healthy as it is today."

The King, of course, is guided by his Prime Minister in conferring honors, but in the case of Professor Bradley's appointment his Majesty is held to have been more responsible than in the selection of the other recipients of distinctions.

Labor's first honors' list is noteworthy also for its absence of peerages, the creation of which is made a Conservative habit, become so pronounced as to raise considerable comment. The list, in fact, is composed in bulk of departmental decorations conferred upon civil servants.

Sir Charles Sherrington, whose researches in the nervous system have placed him among the most illustrious physiologists, receives the Order of Merit.

T. P. O'Connor, the veteran journalist and "Father of the House of Commons," is made a Privy Councilor. D. Y. Cameron, painter and etcher, receives a knighthood, and Robert Donald, former editor of The Daily Chronicle, is accorded a Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the British Empire, as is also Sir Josiah Stamp, who was a member of the Dawes Committee. Robert Wilberforce, Director of the British Library of Information in New York, is made a Commander of the Order of the British Empire.

Women have not been overlooked. Among the new Dames of the Order of the British Empire are Lady Willingdon, who was or great assistance to her husband in his Governorships of Bombay and Madras; Mrs. Barnett, who has continued and supplemented in numerous ways the social work of her husband, the late Canon Barnett, and Miss Janet Campbell, M. D., who has done valuable work for maternity and child welfare and the health of women in industry.

Lady Reading, wife of the Viceroy of India, receives the Kaiser-i-Hind Medal.

LONDON, June 2 (Associated Press).—As is usual most of the King's Birthday honors are bestowed upon public servants at home and in the colonies. In the long list of promotions in the Order of the British Empire figure the two aviators, Wing Commander Goble and Flying Officer MacIntyre, who recently made an air flight around Australia.

Colonel C. E. C. G. Charlton, military attaché of the British embassy in Washington, is appointed Companion of the Order of the Bath, and Arthur Cuninghame Grant-Duff, British Minister to Chile, is made a Knight Commander of St. Michael and St. George.

CALLES APPEARS WINNER.

Present Indications Are He Will Be Elected President of Mexico.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, June 2.—Interest in the election of a President in Mexico is growing.

General Flores started on Sunday on a swing through the Southern States. General Calles held a series of meetings in the theatres of Mexico City, which were well attended.

Luis Morones, labor leader, in a speech called de la Huerta and General Flores traitors and said their followers were helping to start a new revolution.

All indications point to an easy victory for the radical party headed by Calles, which is well organized and has an immense advantage in having started its campaign many months before the Conservative party selected a candidate.

Youth Sentenced for Hold-Up.

Herman W. Mansbarth, 20 years old, of Jamaica, was sentenced to not less than ten nor more than twenty years in Sing Sing by Judge Burt J. Humphrey in the Queens County Court yesterday. He was arrested on May 21 in Elmhurst in a hold up. Harold Gunzel, his companion, was mortally wounded by Patrolman Adam Holzschneider.

Doorbell Ringer Gets 30 Days.

Nicholas Marrone of 33 Oakley Avenue, Brooklyn, who has been ringing the doorbell of Miss Margaret Mansfield of 87 Plumbing Avenue, Jamaica, several times a day for five days, for no apparent reason, was sentenced to the workhouse yesterday for thirty days.

THE SCREEN

A Sea Story.

THE SEA HAWK, with Milton Sills, Enid Bennett, Lloyd Hughes, Wallace MacDonald, Marc MacDermott, Wallace Beery, Frank Currier, Miss Madia Kousnetzoff, William Collier Jr., Lionel Belmore, Fred de Silva, Hector V. Sarno, Mitchell Lewis, George Siegmann, Christine Mayo, Robert Bolder, Kathleen Key, Nancy Ross, Louis Morrison, Kate Price, Al Jennings, Bert Woodruff, Master Walter Wiltshire, Andrew Johnston, Henry Barrows, Edward Davis, Claire du Brey, Robert Spencer, Theodore Lorch and others. Adapted from the story by Rafael Sabatini, directed by Frank Lloyd; special prologue and presentation by Joseph Plunkett. At the Astor.

An ambitious production, the settings of which must have cost the proverbial king's ransom, was presented last night at the Astor Theatre under the spirited title of "The Sea Hawk." It was translated to the screen from Rafael Sabatini's virile story of that name, and has the distinct advantage of having been directed by Frank Lloyd, an experienced and imaginative producer with a love of realism who numbers among his film achievements "Madame X," "Les Miserables," "Oliver Twist," with Jackie Coogan; "Ashes of Vengeance" and "Black Oxen."

Mr. Lloyd's latest effort deals with a period when Spain held away over the seas and fighting ships were propelled by oars pulled by shackled galley slaves. There is so much excellent material in this film that one feels greedy and wants more. It is long, perhaps too long, and should be clipped in the introduction and in certain other scenes; but there are several stretches in this picture which make an indelible impression upon a viewer.

Four good-sized wooden ships were converted into replicas of vessels of past days, the sails of one bearing Spain's proud marine emblem. These vessels engage in fights, and one sees the Moorish craft capture the Spanish vessel, and an English ship and her crew defeated in a battle with a Spanish craft. Occasionally one's hungry eyes wish that the winds would play with effect upon the unusually placid water, but otherwise these scenes are wonderfully effective, and of course the oars are seen in action during the lack of wind.

Nothing could be more admirably pictured than the parts in which the galley slaves are goaded into further action by the brutal wielder of a long leather thong. He paces up and down the deck lashing the bare backs of the slaves, whose ankles are chained to their seats. There are the wooden mallets sounded on a teak board to make the pace for the slaves as they tug and tug in their monotonous labor. And at the end of a certain period the masters are good enough to dispense precious water to these human auxiliary engines of the sea-craft.

There are some beautiful scenes depicting the Algerian domain of Asad-ed-Din, a Moorish chieftain, and although this production may be a trifle deliberate in starting, it never fails to interest.

Most of these costume stories seem to hinge on a sword duel, and "The Sea Hawk" is no exception, but the way in which the plot is worked out is nevertheless different from much narrowness. One is first introduced to Sir Oliver Tressilian in his Cornish abode, and at one point we hoped that old Drake bowling on the Hoe at Plymouth might be included. However, he wasn't. Sir Oliver is kidnapped by Jasper Leigh, a freebooter, at the behest of Lionel Tressilian, Sir Oliver's half brother. Leigh, impersonated by Wallace Beery, is not aware that the sudden appearance of Sir Oliver causes suspicion to fall upon the latter as the slayer of Peter Godolphin, who really was killed by Lionel. Rosamund Godolphin is Sir Oliver's lady fair, who extracted a promise from her friend not to engage in any more sword duels. She, too, believes that Sir Oliver slew Peter.

Just as Leigh is persuaded to return to England, his vessel is captured by a Spaniard, and Sir Oliver is sent to the oars. The Spaniard in turn is taken by Asad-ed-Din's vessel, and Sir Oliver becomes Asad's chief lieutenant, adopting the name Bakr-el-Bahr (Hawk of the Sea).

There is an idea of Arabian luxury and pomp aboard the Moorish vessel, which the Sea Hawk sails to England and captures Lionel and Rosamund. Here the story has well measured suspense with intense interest, especially when Rosamund is auctioned as a slave. A splendid idea is exhibited as to the way the Moors kept their women slaves.

Milton Sills, who obviously was inspired by the role, is exceptionally capable as the Sea Hawk, and in the first chapter as the haughty Sir Oliver with the ruff of his day. In one or two scenes Mr. Sill is a little overdemonstrative with his eyes, but otherwise he is splendid and his physique fits the part of the English knight, especially in those scenes where one sees him chained to the galley and pulling on the great oars. Mr. Lloyd has seen to it that there is an idea of fatigue among the slaves, of running perspiration, and also of unshorn chins and weather-burned bodies.

Beery rises to every moment in his interesting part of the man who can be bribed to do almost anything. Frank Currier is deserving of praise for the quiet manner in which he plays Asad-ed-Din. The scores of extras have been chosen and clad with unusual care.

This is far and away the best sea story that has ever been brought to the screen, and we doubt if anybody who sees the scenes of the galley slaves will forget them. They are utterly different from any others presented in a film. Frank Lloyd, who started picture work as an "extra" himself, is to be congratulated on this film masterpiece of the sea.

"Cape Cod Folks."

BROKEN WING, with Barbara Bedford, Frank Keenan, Renee Adoree, Robert Fraser, Joseph Dowling, Margaret Seddon, Jean Standing, Victor Potel, Edward Phillips and William Eugene. Adapted from Sarah P. McLean Greene's story, "Cape Cod Folks," directed by Reginald Barker; tableau presentation of "The Spring Maid"; Capitol Magazine. At the Capitol.

"Women Who Give," the new film feature at the Capitol this week, is much more interesting than one would glean from the title, being a fairly competent story of fishing folk. The narrative is based upon Sarah P. McLean Greene's "Cape Cod Folks," and was directed by Reginald Barker. The sight of sliskins, the roaring sea, rocks and fishing vessels appealed to many in the theatre yesterday. This would be quite a fine production if it were not for an occasional impossible situation and quite a lot of exaggerated acting. Mr. Barker has also put in too many close-ups, and kept most of them waiting for a wearying time on the screen.

One of the scenes which struck us as being highly improbable is where Captain Cradlebow (Robert Fraser) sees the girl who has snubbed him caught by the tide on a small rock. It does not seem to us that the man with a hero's heart beating under his sweater would find this such a funny situation that he would have to stand there and laugh at the nervous, pretty girl. Certainly he goes forth and rescues her, as might be expected.

Frank Keenan plays the part of Jonathan Swift, the heroine's parent. He makes some amusing grimaces, but occasionally rather overdoes the idea of the obstinate would-be snob, who has made his money out of selling fish. Of course, he is opposed to his daughter, Emily (Barbara Bedford), having any thing in the nature of a romance with Cradlebow, but his objection is finally overcome. Miss Bedford is a pretty heroine, who at first takes herself quite seriously.

In a sequence dealing with the welcome of the men from the fishing vessels Mr. Barker causes the male element to lift their wives up in their arms immediately they land. This is also exaggerated, and the comedy of a frail fisherman attempting to lift a fat woman is not apt to elicit much laughter.

There is the old specimen who is constantly talking about "eatin' terbacco," and Becky Keeler (Renée Adorée), who is in love with one of the fishermen. Miss Adorée is quite effective in her role.

The feature, part of which is not particularly impressive, is the storm at sea, in which a miniature vessel, obviously in a studio tank, is tossed about on what one is asked to believe a raging sea. Cradlebow's vessel is caught in the storm and the lamp in the lighthouse is extinguished. The thrill is supposed to come when one of the men gets fire to his house so as to steer the Cradlebow craft. Eventually the life-boat is sent out to the rescue.

This production has a fairly good salt-water flavor, and it is a pity that some of the sequences were not pictured in a more plausible way. But even as it is this film is quite a good entertainment, and the acting as a whole is commendable.

Wild Ideas.

MIAMI, with Betty Compson, Lawford Davidson, Hedda Hopper, J. Barney Sherry, Louis Fitzroy, Marcia Manon, Jr., and others, written by John Lynch, directed by Alan Crosland; De Forest Phonofilm; "Flickering Youth," a comedy; "On the Surf," a dance fantasy with La Terrenita; gesture "Chopricio Italian." At the Rivoli.

As a mediocre film entertainment with attractive exteriors and adequate interiors, "Miami," in which the experienced Betty Compson is featured, may appeal to some of those who frequent the Rivoli this week. Alan Crosland, the director, does not seem to have had his heart in this production, and therefore there are stretches where one feels impelled to close one's eyes.

It is a story of high, or wild, life in Florida, wherein one sees men with guns standing in the water up to their thighs as they fix their weapons on a crowd in a suspicious craft. Betty Compson has the role of Joan Bruce, who for a time renounces the giddy existence but eventually returns to it for a spell. She encounters the crafty villain and goes with him across the calm waters to a lonely house. She arms herself with a drink—given to her by the unscrupulous one—and stands at a switch threatening to turn it on and send out a signal if he approaches another step. He laughs, and so does the audience. With cat-like tread he nears the beautiful girl, and suddenly she pitches the contents of her glass in his face and then pulls the signal. The villain knows that it is only a question of time before help comes, so he seizes the daring Joan around the waist—but he had not counted on the timely appearance of the hero, who hurls himself on the villain. One man is enough for the hero, and he is nearly done for when a second man pitches into the battle.

Surprises come along fast. A police dog leaps through the window in the nick of time and fastens its teeth in the throat of one of the forbidding men. This animal evidently did not think it was acting, from the manner in which he sprang at his human antagonist. The dog meant business, or at least he looks as if he did.

Mr. Crosland need not have given a close-up of a hand with a cigar band around a finger, as it looked as if Miss Compson's pretty, well-manicured fingers were under a powerful microscope.

This is not a picture to pick out, but one which can be endured. Miss Compson is delightfully pretty, but acts in the mood of the production. The other players are fairly capable, and they do the best they can, considering the story, which, incidentally, was written by John Lynch.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Flossie" opens at the Lyric Theatre tonight.

"The Melody Man" moved last night from the Ritz to the Forty-Ninth Street Theatre.

Mrs. Leslie Carter, who did not appear at the Palace yesterday afternoon through the failure of her leading man to appear, will open at today's matinee with Edward Arnold, late of "The Nervous Wreck."

Gregory Kelly last night made his first New York appearance in the cast of "Little Jesse James," in which he has been playing in Chicago.

"THE FATAL WEDDING."

Done in the Manner of 1901, It Proves Entertaining.

THE FATAL WEDDING, a play in a prologue and three acts, by Theodore Kremer; revived by Mary M. Kirkpatrick. At the Eltinge Theatre.

Howard Williams	Miland Tilden
Robert Curtis	Courtney White
Tom	Percy Helmuth
Swarte	William Kershaw
O'Reilly	Arthur Duber
Rev. Lancetford	Frank Knight
Mabel Wilson	Mildred Southwick
Cora Williams	Ann Crawford
Jessie	Lilla Georgiana
Francis Wilcox	Master Harry

Probably it was the successful revival of "Fashion" that gave somebody the idea of taking one of the old melodramas and playing it all over again in the manner of its original performance. At all events, Theodore Kremer's "The Fatal Wedding," dating from 1901, was restaged with great fidelity last night at the Forty-ninth Street Theatre. Restaged with what seemed to be the original scenery, with all the old lantern slides urging the audience not to stamp its feet and the ladies to remove their hats, and with even the stage manager's whistle of warning when a curtain was about to fall.

It turned out, of course, to be excellent fun. As at "Fashion," the audience joined in with applause and hisses for the righteous and the villainous, respectively, and was never so happy as when a well-rounded phrase of defiance was being hurled at the momentarily victorious villains. Mary Kirkpatrick, the play's producer, has wisely cast the piece with either people who believe in it or actors who are clever enough to make you think they do. Only now and then, in the case of a gesture or two, is there any touch of exaggeration, and perhaps even these were handed down from 1901.

There should be a few particular words for an actor named Miland Tilden, who plays the hero—he is really not much of a hero—with a marvelously sincere manner. And there is a child named Little Georgiana who is equally remarkable—although in this case, probably, it was not a case of art concealing art. Ann Crawford and Mildred Southwick are also effective as the adventuress and the heroine.

"The Fatal Wedding" is frequently hilarious entertainment, with only the interludes of "comedy relief" failing to prove comic in either one way or the other. As an example of the manners and morals of 1901 the play is also interesting.

"She Stoops to Conquer."

A prologue by Oliver Herford will be read at the Players' Club performance of "She Stoops to Conquer" at the Empire Theatre next week. Francis Wilson, A. G. Andrews, Robert McWade, Paul McAllister, Theodore Babcock, John Daly Murphy, Milton Nobles and John Seymour have been added to the cast.

W. C. Fields Now a Star.

W. C. Fields, all season the featured member of the cast of "Poppy," was last night raised to stardom in that show. Will Rogers acted as master of ceremonies for the event and read telegrams of congratulation from many stage celebrities.

Ex-Soldier Held in Robbery.

Despite his plea that he was an injured ex-service man and was planning to be operated upon, Irving Bolton, 30 years old, a bookkeeper of Pottstown, Pa., was held in $50,000 bail yesterday for examination Wednesday when arraigned in Yorkville Court as a fugitive from justice. He was arrested last night in a rooming house at 129 East Thirty-ninth Street. Bolton and another man are charged with having blackjacked and robbed Charles C. Hall of Pottstown on April 17. He was traced through the Veterans' Bureau.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Move Irregularly in Year's Smallest Trading—Franc Down, Sterling Up.

The significant financial movements yesterday were in foreign exchange, where the franc went below 5 cents while sterling rose, and in the cotton market, where prices failed to hold the advance which followed a Government crop report somewhat more unfavorable than had been expected. On the stock market, prices moved slightly higher; but the movement was irregular, representing apparently only the shifting of position by the trading fraternity, and the day's total transactions fell to the lowest of the present year. The 310,000 shares which changed hands yesterday on the Stock Exchange were in fact smaller than on any five-hour day but one of 1923, and that day came in the dullest part of Summer. The firmness of yesterday's stock market, however, notwithstanding the somewhat less cheerful financial atmosphere, was to Wall Street the reassuring incident of the day.

Yesterday's decline of the franc to 4.89 cents, as against 5.12 at last week's closing and 5.44¾ a week ago, was clearly attributable to the political complications at Paris. Probably the weakness was accentuated by the bitter criticisms of the $100,000,000 foreign loan by Herriot, the incoming Premier. Since it was the policy of political opponents which he criticised, it was not to have been expected that allowance would be made in his statement for the peculiar and urgent situation which existed when the credit was obtained last March.

But it is also somewhat noteworthy that the prospective head of the new French Ministry makes no suggestion of rejecting that arrangement, even so far as regards the Poincaré Government's pledge regarding the balancing of the budget. On the contrary, he describes this engagement as a fact "which must be accepted" by the new French Ministry. But the exchange market, naturally enough, was influenced only by Herriot's general attitude, and the Bank of France could hardly "intervene" in the market with the political situation at its present awkward stage. The day's recovery in sterling did not suggest the drawing of any very dark inferences from that situation; but the bad side of the confused Continental politics is the delay incurred in applying the Dawes plan to the reparations dispute.

The Department of Agriculture's cotton condition estimate, in yesterday's first monthly report of the season, puts the average at a figure lower than any ever reached at this season, except in 1920. The Government's present percentage of 65.6 is somewhat below the figure previously named by the most careful private estimators, whose reports ranged from 66 to 67. This caused a rise in the cotton market to a price a full cent above last week's closing; but the greater part of the advance was subsequently lost. It is, in fact, a somewhat precarious business to forecast good or bad crops from the Spring condition figure. The very low initial percentage of 62.4 in 1920 was eventually followed by a yield of 12,439,000 bales, one of the largest ever picked; whereas last year, with a percentage of 71 in the June report and the planted area more than a million acres in excess of 1920, the harvest was only 10,128,000. It is the character of the coming cotton season, and especially the success or failure of efforts to check the insect ravages of the past three years, which will really settle the question. Of that it is too early yet to judge.

But the outlook is nevertheless admittedly difficult. While the department makes no report on planted acreage until next month, the consensus of recent private reports is that 3 or 4 per cent. more cotton land has been planted than in 1923; which would indicate much the largest cotton area on record. But neither the Government nor the cotton associations have given any great encouragement for hoping that the weevil pest will be conquered, and a full crop in 1924 is imperatively needed by the textile trade. Nobody knows what surplus will be carried over into the new season at the end of July; but with total consumption for the season to date 200,000 bales above last year, and with the present crop plus the 1923 "carry-over" very close to the last season's total ascertained consumption, the problem is at least perplexing.

MONEY.

MONDAY, JUNE 2, 1924.

Stock Exchange call money ruled steadily at 3 per cent. throughout, an advance of one-half per cent. from last Thursday's final. Dealers reported a good size supply available, more than enough, in fact, to take care of all needs. In the outside market 2¾ per cent. obtained on acceptances and Governments. Time money was unchanged at previously prevailing quotations, no new business being reported, with renewals making up the bulk of day's activity. Both business money markets ware quiet and at discounts which ruled last week.

BANKERS HERE TALK ON UTILITIES' GAIN

Danger of Municipal Ownership Never So Small as Now, Says Charles A. Coffin.

Charles A. Coffin, Chairman of the General Electric Company, addressed many investment bankers yesterday in the Bankers' Club, 120 Broadway, at the regular monthly luncheon of the New York Bond Club. He said that the danger of municipal ownership, which several years ago was worrying public utility industries, was never so small as now.

Mr. Coffin traced the growth of the public utility industry in America, starting at the time when, he said, "the public utility companies found it extremely difficult to get money" and the important banking houses looked askance at bond issues which the companies desired to sell. The situation today is reversed, he said, and "bankers sell our issues frequently before they are actually offered." He told of an instance in which, he said, Dwight W. Morrow and his associates had sold a General Electric bond issue before they had "obtained the contract for the business."

"The growth of the public utility industries has been remarkable, and the most striking advance has been in the last ten years," Mr. Coffin said. "The local utilities have a sound, broad basis, and their securities every year have a greater value. One of the most fruitful moves was that of encouraging customer ownership, for every customer who owns a share of stock becomes sympathetic in his attitude and stands ready to come between the company and harm from hostile legislation. I would rather have as owners of stock a hundred different customers than all the bankers in Wall Street."

Five thousand salesmen are now engaged throughout the country in opening new ways for the use of electricity through the introduction of new appliances in the homes, thus broadening out the field for public utility profits, Mr. Coffin said.

"The scientific way to get results," he explained, "is for the States or cities to create a monopoly and then regulate it. And today the public utility industry is a monopoly, although a regulated monopoly under commissions whose mandates are becoming more and more acceptable and more and more liberal. The commissions are showing greater appreciation of the work that public utilities have to do."

As evidence of the growing popularity of public utility securities, Mr. Coffin said that $200,000,000 worth of shares are being sold every year in customer ownership.

GAIN IN EQUIPMENT ORDERS.

But Total for First Five Months Is Below Last Year.

Equipment companies booked orders for 163 locomotives; 443 freight cars and 101 passenger cars in May, according to figures obtained by Railway Age. This compares with 104 locomotives, 11,189 freight and 135 passenger cars ordered in April.

The total bookings for the first five months of this year were 775 locomotives, 73,173 freight and 805 passenger cars. This compares with 1,645 locomotives, 95,844 freight cars and 1,255 passenger cars in the same period of last year.

The only order reported last week was one for three Mikado type locomotives for the Detroit & Toledo Shore Line, taken by the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

Sales Reports for May.

Montgomery Ward & Co. reports gross sales of $11,085,879 for May, against $10,796,431 in the corresponding month last year. Gross sales for the first five months of 1924 aggregated $62,686,303, against $52,825,016 in the same period in 1923. Sears, Roebuck & Co. reports gross sales of $16,318,121 in May, against $18,465,379 in May last year. Five months' sales aggregated $90,979,029, against $93,443,908 in the same period last year.

INDUSTRIAL STOCKS TO PAY DIVIDENDS

Mathieson Alkali Declares 1¾% on Preferred as Credit on Back Payment Due.

Directors of the Mathieson Alkali Works yesterday declared a dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the preferred stock, to be credited to back dividends due on this issue. In addition the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. also was declared, both dividends payable July 1 to stockholders of record June 20. As a result of this action only 1¾ per cent. still remains to be paid on the preferred stock on account of back dividends.

A reduction in the quarterly dividend rate of the Celluloid Company was announced yesterday when directors declared a dividend of 1 per cent., payable June 30 to stockholders of record June 16. Three months ago the company declared a dividend of 1¼ per cent. The company announced that the reduction was due to unsettled business conditions, but added that the financial position of the company was sound and that not a dollar was being borrowed.

Directors of the St. Joseph Lead Company declared a dividend of 50 cents a share on the capital stock, payable Sept. 20 to stockholders of record Sept. 9. Three months ago the company paid 25 cents a share and an extra payment of the same amount, making a total of 50 cents for that quarter.

The regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. was declared on both the common and preferred stock of the American Woolen Company, payable July 15 to stockholders of record June 14.

The Utah Copper Company declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the capital stock, payable June 30 to stockholders of record June 13. Charles Hayden, Vice President, said that he believed it would be only a question of a short time before conditions improved in the copper industry.

BANK ANALYZES BUSINESS.

Producers and Dealers Unwilling to Stock Up, Says National City.

The unwillingness on the part of producers and dealers to accumulate stocks of materials and merchandise because of uncertainty regarding the future, accounts for much of the slowing up in business witnessed during recent months, according to the monthly circular on general conditions issued yesterday by the National City Bank. The circular said, in part:

"The high state of industrial activity which characterized the first quarter of the year reached its crest about the middle of March and has been declining since, but in recent weeks the downward movement apparently has been checked, the curtailment of production and of wholesale buying having outrun the falling off in retail distribution. Neither producers nor dealers wish to accumulate stocks when the outlook appears to be for slackening demand and falling prices.

"Whenever a slackening tendency is generally noted an alarm is sounded and the process of reducing stocks follows as a matter of course. It is one of the results of the disturbed conditions prevailing for now ten years that the business world is more sensitive to indicated changes than formerly. It takes to cover more hurriedly.

Prorate Texas Oil Output.

The Texas Company has adopted a policy of prorating oil production in the Holliday field, in Archer County, Texas, and will in the future accept only 50 per cent. of the oil produced. Officials of the company in explaining the action yesterday said that it could not be considered important as the field is a small one and the prorating is due to local congestion.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Extremely Dull Stock Market.

Following a resumption of business on the Stock Exchange yesterday, trading was on a less active scale than was witnessed prior to the triple holiday. Total sales for the day, which only slightly exceeded 300,000 shares, were the smallest of any day since the 282,000 of July 12, last year. The tendency of prices, however, was upward with substantial gains reported in some of the active speculative issues. The standard dividend paying industrial and railroad shares made only fractional gains for the day; the advances of a point or more occurred in such stocks as Famous Players, du Pont, American Woolen, Cast Iron Pipe, Baldwin, Colorado Fuel and other issues in which a short interest was believed to be outstanding. The covering of short commitments, according to close stock market observers, accounted for a good portion of the day's business, there being virtually no public interests of any kind except some small investment buying in the stronger issues, but even the buying of this character was reported to be smaller than in the recent past. According to general opinion, both the public and the speculative interests have adopted a policy of waiting developments in regard to the political conventions and the much-discussed "third party" movement. Even the news that the House would adjourn June 7, an event to which Wall Street was recently pinning its hopes, failed to stimulate the market yesterday.

After a Three-Day Holiday.

Under ordinary circumstances, a three-day holiday such as Wall Street has just enjoyed would bring in quite an accumulation of over-holiday business, particularly to the wire houses from outlying points. Such an accumulation of orders had been anticipated for yesterday's market, but it did not develop, and about all the specialists on the floor of the Stock Exchange had to do was a little speculative business, most of which originated south of Fulton Street.

***

Petroleum Stocks Just Firm.

Despite the fact that favorable weather over the triple holiday aided the petroleum industry so far as consumption of its products are concerned, the oil stocks as a group just about held their own yesterday. Figures were published in the financial district yesterday which showed that Western refiners drew heavily on gasoline stocks in the week of May 24, despite a large increase in the production of this product. This news received only passing attention in stock market circles. The Street was more interested in the news from Tulsa that the Texas Company had ordered pro-rating in the Texas fields. Officials of the Texas Company yesterday confirmed the report that they were taking only 50 per cent. of the oil produced in the Holliday field, in Archer County, Texas, but added that this is a local condition, due to congestion, and is not considered important, as the field is a small one.

***

A Slow Market.

The total turnover of stocks on the floor of the Exchange yesterday between the hours of 1 and 2 was only 29,400 shares, and some of the brokers were inclined to believe that this established a record, at least in view of the present length of the stock list. There was barely enough activity during that hour to keep the ticker turning over.

Railway Earnings in 1924.

Enough of the earnings reports for the month of April have been published to indicate to the financial district that the gross earnings of the roads for the first four months of this year are considerable under the same months of 1923. This, at once, brings up the interesting question of how the earnings for 1924 will compare with those of 1923. Railroad officials maintained yesterday that if the traffic for 1924 is but 5 per cent. under 1923, net earnings, may equal those of a year ago, due to a reduction in the operating expenses. On the other hand, it was pointed out that the present tendency is for the volume of business to be nearer 8 or 10 per cent. under the same weeks of last year than 5 per cent., and that the first four months of this year failed to demonstrate that the railroad could hold up their earnings on falling traffic. In those months, it is pointed out, the traffic was just a little above the same months of last years, based on car loadings, but both the gross and the net earnings were under those of 1923.

The Market and the Tax Bill.

Wall Street people who watch the market for indications as to its immediate future were inclined to believe that one reason for its inactivity and slowness was the uncertain fate of the tax legislation. Wall Street had about made up its mind yesterday, however, that the bill will be signed, on the ground that it is the best measure that the Administration can get at this time. The popular supposition was that the announcement that the bill had been signed by the President would lead to a demonstration of moderate proportions in the stock market. It was remarked yesterday in several places about the Street that this probably will be the last week in which Wall Street will be obliged to keep its ear so closely attuned to Washington.

The Government's Cotton Report.

The cotton market yesterday was as excited and wild as the stock market was placid and dull. The condition report of 65.6 per cent. of normal issued by the Department of Agriculture took the trade and speculators by surprise, especially in view of the fact that fourteen authorities of the trade had made forecasts which averaged 66.8, ranging from the high of 69.6 to the low of 64.9. As was to have been anticipated, the unexpectedly low condition as of May 25 caused something of a scramble for cotton, with July contracts going up to 30½ cents, October to 27½ cents and December to 26.70 cents. But the advance did not hold. Although the trade is ready to admit that the crop has had a very backward start and is from two to three weeks late, most people who watch the market closely believe that slow mill takings and the smaller exports reported last week form a considerable offset to the low condition report. Nevertheless, the Government's estimate appeared to have had a very powerful effect on the speculative mind, and brokers reported yesterday that "large lots of cotton" had been covered during the day. Prices at the maximum were up about $3 per bale as compared with last Thursday's final quotation.

***

News From Washington.

There was a wide difference of opinion yesterday as to the effect of the news from Washington on the prices of the railway shares in the New York market. On the one hand it was pointed out that during the week-end holiday the whole railway legislation situation at Washington had been reopened and that this move added much to the disquiet. Railway officials, on the other hand, took the opposite view and said that the news from the capital yesterday—that the House of Representatives had voted to adjourn on Saturday and that the Eagley bill will not be pushed at this session—was sufficient to offset the other disquieting occurrences.

A Recommendation

We particularly recommend the purchase of Foreign Government and carefully selected Industrial Bonds.

Shrewd investors are now placing a large part of their funds in these two classes of bonds.

We shall be pleased to make suggestions for conservative investment.

TO OPEN BIDS TODAY ON CITY BOND ISSUE

Keen Competition Among Bankers for $67,400,000 Securities, Is Reported.

PREMIUM IS EXPECTED

Bulk of Offers Said to Range Between 100¼ and 100¾—Bonds Bear 4¼% Coupons.

Controller Charles L. Craig will open bids at noon today for $67,400,000 of an issue of $137,000,000 of City of New York bonds. The city has arranged to take up the balance of $70,000,000 of the issue without a public offering. Bankers said last night that competition for the $67,400,000 of bonds had been keen. Either directly or indirectly, it was indicated, every large bond firm in the financial district was interested.

The city, it is expected, will receive a premium over par. The bulk of bids, it is believed, will range around 100¾ to 100¾, with the large houses, which put in bids on an "all-or-none basis," having hit about midway between those two prices. One firm to make known its bid price was Farson, Son & Co., which priced $500,000 of the bonds sought at 100.261. The bonds bear 4¼ per cent. coupons.

Bankers indicated yesterday that the offering would likely prove one of the city's most successful pieces of financing since pre-war days. The bond market, it was said, had been carefully timed by the city officials. Money rates have eased considerably recently, and with the piling up of large surplus sums by corporations and banks, there is said to be a strong demand for solidly secured bonds or notes. Short-term paper is in particularly strong demand.

The city issues to be offered to the public will consist of $37,000,000 of 4¼ per cent. gold corporate stock, maturing June 1, 1974, and $30,400,000 of 4¼ per cent. gold serial bonds, which will mature $3,250,000 in four equal annual instalments on June 1, 1925-1928, inclusive; $9,500,000 due in five equal annual instalments on June 1, 1925-1929, inclusive; $5,250,000 due in nine equal annual instalments on June 1, 1925-1933, inclusive; $2,000,000 due in ten equal annual instalments on June 1, 1925-1934, inclusive; $3,650,000 due in fourteen equal annual instalments on June 1, 1925-1938, inclusive, and $6,750,000 due in fifteen equal annual instalments on June 1, 1925-1939, inclusive.

A deposit of 2½ per cent. of the amount of the proposal must accompany each bid, and as some of the bids will be for all the securities enumerated their accompanying checks will be for $1,685,000.

According to reports in banking circles, the National City Company, the First National Bank, the Guaranty Company of New York and Brown Brothers & Co. head one offering group. Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Dillon, Read & Co. are said to be heading another group, and a third group, it is reported, is headed by the Chase Securities Corporation and Speyer & Co. Some of the syndicates, it is indicated, comprise twenty or more firms. J. P. Morgan & Co. had not tendered a bid, so far as could be learned, up to the close of business yesterday. This institution frequently submits a bid in the eleventh hour, and it is generally believed that a Morgan price will be submitted before the formal opening today.

WANT COAL MOVED NOW.

Railways Want Big Consumers to Avoid Fall Rush.

The Car Service Division of the American Railway Association has started a campaign to get large manufacturers to ship their coal early. All of the railroads throughout the country will call attention of their consumers to the conditions.

The plea to buy and ship coal early is made for two reasons.

In the first place, the usual Fall demand for coal comes at the period when railroads are handling the grain movement. In the second place, the volume of coal handled in recent weeks is far less than in the same period of last year. These conditions indicate an immense movement of coal traffic in the Fall unless something is done to avoid such congestion.

MARKET AVERAGES.

New Orleans, Texas & Mexico, Delaware, & Hudson and Missouri Pacific have been replaced in the list of stocks from which the New York Times Stock Market Averages are computed by Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Illinois Central and Wabash. This change was made necessary by the reduction in the price of New Orleans, Texas & Mexico, which yesterday sold ex the $13 extra dividend recently declared. The combined prices of the three stocks eliminated as well as those replacing them was 237¼ at the close of business on Thursday last.

Changing Industrial Conditions and Their Significance

Some very important changes have recently been noted in the economic status of certain industries which have had their effect upon the financial position of many prominent companies. It is important that holders of securities in such companies determine whether these changes are permanent or whether they merely reflect a passing condition.

We should be pleased at the opportunity of reviewing your securities with this factor in mind.

B. M. T. WINS RIGHT TO SUE THE CITY

Supreme Court Ruling Clears Way for $30,000,000 Damage Action on Subway Contracts.

SUIT BEGUN BY GARRISON

Involves Failure to Lease to the Old B. R. T. the 14th Street and Nassau-Broad Street Extensions.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—An attempt to prevent the New York Rapid Transit Corporation from intervening in a case involving construction and leasing of certain rapid transit railroads in New York failed today in the Supreme Court. The Court held it lacked jurisdiction.

The City of New York and the State Transit Commission had appealed from a decision of the lower court permitting the corporation to enter the proceedings, which embraced an attempt to compel the enforcement of "Contract No. 4," for the construction by the city and the leasing to the predecessor of the Rapid Transit Corporation of certain railroads.

Clears Way for $30,000,000 Suit.

This ruling by the United States Supreme Court, lawyers said yesterday, clears the way for an early trial on its merits of the action begun by Lindley M. Garrison, while he was receiver for the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, to recover from the city in behalf of that corporation $30,000,000 damages.

The claim by the old B. R. T., now reorganized as the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation, was based upon the city's alleged default in complying with the terms of the so-called Rapid Transit Contract No. 4, which was executed with the B. R. T. more than a decade ago. Under that contract the city bound itself to construct and to lease to the B. R. T. and its operating subsidiary—then the New York Consolidated Railway—the subway lines known as the Fourteenth Street-Eastern District route and the Nassau-Broad Street extension. In the action filed by Mr. Garrison while receiver counsel for the plaintiff corporation contended that the city's breach of contract—neither of the lines named being yet in operation—had deprived it of aggregate receipts in the sum named and had been a potential factor in forcing it into the recent receivership, from which it has just emerged in reorganized form.

Both the City of New York and the Transit Commission, the latter as the legal successor to the board which signed the dual contracts jointly with the city, were made defendants in the action for damages. After the reorganized B. R. T. emerged from its receivership as the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit Corporation and its operating subsidiary, the New York Consolidated, emerged as the New York Rapid Transit Corporation, the Corporation Counsel representing the city and counsel for the State Transit Commission jointly opposed the petition that the New York Rapid Transit Corporation be permitted to participate as a coplaintiff in the action for damages, on the ground that it was the legal successor to the earlier corporation which existed under the receivership.

Judge Julius M. Mayer of the United States Circuit Court denied the petition of the city and the Transit Commission and they then appealed his ruling to the United States Supreme Court, with the result announced above, which sustains the position of the corporation and denies the relief sought by the municipality.

Case Called Yesterday.

Under a ruling made just a month ago by Judge Goddard of the United States District Court, the $30,000,000 damage suit, which the B. M. T. was anxious to press to an early trial, was placed at the head of the June calendar. Though counsel for the city and the Transit Commission opposed the motion, Judge Goddard declared that in the public interest he thought the case should be brought to trial as soon as possible. In conformity to that ruling it was called for trial yesterday before Federal Judge William Bondy in the United States District Court in this city. An adjournment was granted, however, because Assistant Corporation Counsel E. C. Mayer was engaged in another court. George H. Stover, assistant counsel for the Transit Commission, said after the adjournment that the action yesterday by the United States Supreme Court had not exhausted the resources of the defendant.

Mr. Stover said he contemplated a motion for dismissal of the action in the Federal Court and for its transfer to the State courts. He holds that the reason for the original filing of the suit in the Federal Court was that of the parties in interest the plaintiff corporations included not only the B. R. T., but also the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company of Pittsburgh, which is a Pennsylvania Corporation, while Mr. Garrison, the receiver, was a resident of the State of New Jersey. It was the Westinghouse Company which moved for the receivership in Judge Mayer's court. Since the vacating of the Federal receivership and the reorganization of the system into the B. M. T. Corporation, Mr. Stover will contend, the ownership of the property resides wholly in the State of New York, with no extraneous interests. Plaintiff and defendant being now co residents of the same State, counsel for the Transit Commission will argue, there is no longer reason for action in a Federal court, and the issue should be transferred to jurisdiction of the State courts.

This position will be opposed by counsel for the corporation as without merit and as merely another dilatory move to defer joining in court of the main issue.

BUSH TERMINAL'S REPORT.

Made a Net Income of $1,332,817 Last Year, an Increase.

The Bush Terminal Company and subsidiaries reported a net income of $1,332,817 for 1923. After deducting preferred dividends of Bush Terminal Company and the Bush Terminal Building Company, this was equivalent to $13.33 a share on the outstanding $6,989,966 of common stock. The company reported earnings of $1,253,592 in 1922.

Gross earnings	$8,096,885	$7,561,618
Expenses and taxes	5,354,302	5,112,768
Operating profit	2,742,561	2,438,850
Net income	1,332,817	1,253,592

The company reports a surplus of $387,768 after the payment of all dividends for 1923. Total assets are $45,129,144.

PLAN COAL MINE MERGER.

Consolidation of Companies Operating in Indiana Under Way.

A plan for the consolidation of a number of coal mining companies operating in Indiana is being worked out by coal men and New York bankers, according to information received in New York yesterday from Chicago. The proposed consolidation, it was said, would bring 25 per cent. of the mines in Indiana under a common management and would make for efficiency in production, with reduced overhead and better production facilities.

A representative of the Chase National Bank was said to be in the territory working over details of the plan.

Cuban Telephone Meeting Put Off.

Attorney Argues That Brokers Are Not Liable, as They Do Not Compete With Banks.

Argument was heard yesterday in the Supreme Court by Justice Proskauer on proceedings to review the assessments made under the so-called moneyed capital tax law of 1923, passed by the State Legislature. The case on trial will serve as a test for several hundred suits, pending or about to be brought by various financial institutions seeking to escape payment of the State's "moneyed tax" on the grounds that the tax in question is not properly applicable to them, and that the law is in itself unconstitutional.

A number of attorneys were present, among them Edward S. Siedman of Wollman & Wollman, 20 Broad Street, which represents a number of stock brokerage houses. Mr. Seidman argued that his clients were not taxable under the State law, which provides that "every individual banker and every private banker, every investor and every person owning or holding moneyed capital coming into competition with the business of national banks shall be assessed and taxed on the actual value of such money capital.

As one of several points, he contended that stock brokerage concerns do not compete with national banks. The national banks, he said, were forbidden by law to engage in such practices as buying and selling stocks for customers, whereas stock brokers are authorized to do so. Consequently, he declared, the stock brokerage concerns cannot be in competition on that score with the national banks because the two are in entirely different fields. The tax authorities of New York City, it was indicated, have held to the view that stock brokers who buy and sell stocks and bonds and commodities on commission and advance money on margin transactions are competing with national banks.

The Supreme Court of the United States held that a national bank cannot act as agent in the purchase and sale of stock or other commodities and the highest courts of other States have similarly so ruled," said Mr. Seidman. "Of course, if national banks cannot act as agents in the purchase and sale for others, it cannot be said that brokers are in competition with them. No one can be in competition with another when he does something totally different or if he does something which the other cannot do at all."

NEW INVESTMENT SHARES.

Throckmorton & Co. to Offer Issue Secured by Industrial Stocks.

A new issue of investment trust certificates secured by industrial stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange will be offered soon by Throckmorton & Co., who recently offered an issue of United Bankers Oil Company certificates, secured by the capital stock of leading oil companies. Each share offered, according to the company's announcement, will represent an interest in nine large industrial corporations. The shares will be offered to yield over 7½ per cent., based upon the current dividends paid by the corporations.

The ten corporations, according to the announcement, hold a dominant position in thirteen major lines of industry. Their assets aggregate $5,000,000,000, with surplus and reserve of nearly $1,500,000,000, and do an average business of $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 a day.

BETTING ON SMITH.

1 to 2½ That He Will Be Nominated, 1 to 7 That He Will Be Elected.

J. S. Fried & Co., 20 Broad Street, yesterday announced that the following odds had been posted by them on political possibilities: 1 to 2½ that Governor Alfred E. Smith will be nominated for the Presidency, and 1 to 7 that he will be elected. While the odds are 8 to 5 that President Coolidge will be re-elected, the firm has $2,000 to place against $5,000 that the next President of the United States will be a Democrat.

Federal Treasury Withdrawal.

The United States Treasury will withdraw $2,840,000 from the member banks of the New York Federal Reserve District Thursday. This amount represents 10 per cent. of the balances remaining from the Government financing of March 15. The White Star liner Majestic, due here tomorrow, is bringing specie valued at $773,390, consigned to local banks.

Out of 10,000 Loans

OUT of the 10,000 loans which this Company has made in the South and West since it was founded in 1905 only nineteen have been foreclosed. On these few cases of foreclosure the Company has made a small net profit. In other words, not only has no investor in our bonds ever lost any money, but we have not lost any ourselves. We know of no other mortgage company with a record equal to this.

The 6% Guaranteed Mortgage Bonds of this Company are secured by mortgages on real estate in the larger cities of the South and West worth 2½ times the amount of bonds outstanding, and are also guaranted by our entire Capital, Surplus and Undivided Profits of nearly Three Million Dollars.

Fifty Year 7% Income Bonds
(Cumulative)

Dated January 1, 1922 Due January 1, 1972

ELECTRIC BOND AND SHARE COMPANY supervises (under the direction and control of the boards of directors of the respective companies) the operations of properties in which the National Power & Light Company is interested.

Business. National Power & Light Company owns all the common stock, except directors' shares, (and in some instances substantial amounts of bonds and preferred stock) of Houston Lighting & Power Company, Knoxville Power & Light Company, Arkansas Central Power Company, Birmingham Electric Company and Memphis Power & Light Company, the latter company controlling through stock ownership, The Memphis Street Railway Company. The total population served by subsidiaries is in excess of 800,000.

Equity. These Income Bonds which are now outstanding to the amount of $8,498,410, constitute the Company's sole funded indebtedness. These bonds take precedence as to earnings and assets over both preferred and common stocks, which have a present aggregate market value in excess of $18,000,000. The common stock is on a dividend basis of $5 per share per annum.

Net Income of subsidiary companies, after all deductions, including Depreciation	1,949,324	3,043,573
Proportion of above Net Income applicable to National Power & Light Co.	1,638,038	2,878,051
Total Gross Income applicable to Interest on Funded Debt of National Power & Light Co.	1,309,098	2,560,081
Actual Interest Paid on 50-Year 7% Income Bonds Outstanding with the Public	572,747	601,346
Balance	$736,351	$1,958,735

Net income of subsidiary companies, as shown above, increased 56% since December 31, 1922. The proportion of earnings applicable to interest on Income Bonds of National Power & Light Company, for the last twelve months' period shown, amounted to $2,560,081 or 4.30 times present annual interest requirements of $594,889 on these Bonds.

Pioneering
A Great Forward Step in Investments

IN August 1923 the Commonwealth Bond Corporation announced and offered to investors $1,500,000 6½ per cent gold bond certificates (serial coupon in form) secured by an apartment building in New York City. At that time it was stated that those bonds were legal for the investment of trust funds under the rigid New York State laws. To the best of our knowledge this was the first time in New York State that real estate serial coupon certificates secured by a first mortgage upon a specific property were offered as

LEGAL for TRUST FUNDS

This marked a great forward step for the benefit of trustees in particular, and conservative investors in general: the opportunity to buy legal serial coupon first mortgage real estate bond certificates secured by specific property.

By underwriting this issue—a great first mortgage split up into small pieces of $1000, $500 and $100—the Commonwealth Bond Corporation opened up the field of "legals" of this character to all investors.

Since bringing out this first "legal" issue, this Corporation has offered other issues legal for the investment of trust funds.

We have prepared a very interesting pamphlet that every experienced investor will want. Its title is "Legal for Trust Funds", and it contains a list of requirements that trustees, executors and administrators must observe in the investment of trust funds.

What Kind of Investment Trusts are the Most Successful?

Answer:—

MEASURING success by sustained dividend records and surplus earnings, the front rank is occupied by Trusts with highly conservative management. They invest only in securities of proven worth, diversifying their holdings as broadly as possible.

International Securities Trust of America is of this class, owning more than 300 separate bonds and stocks of practically every industry and 24 countries.

These are first and refunding mortgage sinking fund gold bonds, Serie B. They are offered by E. H. Rollins & Sons, Harris, Forbes & Co. and the Mercantile Securities Company of California at 90¾ to yield about 6.05 per cent. This company supplies without competition the electric light and power services to forty-four communities in Oregon and Northern California.

A new issue of $1,500,000 Fruit Growers Express Company 5 per cent. equipment trust certificates, Series E, is offered by the First National Bank, Clark, Dodge & Co., Harrison, Smith & Co. and Freeman & Co. The certificates mature $100,000 annually June 1, 1925-1939 inclusive and are priced to yield 5.10 per cent.

The National City Company is offering $1,000,000 Long Beach (Cal.) school district 5 per cent. bonds, due 1926-1964 inclusive, at prices to yield about 4.70 per cent.

Hale, Waters & Co. and Tucker, Anthony & Co. are offering $800,000 National Power and Light Company fifty-year 7 per cent. cumulative income bonds, due in 1972, at a price to yield more than 7.30 per cent. The company owns a controlling interest in the Houston Light & Power Company, the Knoxville Power and Light Company, the Arkansas Central Power Company, the Birmingham Electric Company and the Memphis Power and Light Company.

Freeman & Co. are offering a new issue of $375,000 General Refrigerator Line equipment trust 6½ per cent. gold certificates, due semi-annually in serial instalments of $25,000 each from June 15, 1925, to 1932, at prices to yield from 6 to 6.50 per cent.

An issue of $300,000 Hidalgo County (Tex.) water improvement district No. 6 per cent. bonds is offered by J. L. Arlitt at par and interest to yield 6 per cent.

C. W. McNear & Co. are offering $200,000 City of Charleston (S. C.) 4 per cent. bonds, due 1937 and 1938, at prices to yield about 4.50 per cent.

An issue of $85,000 City of Sanford (Fla.) 5½ per cent. waterworks bonds, is offered at prices to yield 5.20 per cent., by Prudden & Co. The bonds mature Jan. 1, 1954.

A block of City of Youngstown (Ohio) 5 per cent. grade crossing elimination bonds are offered by Halsey, Stuart & Co., at prices to yield from 4.25 to 4.35 per cent, according to maturity. The bonds mature serially from 1925 to 1939.

The offering of about $26,000,000 of bonds for the account of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis (Nickel Plate) Railroad Company, it was reported yesterday, would probably be made within the week. The Interstate Commerce Commission has not yet formally approved of the issue.

A new report that Mexico was negotiating with New York bankers for a $25,000,000 loan was received yesterday from the City of Mexico. According to one report, Speyer & Co. was interested, but this was not confirmed at the office of that firm.

GETS CABLE CONCESSION.

All America Company to Link Us With Santo Domingo.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—A thirty-year concession to the All-America Cable Company to land cables in the territory of the Dominican Republic and to furnish international service with that country has just been signed by the Dominican President, according to a cablegram received by Secretary Hughes today from C. B. Hosmer, the American Consul at Santo Domingo City. The Consul added that it was expected that the concessionaire would be able to begin service with the United States within a month.

The Dominican Congress has approved constitutional reforms submitted by the Provisional Government, according to a report made today to the State Department by William W. Russell, American Minister in Santo Domingo, and a Constitutional Assembly has been called to meet this week.

Under present plans, elections for the selection of a Constitutional President and permanent officials will soon be held, after which, it is expected, a convention will be signed with the United States protecting American interests in the republic, and the Provisional Government will turn the reins of authority over to the Constitutional Government. Thereupon American occupation will end.

RAILROADS CURB AUTOISTS.

Begin Campaign Against Reckless Drivers Who Crash Through Gates.

The railroads are pushing a campaign to reduce the number of grade crossing accidents by consistent prosecution of careless automobile drivers.

An official of one of the large Eastern roads said yesterday that prosecutions were being made "wherever there are violations that the railroad can establish. We do not want our railroad mentioned," he added, "because we might be misunderstood."

In the last month this railroad has successfully prosecuted seven cases in which the drivers broke down gates or drove past "Stop" signs. A number of railroads in the East have been carrying on similar campaigns. The Ontario & Western is contemplating prosecution of two autoists who ran into the side of a coach at Middletown, N. Y.

The Pennsylvania Railroad not only has been successfully prosecuting automobile drivers who crash through closed gates and injure railroad property, but it has from time to time written letters to the violators calling their attention to property damage and asking for a more strict observance of the law.

BARTLETT IS RE-ELECTED.

Edward E. Bartlett Jr. was re-elected President of the New York Cotton Exchange at the annual election yesterday. Mr. Bartlett will serve for one year. Richard T. Harries of Harriss, Irby & Vose, was elected Vice President and James F. Maury was re-elected Treasurer.

The following were elected members of the Board of Managers: Herman B. Baruch, Louis Brooks, Thomas F. Cahill, J. Chester Cuppia, W. Collier Estes, Max Greaven, Gaines Gwathmey, Ralph H. Hubbard, William H. Judson, Leigh M. Pearsall, Clayton E. Rich, James Riordan, Henry H. Joyce, George M. Shutt and William J. Walsh. Messrs. Cuppia, Estes, Gwathmey, Royce and Walsh are the new members of the board. Walker C. Hubbard was elected trustee of the gratuity fund, to serve three years.

Pennsylvania Car Loadings.

Car loadings on the Pennsylvania the week of May 24 totaled 151,983, against 183,688 in the corresponding week of 1923, and 134,991 in the same week of 1922.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

European exchanges were badly shaken in the preliminary trading yesterday, fresh lows resulting, but after the first hour the market completely reversed itself when a strong buying movement to cover shorts sent rates back for substantial gains over the opening. French francs were particularly pressed for sale, stimulated by weakness in London, and lower cables, dropping at one time to 4.80 cents, a decline of 28 points from Saturday's final. At this juncture, covering by German and Amsterdam interests, with some official support, turned the rate back to 4.97 cents, and after an interval in which the price was subjected to the feverish cross-currents of speculative pressure and buying shot forward to 5.10 cents. The political crisis in France and the reported attack of M. Herriot on the terms of the recent Morgan credit to the Bank of France, though this was later denied, were the factors behind the decline and later recovery.

Sterling showed an opening break of ¼ cent, at 4.80⅞, but the wave of buying brought it to a gain of ⅜ cent, at $4.81⅛. Italian exchange was also weak for a time and from a loss of ¾ points, at 4.30¾ cents, moved steadily up to 4.34½ cents at the close. Belgian franc followed the French bill, its closing price of 4.43⅛ cents showing a smart recovery from an earlier low. Holland, Spanish, Swiss and the Scandinavians were all heavy. Far Easterns were weak, realizing sales turning these currencies lower. South Americans were generally steady.

As a result a surplus of $119,705 was reported for the year. The general balance sheet on Dec. 31, 1923, shows current assets of $3,135,668 and current liabilities of $803,009.

GERMAN POTASH LOAN IS DENIED

Report That American Dollar Credit Had Been Arranged" "Ridiculous," Bankers Say.

SOME "FEELERS" HELD OUT

Official of Importing Corporation Asserts Credit at This Time Would Be Impractical.

A report yesterday that the German potash industry had been successful in arranging an American dollar credit was denied by the interests mentioned as having given the credit as well as by H. A. Forbes, Vice President and General Manager of the Potash Importing Corporation of America, which is the sole agency of distribution of the Kali Syndicate in this country.

The Kali Syndicate is the selling organization in Germany of the larger potash mines and through the Potash Importing Corporation of America, an American corporation, ships into this country each year between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 worth of German potash for fertilizer uses. The American corporation buys the potash outright, paying for it in dollars, and resells the product to American fertilizer manufacturers. Before the war the Kali Syndicate did its own merchandising in this country.

A local German newspaper was the authority for the report yesterday that a credit had been arranged through W. A. Harriman & Co., the United American Lines, which is controlled by the Harriman firm, and the Hamburg-American Line. The latter has a working agreement with the United American Lines, but this agreement is of a shipping character only and the report was termed "ridiculous" at the Harriman offices. Julius P. Meyer, local representative of the Hamburg-American Line, likewise said he knew of no such credit.

There has been a good deal of agitation for an American credit for the German potash industry, of an unofficial nature, for months. This has consisted largely of "feelers" held out by the Germans with regard to the prospects of obtaining the credit here. In this connection some significance was attached recently to the visit in this country of Robert Kunze and Bruno Thomas, officials of the Kali Syndicate, who have since returned to Berlin. According to Mr. Forbes of the Potash Importing Corporation, their business here, however, did not concern the establishment of American credit, but was in line with the syndicate's policy of maintaining its regular contacts here.

Chosen on Steamship Board.

Harvey C. Miller, President of the Southern Steamship Company of Philadelphia, has been elected a director of the Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies Steamship lines to fill a vacancy on the board. Officers have been re-elected.

EARNINGS OF I. M. M. $6,113,597 IN 1923

Preliminary Report Says, However, That Depreciation Produces a Deficit.

FINDS WORLD TRADE POOR

P. A. S. Franklin Tells Stockholders Political Conditions Still Hamper Business.

The preliminary report of the International Mercantile Marine Company for 1923, presented yesterday, showed estimated net earnings of $6,113,597, against actual earnings of $6,971,130 in 1922, and a deficit for the year of $1,-689,921 after interest and depreciation on steamers, against a deficit of $1,260,-783 reported in 1922, after the same deductions.

Net earnings	*$6,113,597.34	$6,971,130.90
Interest on I. M. M. Co. bonds	2,223,718.86	2,256,253.85
Result before dep.	$3,889,878.48	$4,714,877.07
Dep. on steamers	5,579,800.46	5,984,660.85
Deficit for year	$1,689,921.98	$1,269,783.78

*For proper comparison with results of previous years the earnings of the British companies have been converted at $4.85 per pound sterling.

"From the foregoing figures," says the report, "it will be seen that the actual operation of all the steamers and businesses of your company and its subsidiaries for the year 1923 resulted in a profit of $3,889,878.48, after deducting all expenses, taxes and bond interest. However, against this profit must be charged the full depreciation on the steamers, amounting to $5,579,800.46, after which the estimated net results show a loss of $1,689,921.98 for the year."

From the dividends received from its subsidiary companies and from the operation of the steamers it owns directly the company shows an estimated profit of $794,968.09 for 1923, after deducting all expenses, bond interest and depreciation.

	1923. Estimated.	1922. Actual.
Total net earnings of I. M. M. Co. plus dividends from subsidiary companies, after deducting taxes and general expenses	*$3,417,521.68	*$6,354,838.49
I. M. M. Co. bond interest	2,223,718.86	2,256,253.83
	$1,193,802.83	$4,098,584.66
Depreciation on steamers directly owned	398,834.74	398,834.74
Surplus	$794,968.09	$3,699,749.92

P. A. S. Franklin, President, reviewing conditions in the shipping industry, said in part:

"Until the political situation in Europe materially improves and the present serious economic conditions are corrected, it is impossible to expect a resumption of normal interchange of freight and passenger traffic between the countries of the world, nor will there has really been no improvement abroad, the business of your companies has been both difficult and unsatisfactory. In addition to this, we have had very serious competition from Government owned steamers, operated regardless of financial results.

"The new Immigration bill will still further reduce the number of immigrants that can enter this country and there will be a consequent loss of revenue to the company, as your steamers have always carried an important share of this traffic.

"We regret to say that the expenses of operating the steamers are not decreasing, owing to the higher cost of labor and also to continued high cost of fuel.

"It is too early to predict results for 1924, but so far they have been more satisfactory and we are hopeful that with an improvement in conditions in Europe there will follow a general revival of business and trade throughout the world."

BUYS BIG TRACT IN OIL FIELD

Superior Corporation Pays $245,000 for 8,115 Acres.

H. G. Davies, President of the Superior Oil Corporation, announced yesterday that thirty new properties, aggregating 8,115 acres in the Mid-continent field, have been purchased by the company for $245,000. The cost of the purchase was defrayed by a part of the proceeds of a $1,500,000 bond issue recently sold by Brown Brothers & Co., White, Weld & Co. and Frazier & Co., Inc. The new properties bring the corporation's total holdings to approximately 29,000 acres, of which 20,028 acres are in Kentucky.

In discussing the purchase, Mr. Davies said: "A very considerable portion of the acreage acquired by us in the Mid-continent field is now being tested by wells that are being drilled thereon, or in close proximity thereto. The management of this company hopes to maintain and possibly increase the corporation's production above its present level, and feels assured that our production in 1924 will be greatly increased over 1923. The present daily production is between 4,000 and 5,000 barrels, compared with about 1,200 barrels daily on Jan. 1."

LIVELY BIDDING FOR NOTES.

Argentina's $30,000,000 of Short-Term Paper in Big Demand.

Because of the condition of the money market and the demand for short-term paper, considerable competition has developed over the new $30,000,000 financing now under consideration by the Argentine Government. It will be in the nature of one-year notes, of which $20,000,000 will be used to pay off maturity on Aug. 25 of an issue of 5½s, sold on Feb. 15 of this year.

The February financing was handled by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Blair & Co., Inc. and the Chase Securities Company, the notes being sold at par. According to reports in the financial district, another syndicate of banks has entered a bid for the $30,000,000 issue. It is expected the negotiations will be closed within a day or two.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Brown Brothers & Co. have issued a booklet on "International Investments."

E. L. Winchell, President of the Remington Typewriter Company, will sail for Europe tomorrow on the Berengaria for a short business trip.

The New York Trust Company has been appointed agent for the issue of Interim certificates, representing $1,500,000 Durham Public Service Company of North Carolina extending mortgage 7 per cent. gold bonds, Series "A."

Curtis & Sanger have prepared for distribution to investors a list of municipal bonds yielding from 4.25 per cent. to 4.80 per cent.

Coombs, Kerr & Pratt have prepared for distribution to investors their June list of Investment Suggestions.

T. S. Schmeltzer & Co. announce that E. Randolph Knowlton has been admitted as a general partner in their firm.

APPROVES BANK CHANGES.

State Department Sanctions Two Branch Institutions.

Permission to open two new branch banks in the City of New York, to change the address of two other institutions, and to increase the capital of one trust company was granted in the past week by the State Banking Department.

The department authorized the Colonial Bank and the Colonial Bank Safe Deposit Company to open a branch office at the northeast corner of Broadway and 174th Street. Permission was granted to the Chemical Safe Deposit Company to open a branch at 377 Madison Avenue.

Peabody, Houghteling & Co., Inc., received permission to change the location of their office from 366 Madison Avenue to 32 Wall Street. The Bronx Borough Bank was authorized to change its place of business from 440 East Tremont Avenue to 464 and 466 East Tremont Avenue.

Application of the County Trust Company of White Plains to increase its capital stock from $150,000 to $200,000 was approved.

The Columbus Bank of 168 Grand Avenue received an authorization certificate. It has a capital stock of $200,000 and a surplus of $50,000. An organization certificate was filed with the department by the Liberty Credit Union of Brooklyn.

Prices of Closed Cars Put Up.

The Rickenbacker Motor Company has advanced the price of all closed models $60, according to reports in the financial district yesterday. Prices for open models remain unchanged.

REPORTS TRAFFIC DECLINE.

Pere Marquette Shows Decrease From Third Week in May, 1923.

Traffic over the Pere Marquette for the third week in May was below that of a year ago, according to the report made public yesterday. The Eastern traffic territory shows an increase of 11 per cent. in forwarded traffic, compared with a year ago, but received shipments are 6 per cent. less than a year ago, and the Grand Rapids territory shows a decrease of 8 per cent. in both inbound and outbound freight. The Detroit territory reports forwarded traffic 36 per cent. below a year ago, and inbound traffic 17 per cent. less than the same week in May, 1923.

The Buffalo Gateway reports a 12 per cent. decline in the movement of freight; Toledo is off about 15 per cent., and Chicago is down about 13 per cent., compared with last year's figures. Oil and merchandise movements were greater than for the same week of last year, while iron and steel movements were about the same.

Workers Get Interest on Bonds.

A total of 23,281 employes of the General Electric Company who have paid in full for $8,213,280 worth of General Electric Employes Securities Corporation bonds yesterday received $301,074 as interest on the bonds for the six months ended June 1. This sum does not include approximately $4,000,000 worth of the bonds now being purchased by General Electric Company employes on the instalment plan. These bonds pay 8 per cent. so long as the original holder remains in the employ of the company; otherwise the bonds pay 6 per cent.

TO DISCUSS RAIL PROBLEM.

Shippers Meet Today to Consider Equalization of Traffic.

A special committee of the Atlantic States Shippers' Advisory Board will meet in Philadelphia today to discuss the possibility of reducing slack and the peak business periods on the railroads of the United States.

Railroad officials appeared before the shippers' meeting May 8 and called attention to the great economic loss due to the fact that the railroads must maintain an enormous amount of equipment to handle peak freight movements, although it is not needed at any other time of the year. Two committees then were appointed, one to represent the shippers and the other the railway officials. Following the meeting in Philadelphia, today the railroad officials will meet and later the two committees will confer on their respective findings.

This will be the first time the shippers have given serious consideration to one of the large economic problems that has to do with the successful operation of the railroads. The committee will represent the shippers from the five Middle Atlantic States and its findings will be passed upon at the next meeting of the Shippers' Advisory Board.

Buffalo & Susquehanna Dividends.

Directors of the Buffalo & Susquehanna failed to declare the usual extra dividend of 2½ per cent. a quarter. The regular semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent. on the preferred stock and the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent. on the common stock were declared. Both are payable June 30 to stock of record on June 18.

JUNE CROP REPORT ADVANCES COTTON

Condition of 65.6 Compares With 71 Last Year and Is Lowest Except for 1920.

PRICES UP 11 TO 27 POINTS

The first official cotton report of the season showed a condition of 65.6 compared with 71 last year and a ten-year average for May 25 of 72.8. This is the lowest June report in the records of the department, with the single exception of 1920, when the condition was 62.4. As the trade had been looking for about 67, immediate effects on the market were active buying and a 60 to 70 point advance in prices. October sold from around 26.80 to 27.50 in five minutes. But when the showing failed to bring in general buying from sources outside the Exchange and the market ran into an increased supply of contracts at the higher level of values, afternoon liquidation caused a setback of three-quarters of a cent. Final trading occurred at lower quotations than those prevailing when the report appeared. The close was 11 to 27 points higher than Thursday.

While there was less than the usual quantity of orders in the market based upon the figure to be issued at 12 o'clock a considerable amount of cotton was wanted in the event of a showing under 67. The official report came so much below the average of most private figures that it became difficult to execute these orders owing to the limited supply of contracts available for a few minutes after the report was posted.

Final trading took place nearly $4 a bale below highest figures of the session. New crop positions in Liverpool not only recovered all the reaction earlier in the week but rose into new high ground for the movement. An order for 10,000 October at 26.80 prevented any recession below that figure for the first two hours of the day and all cotton for sale was readily absorbed about $2 a bale over previous closing levels.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

COTTON REPORT ALARMING.

E. E. Bartlett Jr. Sees Grave Peril to a Basic American Industry.

The unfavorable cotton crop report issued by the Department of Agriculture yesterday must be viewed with alarm by the cotton trade, in the opinion of Edward E. Bartlett Jr., President of the New York Cotton Exchange.

"Coming at a time when the world is nearly bare of raw cotton, such a report cannot but arouse the gravest apprehensions both here and in Europe," he said. "The trade as a whole is fearful of another severe boll weevil depredation, as Congress has done nothing so far to assist the South in fighting this most destructive of pests.

"Each year the damage from the weevil runs into a staggering sum and it has become the greatest economic leak in the American farming which is threatening one of the great basic industries of the nation. Until the Government awakens and takes heroic steps to combat this menace, America's supremacy in cotton raising will be jeopardized.

"The whole world is clamoring for cheaper cotton goods, but until we can get our crop back on a normal production basis the outlook is very unfavorable for lower prices for cotton and finished goods. While high priced cotton may benefit a few, it is bad for the cotton industry as a whole, and the sooner the Government realizes that the weevil is in a large measure responsible for the present high prices and takes effective action to check the pest the better it will be for all concerned."

GREENE-CANANEA COPPER.

The Greene-Cananea Copper Company reports gross earnings of $6,497,317 in 1923, against $2,494,130 in 1922, and a deficit of $155,932 after all expenses and charges, including depreciation, against a deficit of $1,450,646 in 1922.

W. D. Thornton, President, told stockholders the company produced 41,901,360 pounds of copper, 1,149,410 ounces of silver and 9,097 ounces of gold last year. The cost of refined copper, including all expenses chargeable against production, was 14.5164 cents a pound. Of this 1.477 cents per pound represented taxes and imposts paid in Mexico. The price received was 14.4103 cents a pound. The company is now operating on a restricted scale.

Buy Power Property.

Announcement was made yesterday that the North Carolina Public Service Company, Inc., one of the subsidiaries of the Consolidated Gas and Electric Corporation, has purchased outright all the property of the Piedmont Power and Light Company, operating in Gibsonville, Elon College, Burlington, Graham, Haw River, Melbane and adjacent territory in North Carolina. The acquisition of the Piedmont company follows the purchase by the same interests last February of the North Carolina Public Service Company.

New Wall Street News Service.

A new news service, The Wall Street Mirror, has been started in the financial district. The publishers and editors are Charles W. Storm and Arthur D. La Hines, both formerly on the financial staffs of local newspapers. The service will confine its activities to news developments in and affecting the stock market.

RECORD MAIL ORDER MAY.

Chicago House Reports Sales 72% Above May's of 1922.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Sales of Montgomery Ward & Co. for May were the largest for that month in the history of the company, totaling $11,085,079. Although this is not as large as the $13,736,602 reported for April, it is an increase of 2.68 per cent. over May, 1923, which in turn was 69.30 per cent. greater than for May, 1922.

Total sales for the first five months of the year aggregated $62,686,303, compared with $52,825,016 for the corresponding period last year, an increase of 18.67 per cent.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., on the other hand, made a less favorable showing, sales for May amounting to $16,318,121, a decrease of 11.03 per cent. compared with May last year, and sales for the first five months totaling $90,979,029, a decrease of 2.54 per cent. from the corresponding period of 1923.

GRAIN EXPORTS HOLD UP.

Canadian Grain in Transit Continues Large.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Exports of grain from the United States last week totaled 2,454,000 bushels, against 2,379,000 bushels for the previous week.

The Commerce Department today announced last week's exports compared with those of the previous week as follows: Barley 133,000 bushels against 277,000; corn 508,000 against 589,000; oats 55,000 against none; rye 1,193,000 against 1,139,000; wheat 662,000 against 374,000; total Canadian grains in transit 3,461,000 against 3,849,000 bushels; United States and Canadian wheat flour in transit 201,000 barrels against 649,000 barrels.

BUSINESS FAILURES IN MAY.

Number Is Larger Than a Year Ago, but Liabilities Are Less.

Business failures in the United States numbered 1,816 in May, according to a compilation by Dun's Review. The total compares with 1,707 suspensions in April and with 1,530 in May last year. Despite the large number of failures, however, liabilities aggregated $36,590,905 against $45,904,432 in April and $41,022,277 in May last year.

The monthly and quarterly report of business failures is contrasted below for this and last year, with the liabilities for 1924; also, the total for each quarter:

	Number.		Liabilities.
Jan.	2,108	2,126	$51,272,508
Feb.	1,730	1,508	35,942,037
March	1,817	1,683	97,651,026
First Quarter	5,655	5,316	$184,865,571
May	1,816	1,530	36,590,905

"A feature of the May returns" says the review, "is the falling off in large failures, those for $100,000 or more of indebtedness in each case numbering 29 and involving $15,237,425 altogether. The number of large failures in May, 1923, was 51, or 8 less than was reported last month, but the liabilities of the earlier period approximated $22,600,000, or $7,360,000 more than in the present instance."

UTILITY EARNINGS REPORTS.

North American Company Shows an Increase in Surplus.

The report of the North American Company and subsidiaries for the twelve months ended April 30, shows a surplus of $15,437,324 after taxes. Interest and preferred dividends, compared with a surplus of $12,644,414 in the previous year. This was an increase of $2,792,910, or 22.9 per cent., and is equivalent to $5.55 a share earned on common stock.

Net after taxes of $2,557,630, a decrease of $212,218 from the same period of last year, is shown in the statement of the Duquesne Light Company for the four months ended April 30. Net for April was $696,441, a decrease of $95,005 from April last year.

The Philadelphia Company reports April net income after taxes of $441,138, an increase of $11,457 from April last year, and for the four months net after taxes of $2,033,076, an increase of $434,549.

The Pittsburgh Railways Company earned a net after taxes of $273,487 in April, a decrease of $213,104, and in the four months net of $1,215,474, a decrease of $788,782.

GREAT RUSH OF PRODUCE.

Pennsylvania Leases Another Pier to Handle Perishable Goods.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has taken a ten-day lease on Old Dominion Line Pier 31 to facilitate the handling of perishable produce which is arriving in the New York market in a volume unprecedented even at this time of the year.

This gives the Pennsylvania Piers 27, 28, 29 and 31 on the New York side of the river and the new yards at Jersey City for delivery of perishable products. On Saturday the Pennsylvania handled 510 cars into New York City, of which 300 came over the New York piers and the remaining 210 were unloaded at Jersey City. Yesterday morning the railroad handled 504 cars of foodstuffs—325 on the New York piers and 179 on the Jersey meadows.

The shipments received yesterday morning included 79 car loads of strawberries.

Most of the Outstanding Paper Is Deposited With Bankers.

Wilson & Co. paid the semi-annual interest yesterday on the convertible 6 per cent. bonds, due June 1. Approximately $13,500,000 of these bonds are now in the hands of the public, and the interest payment amounts to slightly more than $400,000.

Approximately 85 per cent. of the paper outstanding with bankers and creditors has been deposited with the bankers' committee under an agreement to extend payment for six months. The remaining creditors, it was said, are gradually agreeing to deposit their paper under the plan. The bankers are still working upon a plan of refinancing.

DRAW ON GASOLINE STOCKS

Western petroleum refiners again drew heavily on their gasoline stocks during the week of May 24, despite an increase in production, according to figures compiled by the Western Petroleum Refiners Association, which includes 133 refineries in the Mid-continent fields, with a capacity of handling 481,850 barrels of crude oil daily.

Surplus stocks were reduced by 2,393,192 gallons in the week under review, bringin stock on May 24 down to 142,210,000 gallons on May 17.

Two North Dakota Banks Reopen.

BISMARCK, N.D., June 2.—Reopening of the State Bank of Hannah, in Cavalier County, and the Michigan City Bank of Michigan City, was announced today by the State Examiner, Gilbert Semingson. The banks suspended late last year.

WHEAT OFF 3 CENTS FROM AN EARLY HIGH

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Traders who have been bullish on wheat on the belief that Congress would pass some sort of farm legislation became discouraged today when messages were received indicating that Congress would adjourn June 7, and sold out. The result was a break of 2½@3 cents from the early top in the face of decidedly bullish news. Net losses were 1½@2¼ cents, with numerous stop-loss orders uncovered on the way down.

Private reports suggested a total wheat crop for this country of 733,000,000 bushels, including 185,000,000 bushels of Spring, and showed 53,000,000 bushels less than last year's harvest, of which 213,000,000 bushels was Spring. A decrease of about 13 per cent. shown in the Spring wheat acreage, brings the total down to around 16,300,000 acres, the smallest since 1907.

In addition the Canadian Northwest is now complaining of dry weather, and heavy damage is indicated in the Pacific Coast States due to drought and hot weather. However, the finish was about the bottom.

A decrease of 1,555,000 bushels in the visible supply brought the total down to 43,111,000 bushels, against 44,666,000 the previous week and 32,961,000 last year. Primary arrivals for the day were 1,055,000 bushels, against 780,000 a week ago and 1,023,000 last year. Shipments were 513,000 bushels a week ago, 541,000; last year, 406,000.

Export demand was entirely for Manitobas with estimates of 1,500,000 bushels sold Saturday and today. No. 2 hard Winter at the Gulf was on a full working basis, as compared with No. 2 Manitobas at Montreal at the last. Winnipeg July went to 1¾ cents over Chicago at the last, while Kansas City July was 9½ under this market at one time.

Corn held within relatively narrow limits and closed unchanged to ⅞ cent lower, December showing the most strength. Cash demand is slow, with No. 2 mixed ¼@½ cent over July.

A private report suggested an increase of 3.5 per cent. in the acreage with the condition 3.2 points below normal, but no figures were given. Trade on the whole was not large, with moderate buying of the December on reports of rather unfavorable weather in some sections of the belt.

In the visible supply there was a decrease of 964,000 bushels for the week, making the total 12,288,000 bushels, against 13,252,000 last week and 6,734,000 last year. Primary arrivals for the day were 1,587,000 bushels, against 705,000 a week ago and 736,000 last year. Shipments were 506,000 bushels; week ago, 512,000; last year, 782,000.

Oats closed ⅛@⅜ cent lower with private reports suggesting an increase of 2.4 to 5.8 per cent. in the acreage indicating a crop of 1,252,000,000 to 1,338,000,000 bushels, compared with 1,300,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Cash Grains Decline Sharply—Spot Cotton and Lard Improve—Firmness Elsewhere.

Weakness in the cash grains, following an equally heavy market for the contract grades, featured yesterday's trading in spot staples, wheat dropping 3 cents, to $1.21, and corn, 1 cent, to 95¼ cents. On a bullishly interpreted cotton crop estimate, spot cotton advanced 10 points to 32.75 cents, with sympathetic improvement in Middle West lard which improved 20 points to 10.95@11.05 cents. Elsewhere, markets ruled evenly and without variations from Saturday's values.

Following are the cash prices for the principal commodities in the wholesale market at the close of business Monday, a week before, and a year ago:

CAN'T GRANT LEASES ON INDIAN OIL LANDS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Attorney General Stone has decided, in an opinion just rendered to the Secretary of the Interior, that the Federal Government has no authority to lease mineral lands on "Executive order Indian reservations" under the general leasing law of 1920, which has figured so prominently in the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills oil reservations debate in the Senate.

The Attorney General's decision follows the action of Secretary Work in suspending last February the issuance of permits on these Indian lands under the Leasing act, and asking the Attorney General for a legal interpretation of the question. At present there are between 400 and 500 applications for oil, gas and other permits on executive order reservations pending in the General Land Office of the Department of the Interior.

The adverse opinion of the Attorney General will result in the automatic rejection of these applications.

Falls 16 Stories to His Death.

Nicholas Dydykeinch, 25 years old, of 199 Henry Street, fell yesterday morning to the sidewalk from the sixteenth floor of the building at 53 East Twenty-fifth Street, where he was cleaning a window, and was killed. The sidewalk, usually crowded, was without pedestrians for quite a distance.

FIND BULLET HOLES IN TAXI.

Police Arrest Driver Who Says Two Men Held Him Up in the Bronx.

After he admitted to the police that he tried to obliterate five bullet marks in the taxicab he operated, Frank Sullivan, 341 West Fifty-first Street, was arraigned in the Morrisania Court yesterday on a charge of robbery. Magistrate William Sweetser held him without bail for examination tomorrow.

Two armed men entered a delicatessen at 774 Westchester Avenue, the Bronx, late Sunday night and ordered Samuel Schneider to hand over the money in the cash register. Schneider threw a chair at the two men, who fled to the street, jumped into a waiting taxicab and sped away. Schneider called to Policeman Huth of Traffic A, who started in pursuit. He fired five shots, but the taxicab escaped.

Early yesterday Sullivan walked into the West Forty-seventh Street Station and told the police that two men had held him up at Trinity and Westchester Avenues in the Bronx and forced him to drive them around the city. Detective Arthur Sackett discovered bullet holes in the rear of the cab, which had been partly hidden. He then arrested Sullivan.

Woman Sentenced as Swindler.

Mrs. Lilly Piasecka, 36 years old, said to be connected with the Polish nobility, was sentenced to from six months to three years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge McIntyre on her conviction of swindling more than twenty persons of foreign birth by pretending to be a doctor. The woman had an elaborately furnished apartment at 945 East Fourteenth Street, which she used as an office as well as a home.

MICROPHONE FOR COURT.

Engineers Tell Judge Talley How to Overcome Poor Acoustics.

Engineers from the Western Electric Company yesterday told Judge Talley of General Sessions that the only manner in which the poor acoustics of the eight branches of the court could be improved would be by the installation of a microphone near the witness chair to convey testimony through tube amplifiers and horn, such as are used on radio sets, to the jury box.

Judge Talley had been trying to devise a means of overcoming noises from the streets surrounding the Criminal Courts Building. The engineers reported that the company would be willing to install the apparatus in one of the courtrooms as an experiment. The cost, they said, would be about $1,200 for each room.

Five Years for Stealing Ring.

Max Farbish of 542 West 179th Street, Manhattan, who until last March was President of the Richmond Hill Board of Trade, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Humphrey in the Queens County Court to not less than five years in Sing Sing for stealing a diamond ring valued at $175 from Boris Winokur, a Richmond Hill jeweler.

Minnesota Daily Star Is Sold.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 2.—Sale of the plant, building and good will of the Minnesota Daily Star for $150,000 to a new corporation organized by John Thompson, Thomas Van Lear, H. D. Bratter and associates, was confirmed today by Judge H. D. Dickinson.

Gray Goods Trading Limited.

Not much trading was done in the local gray goods market yesterday, but prices continued firm at recent levels. Some business was put through in 38½-inch 64-60 printcloths at 5¾ cents for July shipment, and it was said that this price was the best that could be had for early shipment. Some trading in 39-inch 68-72s took place at 10¾ cents, with 10¾ cents bid and refused for that construction. For 38½-inch 60-48s, 7¾ cents was the best that could be done in the sheetings there was some trading in 36-inch 5.50s at 6 cents and in five-yard goods of that width at 6 cents. Buyers of 6.10-yard sheetings could do no better than 7¼ cents, while 37-inch 4.40-yard, four-yard goods moved at 10¾ cents. Sales of pajama checks included 72-80s at 11¼ cents. The rest of the market lacked feature.

Light Preparations by Mills.

The women's wear mills so far, in accordance with the light advance business placed with them by the cutters, have done little in the way of making up goods for Fall. They saw no wisdom in piling up stocks, and the general situation at present is held to be that the mills have put not more than 20 to 25 per cent. of their normal Fall volume in work. The mill opinion is that the cloak labor disturbance will not be of long duration and it is held that, immediately upon the labor storm clearing, there will be considerable of a rush by the cutters to buy piece goods. Just what effect this may have on goods prices has not yet been made clear. There are rumors of advances by the mills. In fact, one mill has already advanced the price of one of its cashmere type fabrics from $2.75 to $3.25 per yard.

Fur Demand is Steady.

Although a steady demand continues in this market for furs suitable for making up into Fall and Winter articles, it is generally lacking in feature. About as interesting as anything is the reported increase in the sale of ordinary house cats which, it is said, are being skinned and dyed into one of the many imitations of seal. Some buying of Southern muskrat is reported, and the same is true of opossum. The call for "rats" suitable for seal dyeing is apparently not all it usually is at this time of the year, but the belief exists in some quarters that the demand will improve with the advancing season. The sale of raccoon, which has been a good article in the last several seasons, was said yesterday to be none too good, with most of the activity seen in the skins suitable for use in the cheaper lines of coats. Business in the so-called fancy furs is also limited, although the sale of Russian sable for choker purposes is reported by one of the prominent concerns.

Retail Ideas on Pile Coatings.

Quite a diversity of opinion is shown in the results of a questionnaire recently sent to many of the large retail stores asking for their views as to what coating would lead for Fall. In a large number of the replies, however, the belief was expressed that the woman consumer has tired of the bolivia type and is looking for "something new." Many thought this is supplied in the new dull finished cashmere weaves. Others, however, did not feel so certain, and several executives representing some well known stores out-of-town said they still believe in the vogue of the high lustre cloths. In wholesale circles, there are manufacturers who are pinning their faith to the bolivias, and even for higher priced coats are understood to be buying the fabrics at the comparatively low prices at which they are now selling.

Complain of Credit Reports.

Considerable complaint has been heard here of late regarding the answers given to firms making credit inquiries concerning buyers seeking to place first orders with them. These inquiries are made of competing firms which have previously sold goods to the buyer in question, and the replies frequently indicate that the financial standing and payment habits of the buyer are not good enough to warrant the extension of credit to him by the inquiring firm. Later it is often found that these assertions are untrue, and that the only apparent reason for them is a desire on the part of the answering house to scare off the inquiring concern, in the hope of getting the proffered order itself. Sometimes the answer is that the buyer inquired about has placed only one order with the house given by him as a reference and that, therefore, it is impossible to give a report that would be fair to all concerned. In one case it later turned out that the buyer had been dealing for more than four years with the house which made such a reply.

Some Dresses Are Selling.

Although the dress business, on the whole, has been about as bad this season as it has been for many years, there are certain lines that are moving quite well at the moment. Among them are dresses regarded more or less as specialities, such as wedding gowns and graduation frocks. Of the two, the latter have been the more active, although reports from some quarters indicate that movements in various parts of the country to simplify commencement apparel, especially in connection with public schools, have had their effect on business. In the higher priced general lines of dresses, the approach of the vacation season has brought about a growing demand for evening gowns. Most of them are made up in blues, greens, yellows and other "Summery" shades, but at the same time there is no denying the strong position occupied by evening dresses made of black chantilly lace.

Views on the Next Season.

In a group discussion of the prospects facing the garment trade for the Fall season which took place at the Garment Centre Capitol yesterday there seemed quite general agreement that the Fall season, aside from the questions involved in the labor situation, would be a difficult one. The tone of the discussion was far from pessimistic, but that there would be a change from the buying methods of the retailer during the past six months was not thought likely by those participating. It was agreed that the lack of anything like speculation in piece goods and the cautious cutting policy of the manufacturers would again be most helpful. In one instance, however, comment was made that the coming season would see the survival of the fittest and the rejoinder was that this "was a consummation devoutly to be hoped for."

***

Early Fall Dress Trends.

Among the few changes indicated so far in the Fall dress style trend is the swing to long sleeves on the leg of mutton or modified bishop sleeve order. From the elbow down the sleeves are tight to the wrist. The silhouette, it appears, will continue of the straight-line type. In silk dresses crepe satin is agreed upon as a probable leader in the better grade merchandise. Beaded effects, generally, are thought to have good chances of once more having a marked vogue. The Parisian couturiers are featuring lavish beaded ornamentation. The outlook for tailored dresses is considered good. Reps and bengalines are fabrics that will be used by some of the leading dress houses, in addition to the lustrous worsteds.

More Summer Reorders Expected.

Wholesalers here expect considerable reordering yet of women's Summer apparel, particularly dresses and accessories. The season is admittedly backward because of the unsettled weather which has postponed consumer purchases and hence reorders from retailers. Thus the wholesalers stand to get their May reorder business during the early part of June and it is the impression in the trade that the next two weeks will be fairly active. Some dress wholesalers have pushed back the date of their Fall openings on the strength of this belief. The indications are, however, that the wholesale season in Summer dresses will be practically ended by about the middle of June with the Fall showings following immediately thereafter.

Absorbs Underwear Concern.

Announcement was made yesterday that the Amawalk Knitting Corporation, Utica, N. Y., has absorbed the firm of Charles H. Shedaker & Sons of Philadelphia, manufacturers of men's and women's athletic underwear. The Shedaker business was established in 1873, the firm first making shirts and jean drawers. About 1900 it began the manufacture of athletic underwear, being one of the first in the field. In 1912 the firm began to make athletic union suits for men, and in 1916 for women. The concern's brands have been widely advertised. Taking over the Shedaker firm, Rodney Wilcox Jones, President of the Amawalk Knitting Corporation, said yesterday, marks the entrance of the latter into the athletic underwear field. He said the Shedaker business would be operated as a unit, the individual brands being still continued. A line of boy's and children's union suits will be added, together with children's waist suits.

BAKERS HOLD AN EXHIBITION

The National Bakery Exhibition was opened yesterday afternoon at the armory of the 106th Infantry Regiment, Bedford and Atlantic Avenues, Brooklyn, with a speech of welcome by Borough President Edward Riegelmann. Hundreds of booths have been erected in the armory and many widely-known concerns connected with the baking and confectionary industries will demonstrate their goods throughout the week.

One of the features of the exhibition is a "model neighborhood bakery," where bread, rolls and cakes are made. In the centre of the exposition floor a huge tower made of bread has been erected. Prizes for the most delectable and most artistic pieces of pastry and for the most economical loaf of bread will be awarded during the week. Today is "Ladies' Day" and "Jersey Day." The wives of the bakers have arranged a trip to Coney Island. The convention of the New York State Association of Manufacturing Retail Bakers will open this afternoon.

SAVE 2 WESTCHESTER LINES

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 2.—When the residents of Silver Lake Park and Scarsdale realized that the order of Supreme Court Justice Morschauser directing the discontinuance of the trolley lines from White Plains to those villages would go into effect today and the tracks would be torn up, there were hurried consultations. The authorities of Silver Lake agreed to an increase of fare from six to ten cents to White Plains and from ten to twenty cents to Harrison. The Village of Scarsdale arranged for an increase through some forest.

Now the only line to be abandoned is that from White Plains to Mamaroneck.

Railroad Grants Wage Rise.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 2.—A wage increase ranging from 30 to 86 cents a day to conductors, switchmen and brakemen, was granted today by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company, according to an announcement received here from the general offices at Richmond, Va. The increase is retroactive to May 1. This action was in line with an increase given to engineers and firemen recently.

Four Months for Attempted Fraud.

Found guilty of disorderly conduct on complaint of H. B. Hedges of London, staying at the Hotel McAlpin, who alleged they had attempted to swindle him out of $200, Alfred Stokes, 43 years old, of 207 West 126th Street, and James Russell, 40 years old, of 120 West Eighty-second Street, were sentenced to four months each in the workhouse in Westside Court yesterday.

WARNS WORKERS TO SPEED OUTPUT

High Wages and Living Standards Depend on Production, Says L. E. Pierson.

A warning to the workers of America to increase production and do away with "unnecessary restrictions" if the present high wages and high standards of living are to be maintained, was voiced yesterday by Lewis E. Pierson, President of the Merchants' Association and Chairman of the Board of the Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Company. It was uttered at a luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria, which opened a three-day convention of the National Music Industries Convention.

"There is much disagreement upon the meaning of each new development abroad," said Mr. Pierson, "but upon one matter there seems to be rather general agreement. This is that, as an aftermath of the war, the great nations of Europe have radically lowered their standards of living and are more and more accepting this lower standard of living as the basis of their industrial operations.

"Europe's acceptance of lower standards must have a tremendous bearing upon the world business and mean a decrease in Europe's producing power. Similarly, lower standards of living in Europe mean lower wages for European workers and lower production costs for European factories.

"These facts are filled with tremendous significance for the industries of America. Our own standards of living have steadily raised during the last ten years. The American workman is today living better than ever before. Our country has not suffered the demoralization of industry which the war brought to Europe and thus far we have seen no reason why we should make any endeavor to accustom ourselves to the changed conditions abroad.

"High taxes, high rents, high prices and high wages are both the causes and effects of our present industrial condition. But more and more business leaders are asking themselves whether it is possible for the industries of the United States to continue on this basis when all other nations are tightening their belts and definitely reshaping themselves to lower standards of living. Yet in the face of world conditions to which I have referred, America appears to be making no serious effort to increase its productivity in order to maintain the standards of living to which America has grown accustomed.

"American industry cannot pay high wages to American workmen unless American workmen are willing to produce enough each day to justify these wages. It cannot pay high wages to American workmen if in addition to paying its producing workers, it is forced through taxes to pay the salaries of vast numbers of non-producers carried on Government payrolls.

"Industry, in short, cannot continue to maintain American standards of living unless it is permitted to maintain its productivity unhampered by ill-considered legislation and unnecessary restrictions on the processes of industry."

Representatives of 150 piano manufacturing concerns throughout the country were entertained at dinner at the Hotel Majestic last night by the Ampico Technical Society.

George W. Foster, President of the American Piano Company, and its officers entertained 800 delegates at the performance of "Kid Boots" last night. There was a dance at the Hotel Biltmore after the theatre.

There will be business sessions today and tomorrow, with the annual dinner tomorrow night.

LATEST DEALINGS IN REALTY FIELD

BROUGHT UNDER $1,000,000

Trading was light on yesterday's real estate market, activity being featured by a few apartment house deals. The ten-story apartment house at 545 and 547 Madison Avenue, southeast corner of Fifty-fifth Street, has been sold by Harsey & Van Duser, who bought it when it was completed by the late James A. Farley. The building occupies a plot 50 by 82 feet. It was sold for under $1,000,000. The seller takes back a lease for a long term on his own apartment in the building.

Rose-Saffir sold to a client of Berley & Co. 216 and 218 East Ninety-second Street, a six-story new-law building, on a lot, 6 by 100, containing thirty-three apartments and four stores, renting for $12,080.

William Goldstone and Simon Myers purchased from Jane Elkov 218 and 220 East Forty-fifth Street, on a plot 50 by 100, two five-story tenements, with store, renting for over $3,000. The purchasers own a plot 185 by 100 adjoining on the west. With this purchase they now own a plot 225 by 100 feet.

Butler & Baldwin, Inc., in conjunction with A. V. Amy & Co., sold for the Aragon Holding Corporation, A. Morris Levy, President, to Benjamin T. Hoagland the two five-story and basement apartment houses, on a plot 75 by 100, at 15 and 17 West Eighty-fourth Street, adjoining Central Park West. The property rents for about $37,000 and was held at $165,000. J. L. & R. W. Davis were associated as brokers.

Percival Corn sold 1,062 Lexington Avenue, adjoining the southwest corner of Seventy-fifth treet, a four-story and basement apartment, held at $55,000. This was the first sale in about forty years. William Schacht was the broker.

Walzer & Sommer resold the flat at 115 West 114th Street, acquired a few days ago, to a Mr. Haft. The property rents for $7,000, and was held at $42,000. Emanuel Shaff was the broker.

Oscar D. and Herbert V. Dike have sold, to a client 528 East 109th Street, a five-story tenement with store, having four families on each floor. It has been resold.

Mrs. Jennie Adams sold the southwest corner of 140th Street, on Eighth Avenue, to an investing client of John M. Royall. The property was held at $125,000. The new owner intends making additional stores on the 140th Street side.

Joseph Sager, operator, purchased from Mary M. Okkerse and Anna Graffen a five-story apartment house at 267 West 113th Street. The building stands on a plot 35 by 100 by 100.11 feet, arranged into two seven-room apartments on each floor. It rents for $3,000 and was held for $55,000. O. Rose was the broker.

David Lion and Theodore Yankauer, operators, sold the five-and-a-half-story flat, 308 West 100th Street, near Columbus Avenue. It was an all-cash transaction. The broker in the transaction was Joseph D. Curley.

Buys Stable to Protect Apartment Light.

James B. Duke's Durham Realty Corporation has bought the three-story stable on plot 75 by 100.5 at 202 to 206 West Fifty-eighth Street, owned for nearly twenty-five years by Ada S. Moore.

The stable was valued at $225,000. Mr. Duke owns the adjoining twelve-story apartment house at the southeast corner of Seventh Avenue, which he acquired from the builder, Dr. Charles V. Paterno, upon its completion more than ten years ago.

Elias A. Jaller sold for M. May to an investing client 963 Columbus Avenue, 25 by 100, a five-story apartment house, two families on a floor, renting for $7,000 and held at $50,000. The same broker sold for May S. Gilbert the six-story new-law house at 474 East Seventieth Street, twenty-eight families and three stores on plot 38 by 100, renting for $3,320 and held for $60,000.

AVENUE A PURCHASE.

Operators Are Buyers of Block Front From Brewers.

Nathan Wilson and Louis Kramer, operators, are the buyers of the block front on Avenue A running from Ninety-first to Ninety-second Street, with fifty feet of waterfront. It is covered by a one and two story brick building which is suitable for a garage, manufacturing, stable, wet wash laundry, &c. The property contains approximately 24,000 square feet and adjoins the Astoria Ferry. Negotiations are pending for a resale and a long-term lease. It was held at $150,000 and is free and clear.

$1,300,000 Loan for Loft.

According to the records, the New York Title and Mortgage Company is lending $1,300,000 on property at 247-263 West Thirty-seventh Street, where it is proposed to erect an eighteen-plot are the Number 251 West Thirty-seventh Street Corporation.

New Company Acquiring Property.

Sells Old Tenth Street House.

Arthur E. Wood, as broker, has sold 278 West Tenth Street, a four-story house, 27.8 by 92, for the Walter N. Wood estate. The broker's great-grandfather, Richard Amos, bought the property, together with an adjoining lot, on March 25, 1788.

$750,000 Loan Placed.

Hewson, Wolfe & Co. have negotiated a loan of $750,000 secured by first mortgage on the fifteen-story and basement cooperative apartment at 139 to 143 West Fifty-fifth Street. This building was completed a few years ago by Fred T. Ley & Co., and is unique in that there is an attractive swimming pool in the basement for the use of the owners and tenants.

Y. M. C. A. Buys in Bay Ridge.

The Young Men's Christian Association purchased for a new branch the old Knemeyer homestead, at the northeast corner of Fourth Avenue and Senator Street, opposite the Bay Ridge High School. The site measures 134 feet on the avenue and 157 feet on the street.

GREAT NECK AUCTION.

The first parcel, a block of three lots fronting on North Hempstead Turnpike adjoining the McNulty property, was sold for $825 a lot. Several lots on the opposite corner, fronting on North Hempstead Turnpike, brought $850 a lot. David Scheldon, a Brooklyn builder, bought thirty-three lots fronting on the Turnpike at an average of $600 per lot. Some of the unrestricted lots, fronting on the Turnpike on the very far end of the property and suitable for business purposes, brought as high as $1,000 apiece.

The majority of the buyers were residents from Great Neck, Manhasset, Roslyn and Port Washington who realized the value of the property being offered.

The remaining 210 lots are to be offered at a continuation sale to be held next Saturday, June 7, at Vigilant Fire Hill at the Great Neck railroad station at 8 P. M.

BUYING IN THE SUBURBS.

New Owner for Colonial Home in Flushing.

J. J. Hart sold through the Halleran Agency the Colonial house in course of construction on the east side of Twenty-first Street, 100 feet north of Cypress Avenue, Flushing, on a plot 60 by 100 feet. The purchaser is Caroline M. Lawlor, who will occupy.

The property 519-521 Van Cortlandt Park Avenue, Yonkers, owned by Elizabeth Herbold, was sold through Thomas S. Burke to Julia Emerson. The building is of frame construction and contains four apartments. It is situated on a plot 50 by 116 feet.

J. Clarence Davies, Inc., sold at Sunny Brae, Bronxville, Westchester County, the east side of Locust Lane, 100 feet south of Sturgis Street, a vacant plot 100 by 100 feet, to Joseph Gooch Jr.

HOSPITAL BUYS.

William C. Smith sold to the Lenox Hill Hospital, which owns the greater portion of the block bounded by Park and Lexington Avenues, Seventy-sixth and Seventy-seventh Streets, the two five-story flats at 121-127 East Seventy-sixth Street, on a plot 64.8 by 102. This is the first sale of the property since 1868.

The hospital had no definite plans for the reimprovement of the site but acquired it to meet possible future demands for additional buildings.

Bronx Borough Sales.

Arthur Herzog sold for A. Menken, 1,159 and 1,161 Clay Avenue, a six-story apartment house, 44 by 100 feet, held at $48,000. He also sold to an investor, (J. W. Cavenaugh), 1,185 and 1,187 Clay Avenue, a six-story apartment house, 44 by 100 feet, for all cash. Richard Dixon was the broker.

Arthur Herzog also bought 3,430 Park Avenue, 25 by 100 feet, an apartment house, for all cash. Otto Lackman was broker.

Elias A. Jaller sold for the London Realty Company the Goldhill Court, 827 Union Avenue, a six-story elevator-apartment house, five families on a floor, size 80 by 105 feet, renting for $25,320 and held at $145,000.

Seward Ehrich Leases Plot.

Seward Ehrich, who recently acquired the lease on 50 East Fifty-seventh Street, has added to his holdings on that block by obtaining a twenty-one year lease on 117 East Fifty-seventh Street. This property was acquired by the Alliance Realty Company early in April, who resold it to the present owner about a month ago, so that the present transaction, which was negotiated by Cushman & Wakefield, Inc., represents the third deal involving the property in question within the last two months. Mr. Ehrich contemplates making extensive alterations which he will begin immediately.

Lessee Purchases Bronx Corner.

Tenant Buys Building.

The New York Linen Supply and Laundry Company, present tenant in one of the buildings, has purchased from Julia F. Karsch, the three brick structures, each on plot 75 by 100.8, at 311-327 East Ninety-fourth Street, between First and Second Avenues.

The purchasing company expects to occupy all of this space when existing leases, which have some years to run, expire.

Business Properties.

The estate of J. H. Martin sold to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cella, the building at 70 Cortlandt Street. J. Arthur Fischer was the broker.

Cleary, Goldsmith & Glynn, Inc., have sold for Frederick Lang, 266-268 East Seventy-fourth Street, 25 by 80, a business building held at $35,000.

WHAT IS YOUR PROBLEM?

A training in accountancy is the key that will open the doors of opportunity to any worthwhile business position.

You can obtain a knowledge of accountancy in a comparatively short time if you have reached the point where you feel determined enough to apply yourself.

Investigate the LaSalle Problem Method of training for positions in the important field of Accountancy. This method eliminates the need for classroom attendance and does not in any way interfere with your present business duties.

LEAVES HER GOWNS AT PIER.

Woman Refuses to Pay $700 Duty on Eight Paris Creations.

Rather than pay $700 duty on eight Parisian gowns, Mrs. Fay Rickerson of 735 South Oak Drive, Los Angeles, who conducts a women's wear shop there, gave them to the United States Government.

Mrs. Rickerson arrived on the Berengaria last Saturday, wearing an expensive gown and carrying the other eight in her luggage. Deputy Surveyor John F. O'Connor noticed Mrs. Rickerson's gown and asked her where she had bought it. She replied that it had been bought in Los Angeles prior to her trip abroad, but when O'Connor pressed further, insisting that it was a late Paris creation, Mrs. Rickerson seemed at a loss for an answer. Then O'Connor opened her baggage and found the other eight gowns and he held them for the inspection of the legal division yesterday.

On the prize gown of the lot, which had attracted O'Connor's attention, Mrs. Rickerson was willing to pay $525, but the others she left with the customs men.

Giant Dirigible Will Sail Over Metropolis on Way to the Albany Celebration.

TO PAY BUFFALO A VISIT

Theodore Roosevelt, Who Had Hoped to Make the Trip, Disappointed by Press of Business.

New Yorkers and residents in a dozen other cities of this State, Pennsylvania and New Jersey will have an opportunity to see the Shenandoah in flight today, if weather conditions permit. The giant dirigible will leave Lakehurst at 8 A. M. and fly to Albany, in connection with the Tercentenary Celebration at the Capital City. She is due over New York about 10 A. M.

LAKEHURST, N. J., June 2.—The giant dirigible Shenandoah will take off on a twenty-hour cruise at 8 A. M. tomorrow.

It was planned to have Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt make the trip, but Commander Zachary Lansdowne late this afternoon received word from Washington that an unusual press of business would detain him at the capital.

The Shenandoah is scheduled to be over New York City about 10 o'clock and reach Albany about 1 P. M. She will cruise over Albany for an hour or more before continuing on to Buffalo, where she should arrive about 7 P. M. If all goes well, she should be back at Lakehurst about 4 A. M. Wednesday. If re-routing becomes necessary because of thunderstorms, the trip may consume several more hours.

SARATOGA

AMONG the natural wonders of the world and rivalling the most famous of the European spas, the mineral springs at Saratoga are a unique resource of New York State.

Every year these popular health-giving springs attract countless thousands who find in the sparkling waters both enjoyment and renewed health. One of the most delicious and healthful is

GEYSER

This spring water is charged by nature with carbonic acid gas, which gives a delightful tangy taste and is an excellent aid for a feeble digestion.

Your Voice So Clear you can't believe your ears!

When your own voice comes back to you from the New Model 10, you will say what the others say. They try to see how faintly they can speak to it. They try experiments, to hear how sensitive this new voice recorder is. So many called it the "super-sensitive" recorder that we adopted the term.

Do you want to hear it yourself? We want you to. We know your secretary will be delighted with it. Do you want to know what a relief it is to reel off your letters and instructions like free, easy, natural conversation? No effort.

"But how can I get a chance?" you ask. That question shows you are a live wire.

That question, coming on the phone to us and in daily letters from wide-awake managers, keeps us busy planning demonstrations,—demonstrations that enable you to convince yourself, without cost or obligation.

People with an inferiority complex, who let everyone get the jump on them, won't hear this New Model 10 for some time. But people with the urge toward progressiveness, who know the value of signing a coupon, will not nurse patience one day.

They will give everybody who wants to do more and better work a chance to discover the usefulness of the Natural Voice Supersensitive Recorder and the other sensational improvements—the Automatic Ejector, the See-it-quick Scale Bar, the Jot-it-quick Pad and Holder.

'Phone us, if you hate the slow mail and the systematic coupon. Name the day and hour when it will be convenient for you to see a New Model 10 in your office, to show you and your people how it can save time, money and worry. 'Phone us now—BEEKMAN 8540.

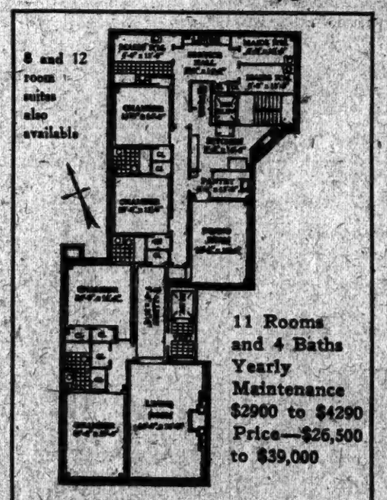
THIS is the only 100% cooperative building on such a corner showing 11 room and 4 bath suites available for October 1924 occupancy.

1040 Park Avenue

Northwest Corner of Eighty-Sixth Street
One Block from Subway Express Stop

100% Cooperative



11 Rooms and 4 Baths
Yearly Maintenance $2900 to $4290
Price—$26,500 to $39,000

Apartments like these are planned for owner occupancy and must evidence greater consideration for living comfort. Note the dimensions of this eleven room and four bath suite. Note the ingenious separation of masters' and service rooms. Yet the maintenance costs on this apartment will run but $2900 a year. Compare with neighboring rentals.
